Nixon, De Gaulle's Talks Kept Secret

COMBINED AP & UPI

PARIS — Presidents Nixon and de Gaulle held six hours of talks "in a good atmosphere" today on the deep split dividing the United States and France on world issues.

As the two Chief Executives concluded their meetings in Trianon Palace at Versailles outside Paris, thousands of Communist workers and students poured into the central Place de la Republique and filled the air with cries of "Nixon assassin," and "Nixon Liberate Vietnam."

The formal meetings of the two Presidents began in the morning with a warm handshake, went on through a lunch of fish and roast lamb, and continued into the late afternoon.

The meeting of the two chiefs was expanded late this morning to 16 persons. On the American side these included Secretary of State William P. Rogers; Ambassador Sargent Shriver; Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, the President's assistant for national security, and M. J. Hillen Brand, assistant secretary of state for European affairs.

On the French side there were Prime Minister Maurice Couve de Murville; Foreign Minister Michel Debre; Herve Alphand, secretary general of the Foreign Ministry; Charles Lucet, ambassador to the United States, and Bernard Tricot, secretary general at the Elysee Palace.

Specific details of their talks were not disclosed. But the friendly atmosphere was emphasized.

REDS TURN OUT

As the President drove back into Paris in chill, raw weather about 30,000 persons started filing in the Place de la Republique in answer to calls from the Communist Party and the National Union of French Students. Thousands of riot police ringed the area, and others threw up barriers around the U.S. Embassy just in case.

The demonstrators marched through the streets around the central square with a big Viet Cong flag at their head.

Nixon was repaying De Gaulle for a state banquet yesterday with a less formal dinner tonight at the residence of U.S. Ambassador Sargent Shriver.

WAITING FOR CHAT

In the embassy, a cross-section of French private citizens, mostly leaders in their respective fields, were assembling to chat with Nixon.

His visit to Trianon, outside Paris on the grounds of Versailles Palace, was the climactic session that could make or break the five-nation tour that will end tomorrow with a visit to Pope Paul VI in the Vatican.

A crowd of several hundred gathered outside the palace grounds as Nixon started the short drive back to Paris and clustered so thick around the limousine it had to stop.

Nixon got out and clambered

GOOD MORNING, SUN!

Jackie Keegan of Novato, a student at Sonoma State College, gladly greets the early morning sun on Fourth Street in San Rafael as she prepares to enjoy what the weatherman has promised will be a sunny weekend. In February's finale yesterday and last night, rain fell sporadically, sometimes with force, throughout the county, with some of the heaviest cloudbursts coming while adjacent cities were clear.

Girl Found Dead; Drugs Suspected

Three Held After Aid Called To Motel Room

A 16-year-old girl died early today, possibly of an overdose of drugs, and three youths were being held without bail in Marin County Jail in connection with the death.

The dead girl was identified as Willeen Harper of San Francisco.

Being held in connection with her death were William John Helms, 20, of 70 Wellington Avenue, San Anselmo; Curtis Lynn Ross, 18, of House 17, San Quentin, and Stephen Carl Ellsworth, 20, of 805 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

Corte Madera police were called about 2 a.m. today after an ambulance was dispatched to the Meadowsweet Motel, 794 Tamalpais Drive, to pick up the girl, according to Sgt. Charles Rester. Rester said one of the youths may have called the ambulance.

Miss Harper was pronounced dead at Marin General Hospital by Deputy County Coroner Richard W. Madigan.

NEEDLE FOUND

Police said a bottle of what appeared to be a type of morphine used by the medical profession was found in the motel room, along with a hypodermic needle.

Police said the girl's death may have been caused by an overdose of the suspected morphine or from methamphetamine or a combination of both. An autopsy was scheduled today at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael, Madigan said.

SIMILAR CASE

Madigan said the case appeared to be similar to the September death of Richard Kenneth Yager, 20, of 367 Chapman Drive, following what police said was apparently a drug party.

The three youths found in the motel today were booked on suspicion of statutory rape, being under the influence of narcotics and conspiracy. Helms was also booked on suspicion of illegal possession of drugs and paraphernalia.

Police said they expected to book the three for investigation of murder later today.

CLAY SHAW
Jury unanimous

Clay Shaw Innocence Unanimous

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A jury's unanimous verdict of innocent today cleared Clay L. Shaw, 55, of a charge of conspiring to assassinate President John F. Kennedy.

Read to a packed, heavily guarded Criminal District Court at 1:02 a.m., the verdict triggered a moment of bedlam. There was an earsplitting concerted shriek from the women spectators.

The 12-man jury rejected both the state case and Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's plea that a conviction would strike a blow at "excessive government power."

"Garrison has a right to his opinion about the government and the Warren Commission," said juror David I. Powe shortly after court adjourned. "But I just don't feel his opinion is enough to convict a man."

Shaw, a 6-foot-4 retired New Orleans businessman with tanned and craggy features, stood in a protective circle of

Lawmaker Asks Surcharge To Fund Bay Government

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — Legislation to be introduced Monday to establish a regional government will propose that such a government be financed in the nine counties by a 1 per cent surcharge on state income taxes and a regional business license tax, it was disclosed yesterday.

The two taxes would yield about $5 million each per year, according to an aide to the author of the legislation, Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond.

The method of financing regional government was disclosed by Richard Carpenter, executive director and general counsel of the League of California Cities, in a panel discussion on regional government before the semi-annual general assembly of the Association of Bay Area Governments in the Hotel Claremont.

Knox's aide, Thomas Willoughby, estimated the revenue figure when was asked by Carpenter to confirm the proposed surcharge and business tax. Carpenter noted he has worked with Willoughby in the drafting of the Knox bill, details of which will be announced Monday.

Carpenter added that Knox's proposal would provide that any surplus from the taxes would be returned to the cities and counties in the Bay Area to use as they want.

Carpenter reminded the ABAG delegates that Knox's proposed tax, as well as his proposed regional government, would have to be approved by Bay Area voters in the June 1970 primary election.

Knox conceded last month that the 1970 referendum was necessary to get such a bill through the Legislature so Bay Area legislators can turn the decision over to the voters. Gov. Ronald Reagan indicated last week that he would insist that the referendum remain in the Knox bill.

Several delegates called for immediate adoption of a resolution damning the Knox bill, which ignores ABAG, but Carpenter convinced them to study it first.

ABAG president Jack D. Maltester, mayor of San Leandro, announced the bill would be

Mickey Mantle Leaves Diamond

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Mickey Mantle announced his retirement Saturday, ending an 18-year playing career with the New York Yankees.

Mantle, saddled by a variety of injuries, mostly to his legs throughout his career, made his much-rumored retirement official in a packed news conference at the Yankee's spring training hotel.

Span Board Asks Tube Study By Transit Unit

A feasibility study of a San Francisco-Marin rapid transit tube was asked yesterday by the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District board.

The board also requested the Legislature to pass an excise tax on gasoline sales to finance a statewide mass transit fund comparable to the highway fund.

The action follows by a week introduction in the Legislature of a bill empowering the district to operate all forms of transportation.

Both of yesterday's requests were opposed by directors from Sonoma, Napa and Mendocino counties, but passed 12-4 and 10-4 respectively.

The tube study was proposed by William C. Blake of San Francisco and Ronald Pelosi of San Francisco proposed the excise tax.

(The district, meanwhile, has been urged by its former engineer, Arthur C. Jenkins, to enter the commute bus business with a fleet of 150 vehicles. And the legislation introduced Feb. 19 by Assemblyman John F. Foran also could enable the district to operate ferries—topic of a current study for the Marin and San Francisco supervisors.)

The excise tax, combined with bridge income, would produce enough money in the district to make payments on a $700 million bond issue, Stephan C. Leonoudakis of San Francisco predicted, enough to finance a tube and a rapid transit system along with maintaining the bridge.

Lowell Edington of Napa County said he believed in the tube concept but "we can't wait eight or ten years for an answer" to congestion and a tube would take that long to build.

"You might as well face it," John E. Nelson of Mendocino County said. "The second deck is the only answer to your problem . . . it's within your financial ability."

Blake snorted at that as "cow counties' thinking," and said San Francisco's backing could put through the tube as it did the

National Guard Marches Onto Campus At Berkeley

BERKELEY (UPI)—A squad of National Guard troops armed with bayonets and tear gas entered the University of California campus yesterday in accordance with Gov. Ronald Reagan's vow to keep colleges open "at the point of a bayonet if necessary."

Eight guardsmen in battle dress escorted by about 100 Berkeley police, sheriff's deputies and highway patrolmen laid down a dense fog of tear gas to clear about 500 demonstrators and onlookers who had blocked a rush hour intersection for half an hour. (See photo, page 2.)

The crowd quickly dispersed and no injuries were reported. Four persons were arrested, including three students.

Earlier in the day, a campus patrolman was hospitalized with a deep scalp laceration and facial cuts after he was attacked by a mob of marauding youths who beat him with his own night stick.

Officer William Yaskovic, 48, a former San Quentin prison guard, said he was slugged and kicked at least 20 times after he became separated from fellow officers. He required 16 stitches to close the gash on his head.

Two students were arrested on charges of assault with a deadly weapon, but authorities declined to link their arrest to the assault on Yaskovic, an eight-year veteran of the

Bolinas Harbor Board Opponent Roasts 'Disneyland By The Sea'

By CHARLES YOAKUM

Opposing sides on the issue of dissolving the Bolinas Harbor District sparred verbally for nearly four hours last night before a full house in the Stinson Beach Community Center.

Approximately 150 persons braved heavy rain to watch those favoring dissolution of the district throw their heaviest punches in what was probably the next-to-last round in the fight.

Voters in the district will decide the issue in the final round March 11 when they go to the polls in a special election.

Proponents of dissolution of the district are seeking to turn responsibility for the future of Bolinas Bay and the adjacent lagoon over to Marin County.

Erik Lund of Stinson Beach, leader of the faction seeking dissolution, said last night that the current harbor district board has plans to "turn our bay and lagoon into another Disneyland-by-the-sea, an area untouched by nature."

He also said that he felt that

East German Troops Close Berlin Entry

BERLIN (AP) — A two-hour blockade of autobahn traffic by East German soldiers coincided today with reaffirmation from the Western Big Three of their determination to maintain unhindered access between West Berlin and West Germany.

The United States, Britain and France rejected as groundless Soviet charges of West German military activity in the isolated former German capital.

"It is only in the eastern (Communist) sector of Berlin that organized military activity has taken place," the three declared in a joint statement issued through their embassies in Bonn.

TENSION DECRIED

"The three governments hope that these Soviet charges are not intended to create international tensions. It is not the desire of the three governments to see such an increase in tension occur.

"The three governments reaffirm their determination to maintain a viable Berlin with free access."

West Berlin's Mayor, Klaus Schuetz, told newsmen he is convinced his city is not confronted by a grave new crisis, but rather is being subjected to a war of nerves, "below the level of a serious confrontation."

MORE EXPECTED

Speaking after meeting with his city government and with U.S., British and French envoys, Schuetz said, however, further "shorter-term disturbances like this morning can be repeated."

East German soldiers armed with submachine guns blocked the main highway between West Germany and West Berlin at the Helmstedt crossing point from 7 a.m. to 9 a.m. Then they reopened it.

Sirhan Dramatically Asks Court For The Gas Chamber

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Sirhan B. Sirhan stood up in the court, a tiny figure, and told the judge he planned and carried out the murder of Robert F. Kennedy and wanted to die for it.

Superior Court Judge Hebert V. Walker replied that Sirhan was in no condition to determine what he wanted to do and refused the defendant's demand his three expert lawyers be fired.

Mrs. Mary Sirhan, the mother, sobbed so uncontrollably on the witness stand the trial had to be recessed until Monday.

The eight-week trial reached a dramatic peak yesterday when chief defense counsel Grant B. Cooper said his client wanted to make a statement outside the presence of the jury.

This dialogue ensued according to the official transcript:

Sirhan —"I at this time, sir, withdraw my original plea of not guilty and submit the plea of guilty as charged on all counts.

"I also request that my counsel disassociate themselves from this case completely."

Walker —"Do I understand — stand up —Do I understand that you want to plead guilty to murder in the first degree?"

Sirhan — "Yes, sir, I do."

Walker —"All right, and what do you want to do about the penalty?"

"I will offer no defense whatsoever."

"The question is, what do you want to do about the penalty?"

"I will ask to be executed, sir."

"Now I know nothing in the law that permits a defendant under any circumstances to enter a plea of guilty to murder in the first degree and ask for execution."

"Well, I have, sir."

"Well, now, just a minute. Why do you want to do this?"

"I believe, sir, that is my business, isn't it?"

" . . . You have to give a reason."

"I killed Robert Kennedy wilfully, premeditatively, with 20 years malice aforethought, that is why."

"Well, the evidence has to be produced here in court."

"I withdraw all evidence, sir."

"There is no such procedure."

"To hell with it."

"Well, the court will not accept the plea. Proceed with the trial. Let me give you to understand here and now that this court will not put with any more of your interruptions . . ."

"Sir?"

"I mean by that that you will have a face mask put on you which will prohibit you from talking and, further, your arms will be strapped to your chair and the trial will proceed. You understand that?"

"I understand. However, sir, I intend to defend myself pro per (by myself). I don't want to be represented by these counsel."

"You have retained counsel. Counsel is staying in the trial."

"What I have said, I don't want anyone to have a trial shoved down my throat, sir, and you are not going to shove it down my throat, sir, in any way you want."

Walker ordered the trial to proceed. Mrs. Mary Sirhan, the defendant's mother, was the next witness. She broke down sobbing after a few minutes on the stand and the trial was recessed for the weekend.

Sirhan's outburst came when a board of education official was reading his grades and achievement tests in junior and senior high school showing he was below normal.

It is the defense strategy to show Sirhan has "diminished capacity."

Cooper disclosed the Jordanian ambassador to the United States was flying to Los Angeles over the weekend to talk with Sirhan.

The veteran defense lawyer said he hoped to call Sirhan to the witness stand Monday.

Astronauts Ready To Go Monday

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The three Apollo 9 astronauts were reported "much better" today and their launch crew resumed the countdown for Monday's start of the first mission delayed by the common cold.

Dr. Charles A. Berry, the chief astronaut physician, said David R. Scott was now considered clear of the cold that grounded the crew, and James McDivitt and Russell L. Schweickart much improved.

The three astronauts had been scheduled to begin their 10-day earth orbital flight test of the Apollo moon landing craft Friday. But the shot was delayed until 11 a.m. Monday when doctors feared the pilots' performance might be impaired by sore throats and nasal congestion.

Berry said Scott was taken off medication today. Schweickart and McDivitt continued to use a hot salt water gargle to soothe their throats.

All three spacemen had a good night's sleep and exercised early today before returning to spacecraft trainers to sharpen their piloting skills.

The countdown began before dawn on the Apollo 9 spacecraft and will resume tonight on its giant Saturn 5 launcher at moon flight firing pad No. 39A.

Reds Step Up Terror Raids Against South

SAIGON (UPI)—The Communists went on a nationwide terror spree and shelled 50 towns and Allied camps, marking what U.S. intelligence today called the beginning of a new phase in their seven-day-old offensive.

"We now expect more ground attacks," said a high-ranking officer in Gen. Creighton W. Abrams' U.S. Command, outlining what intelligence reports say is a 34-day offensive planned to end with a thrust against Saigon.

Abrams sent eight waves of B52 bombers against the guerrilla buildup around Saigon late yesterday and early today, spokesmen said, and American troops killed 55 Communists in three clashes within 35 miles of the capital.

Communist gunners knocked down three U.S. helicopters on Saigon's fringes but all of the crewmen survived, according to war communiques.

The Reds unleashed 50 rocket and mortar barrages into South Vietnamese towns and Allied military bases overnight, the most in three days. Losses were light, according to U.S. spokesmen.

In a 29-attack terror spree up and down the nation, the Reds struck at one U.S. servicemen's billet in coastal Nha Trang, killing one soldier and wounding 13 with explosives thrown from a bicycle. The bombers escaped.

The 29 terror attacks were the most in any day of the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong offensive designed to enhance the Reds' bargaining position at the talks in Paris.

The U.S. intelligence officer said the guerrillas are now turning to ground probes along with their shellings, to be followed by a third, 19-day phase including all-out assaults on cities and Saigon.

Latest casualty figures for the offensive since Sunday listed 6,600 Communists, more than 300 Americans, about 600 South Vietnamese soldiers and some 250 civilians dead.

The 50 new shellings brought to at least 350 the number of bombardments into towns and bases.

Among the most devastating bombardments was a mortar attack into Rach Gia City deep in the Mekong Delta, killing seven South Vietnamese civilians and wounding 53 others, according to military spokesmen.

Twenty-five miles northwest of Saigon, a base camp of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division weathered a 120-round rocket and mortar barrage without serious damage or casualties, American headquarters said.

Laos Reports Viet Attack

VIENTIANE (UPI) — About 2,500 North Vietnamese troops attacked a government position 150 miles northeast of Vientiane today, Laotian chief of staff Gen. Oudone Sananikone said.

The fighting raged through the day, Oudone said.

There were no reports on casualties but Oudone described the attack as "very grave."

Oudone estimated about five North Vietnamese battalions were participating in the Communist attack at Bane Nakhang in northeast Laos. There are approximately 500 troops in each battalion.

He said Laotian air force T28s have been sent to help the besieged government post.

Nakhang is considered strategic because it is the front gate to the headquarters of the government's second military region at Samthong City. Samthong is only 10 miles west of Nakhang.

Credit Card Charges Dismissal Ordered

Charges of possessing stolen property were dismissed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against Theodore Wolcott Jr., 39, of no fixed address, after he said he was committing himself to Napa State Hospital for treatment for alcoholism.

Wolcott, accused of being drunk at the time of his arrest in San Anselmo Thursday, allegedly had 13 credit cards in his possession which belonged to a Washington, D. C., resident.

Red Cross Drive Leaders Named

Four men in southern Sonoma County will serve as city chairmen in the American Red Cross campaign that begins Monday. They include Herbert Winter, Cotati; Robert A. Brunner, Petaluma; Dr. Lauren D. Anderson and Bradley W. Koch, Rohnert Park.

Goals set for the communities are Cotati, $850; Petaluma, $13,129 and Rohnert Park, $2,570.

Mrs. Caryl Weis of Santa Rosa, campaign chairman for the Redwood Empire chapter, said the chapter goal is $41,000.

Prank Burns Tank

LA MIRADA (AP) — Two youths, fascinated by the sound of firecrackers exploding in a cavernous oil storage tank, set 14,000 gallons of crude oil ablaze last night, sheriff's deputies said.

Los Angeles County firemen were unable to smother the fire with foam, but said it would burn out in about 12 hours.

Officers said one of the youths, slightly bruised and his hair singed, was in custody. They were searching for the other.

Cleaver Tax Woes

NEW YORK (AP) — The federal government has attached for tax purposes the royalties from a new book written by Eldridge Cleaver, the fugitive Black Panther information minister who earlier wrote the best-selling "Soul on Ice."

His new book, "Eldridge Cleaver: Post-Prison Writings and Speeches," was compiled in his absence by a friend and published by Random House.

State Faces Suit

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The California State Employees Association is suing the state for $2.6 million, claiming 1,407 hospital and school employees were not paid overtime.

The suit, filed yesterday, contends the state owes $1,294,558 for more than 500,000 hours of unpaid overtime and asks an equal amount for damages. The association claims the state paid straight time rates although a 1967 federal law requires payment of time and a half for overtime work of such employees.

Accidents Costly

NEW YORK (AP) — Automobile accidents cost the American economy $14.2 billion in 1968, up $1.8 billion or 14 per cent over the 1967 figure of $12.4 billion, according to the Insurance Information Institute.

There were a record 55,500 traffic deaths, 4.5 per cent more than the 1967 toll of 53,100.

Price Hike Defended

LONG BEACH (AP) — The president of Phillips Petroleum Co. defended recent gasoline price increases Friday, saying they are needed to support higher crude oil prices.

President John M. Houchin told the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce that a cost-price squeeze on producers has caused a lag in exploratory drilling.

Dam Is Praised

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Oroville Dam saved the citizens of Yuba City and Marysville from "possible catastrophe," according to the director of the state Department of Water Resources.

William R. Gianelli told the Commonwealth Club yesterday that during the peak flow of the Feather River last month, the dam reduced the flow to one-seventh of what it would have been otherwise.

Change In Syria

DAMASCUS (UPI) — Political sources reported the Syrian Army forming a new government today to replace the civilian regime it overthrew in the nation's 11th major power grab since 1949.

Under the defense minister, Lt. Gen. Hafez Al-Assad, 44, the army yesterday ousted the three-year-old government of President Noureddin Al-Atassi without a struggle, these sources said.

Syria's civilian government had steadfastly refused to participate in Arab conferences or U. N. efforts to find a settlement to the Middle East crisis with Israel. It depended heavily on the Soviet Union to supply and train its armed forces.

Troops seized Damascus Radio and Television and there was no official confirmation of the coup from the Arab nation still officially at war with Israel in the Middle East.

Mariner On Course

PASADENA (AP) — Mariner 6 was reported on target today on its trip to Mars.

"Everything looks good. The burn was precise," said a spokesman at Jet Propulsion Laboratory after rockets on the camera-carrying spacecraft were fired for 5.4 seconds yesterday to nudge it into a path to take it within 2,000 miles of Mars on July 30.

Mideast Air Raid

TIBERIAS, Israel (AP) — Two Israeli planes swooped across the Jordan River today to pound suspected Arab guerrillas positions inside Jordan, witnesses reported.

The strike followed an attack on an Israeli military vehicle as it patroled the ceasefire line near Tirat Zvi, about 20 miles south of the Sea of Galilee in the Beisan Valley.

Heart Case Dies

HOUSTON (AP) — A Los Angeles insurance salesman who received a new heart four months ago has died of cardiac arrest at a Houston hospital.

Jerome Decker, 52, who received his new heart in a transplant operation Oct. 25, died last night.

LeMay Ousted

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Curtis LeMay, 1968 vice presidential candidate on the American Independent Party, has been ousted as a director of the Networks Electronic Corp. of Chatsworth.

Stockholders voted at a meeting yesterday to dismiss the six-member board and then they re-elected every board member except LeMay, George C. Wallace's running mate.

Mihai D. Patrichi, president and founder of the company, was elected to take Le May's place.

LeMay, a retired Air Force general and former Air Force chief of staff, was not present at the meeting. He recently filed a court suit charging Networks and Patrichi violated his employment contract. The suit asked $350,000 in pay, profits on a stock options plan, and $5 million punitive damages.

Riots In Japan

KYOTO, Japan (AP) —About 1,000 ultraradical Zengakuren students wielded wooden staves and threw rocks in battling with 2,000 riot police on the strife-torn campus of Kyoto University last night.

Police said about 140 students and 10 policemen were injured. Police arrested 12 students.

Airline Talks Off

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Mediation Board has suspended negotiations between American Airlines and its striking employees until Monday afternoon, dashing hopes for a weekend settlement.

The board said that "after 10 consecutive days of intensive negotiation" it had requested management and the union "to spend the weekend apart and re-examine their respective positions."

Some 15,000 members of the Airline and Transport Workers Union, mechanics and communications and service employees, struck the airline Thursday morning. Another 7,700 employees, the flight personnel, are not involved in the dispute but are out of work.

Pueblo Skipper Sobs As Sailor Says His Faith Kept Him Alive

CORONADO (UPI) — Ramon Rosales stood before the five admirals conducting the inquiry into the Pueblo seizure.

The only thing that kept him alive during 11 months of North Korean captivity, he said, was "Faith in God and my country, and faith in my commanding officer."

That commanding officer, Lloyd Bucher, was sitting in the inquiry room yesterday. Rosales' words brought tears to his eyes. Unable to listen longer, Bucher left the room, weeping.

Storekeeper 3/C Ramon Rosales, 20, of El Paso, Tex., was still at the witness table giving testimony at Bucher's dramatic exit. The commander apparently recalled that day months ago when he asked the North Korean commander for medical assistance for the ailing Mexican-American youth.

"The general laughed in his face," Bucher's attorney told newsmen.

E. Miller Harvey said Bucher was emotionally on edge after five days of listening to his men describing the ordeal of captivity in North Korea. The inquiry was recessed for the weekend.

Four Pueblo enlisted men and a civilian oceanographer who worked on the vessel when it was captured Jan. 23, 1968, testified before the five admiral court Friday.

Six more Pueblo enlisted men have been summoned to tell their stories in open court Monday. Part of yesterday's testimony was taken in secret.

Early next week, Washington D.C., will become the focal point of the Pueblo affair.

The House Armed Services Committee opens its own Pueblo investigation Tuesday with the task entrusted to a subcommittee headed by Rep. Otis Pike, D-N.Y.

The Navy's highest officer, Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chief of naval operations, will be the first witness to testify before Pike's panel of five Democrats and four Republicans.

The Navy inquiry's chief counsel, Capt. William R. Newsome, hopes to complete questioning of Pueblo enlisted men Wednesday.

Bucher will testify again before the inquiry closes, but no date has been set for a second appearance,

Rosales said the North Koreans jumped on him as soon as the Pueblo arrived in Wonsan Harbor, accusing him of being a South Korean helping the Americans.

He underwent four days of interrogation —plus kicks and punches —before persuading them he was of Mexican descent.

Rosales, devoutly religious, infuriated his captors by talking back to a Communist lecturer who told the crew there was no God.

"I said there was a God," Rosales testified. "I told them I saw God every day in the flowers, trees and things around me. I said God was life." Doctors who examined Rosales following his return to the United States said he may have suffered a mild case of meningitis in captivity.

Other witnesses yesterday were:

Communications Technician 1/C Don E. Bailey, 39 of Portland, Ind., who said, "The beatings didn't hurt half as much as the fact we got no help from the greatest country in the world."

Engineman 3/C Lawrence E. Strickland, 21, of Grand Rapids, Mich., who said, "We used to hope the Americans would drop a nuclear bomb on the place. We felt we were at ground zero. We just wanted to see the flash."

Vandals On Rampage In Santa Venetia

Vandals armed with spray paint and knives rampaged through Santa Venetia Wednesday night spraying slogans and obscenities on several cars and a supermarket and slashing tires on a number of cars, sheriff's deputies said today.

Deputies said they believed the wave of vandalism may have been in retaliation for the arrest of a 19-year-old San Rafael man, Bradley Martin Zappa, of 27 Woodland Avenue, on suspicion of assault and battery and resisting arrest.

Zappa was arrested after he was reportedly beating his wife in his car on Highway 101. Zappa fled from arresting officers and was finally apprehended on a hillside off North San Pedro Road Wednesday.

One of the targets of the vandals was Cala Foods supermarket at 750 Adrian Way, Santa Venetia. Two outside walls were covered with sprayed-on peace symbols and slogans such as "Free Brad or else" and "Get stoned" and a variety of obscenities. Other symbols were sprayed on a glass front door of the supermarket.

Deputies said the garage door at the Lucille R. Cook residence at 219 Mark Twain Avenue were sprayed in blue and orange paint with the words, Speed, LSD and Weed.

A panel truck owned by Elite Rug Cleaners, parked in front of 306 Adrian Way, was decorated with peace symbols and two cars, owned by Ellen Neal at 400 Adrian Way received paint stripes from front to rear.

Another car owned by A. J. Byrne at 20 Adrian Way also was sprayed.

Deputies reported at least six cases of tires being slashed in the same area.

the harbor district board had "secret plans for the area" that they were not sharing with the residents and taxpayers of the district.

"Just what is the future of our lagoon?" Lund added. "I think it's obvious that our harbor district wants a large harbor of refuge and I don't think that's what most of us want."

"Lund said that he felt the existing harbor board was a "single purpose board," one whose only thoughts were to build a major harbor facility.

"The harbor board has spent $3.5 million already and what have they done, what problems have they solved?" Lund asked. "Mind you, I don't think that any of this money has been spent illegally, but it has been spent none-the-less."

Lund was the apparent author of a letter mailed last week to all district residents noting that consultant Norman N. Gilroy had been paid $67,518 in the last three years.

Another proponent of dissolution of the district, Peter Kitchell of Bolinas, said he favored the move "because the county planning department is better equiped to handle this sort of thing."

Kitchell, a private planner, showed slides of the lagoon area, citing the needs for "maintaining the area's asthetic values."

Don L. Bradley hotly contested Kitchell, however.

"I'm not so enthralled with what the county can do," he said, "Just look at the mess they have in Richardson Bay. And they already control one little piece of land near the lagoon here and it's full of tin cans, tires and it smells."

"I urge voters to vote no on March 11. Let's not admit that we can't handle our own local government."

Another speaker, Philip J. O'Brien of Stinson Beach, urged the voters to reject dissolving the district on the basis that "we now have the right to control our own future here. Let's not lose local control. Right now each vote is one in 600. If it goes to county control, a vote here is just one out of 200,000."

The issue of the $67,518 paid to Gilroy in the last three years was expected to be much-discussed point last night, but members of the panel discussion group hardly touched on the item.

Gilroy was in attendance, however, and spent nearly 50 minutes outling the studies the harbor district has had conducted.

"We've got to find out what the human species is doing to the lagoon," he said in defense of the harbor district's expenditures during the last three years.

In the past three years, the harbor district board has authorized numerous studies of the lagoon to discover pollution levels, feeding and breeding cycles and habits of the lagoon's birds and fish and the tidal patterns of the lagoon's currents, Gilroy told the audience.

Tempers flared only once during the discussion. At the end of Gilroy's presentation, one member of the audience pointedly asked him: "Would the dissolution of the harbor board mean a loss of income to you?"

Gilroy, obviously angry, countered, "This is the type of tactics that have been used throughout this fight. But I'll answer by saying that I think my firm would survive."

TUBE

bridge itself.

Marin's three representatives voted for both proposals. Michael Wornum said the finance committee, on which he serves, should not make a full-fledged study of the tube concept, but should review the Foley report on bay toll crossings and see if its findings are still valid.

Leonoudakis said an excise tax would be needed for the mass transit fund because gas taxes are tied to highway use in the state Constitution.

The votes were on geographical lines. Voting against the tube study were Edington, Nelson and L. W. Castner and E. J. Guidotti, both of Sonoma County.

On the excise tax vote, Castner had left the meeting and Daniel F. Del Carlo of San Francisco joined the other three north county members against the proposal.

The Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District board also:

MEYER — Appointed Dean N. Meyer of Mill Valley to seven committees — auditing, bond, insurance, commuters' affairs, security, rules and policy, and new San Francisco-Marin crossing.

COMMUTE BOOKS — Awarded a $23,107 contract to IBM Corp. for 118,500 commute books. IBM was the sole bidder.

FUEL — Awarded a contract to Atlantic Richfield Co. to supply regular gasoline for 19 cents a gallon and premium at 20.9 cents, and a contract to Phillips Petroleum to supply fuel oil at 14.07 cents a gallon.

CHAIRS — Awarded a contract to Huffman Sales Inc. of San Francisco for 24 executive chairs at $115 apiece.

SUICIDE — Extended the suicide prevention patrol for another six months to test further its effectiveness.

MEETING — Changed the board's meeting time to 10 a.m. instead of 10:30 a.m. on the second and last Friday each month.

RESIGNATION — Received a copy of Nelson's resignation from the board, which he submitted to Mendocino supervisors to take effect when his replacement is named.

up on the hood of the car while the crowd pressed around. He shook hands and signed autographs and stood then, with a big smile, waving his arms over his head.

On the ride back, he made occasional stops to greet other bystanders along the roadway.

A crowd of several hundred persons waited outside the U.S. Embassy and greeted Nixon with cheers and applause. Nixon smiled and waved back as he entered the embassy.

Meanwhile, a White House spokesman today confirmed that Nixon will meet with South Vietnamese Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky tomorrow to discuss the Vietnam peace negotiations.

Ronald Ziegler, the White House press secretary, told newsmen the meeting would "likely be held" after Nixon confers with Chief U.S. negotiator Henry Cabot Lodge and other American delegation officials.

Sleepless Citizen Hears Burglary

A Novato resident, who could not sleep early today, heard strange noises coming from Lu Sutton School on Center Road and Leland Drive, so he notified police.

Inside the building, police said they found two youths who had ransacked the offices and broken into all of the soft drink machines.

Booked into Marin County Jail with bail set at $2,000 each on suspicion of burglary were Michael R. Rundle, and Phillip R. McFarren, both 18 and both of 1308 Leafwood Drive, Apt. 10, Novato. They are scheduled to appear at 2 p.m. Monday in Marin Municipal Court.

STEAM ENGINE FOR BUSES

A prototype of a steam-powered engine, which is claimed to operate substantially smog-free, is displayed by Reno, Nev., industrialist William P. Lear. Lear plans to bid for use of his engine on two Alameda-Contra Costa Transit District buses and two coaches of the San Francisco Municipal Railway. Testing of actual models of the engine should begin this month, Lear said. (UPI Telephoto)

The latest day of violence since a student strike started Jan. 22 began with the usual picket line at the main entrance to the hilly 28,000-student campus.

As the day wore on, bands of students roamed the campus breaking windows, overturning trash cans and blocking traffic on streets next to the campus.

Finally, a crowd of about 500 students and sympathizers linked arms to form human chains across campus and nearby street entrances, shouted taunts at police and threw bottles, rocks and bricks.

At this point, the National Guard moved in with a tear gas machine resembling a vacuum cleaner which belched huge clouds of eye-smarting fumes that spread over a seven-block area.

Motorists were trapped in their cars as the clouds of gas blew around them. Several gas grenades were thrown through the windows of stores, gassing shoppers and store keepers.

But the wild disorders which swept the campus eight days ago were avoided as the demonstrators fled overcome with tear gas.

Student body president Charles Palmer said he sent a telegram to U.S. Attorney General John N. Mitchell asking that federal marshals be sent to the campus as observers and to investigate student complaints of police brutality.

A spokesman for striking union teaching assistants said his group and the students had agreed to de-escalate the violence until the "incredible provocation" of the arrests of strike leaders Thursday.

One of them, Ysidro Macias, 24, chairman of the Mexican-American Confederation, was released from a hospital after treatment of head wounds suffered when he was clubbed by police.

The university issued corrected figures on the number of students placed on interim suspension since the strike began. Instead of 53, the number suspended was placed at 38, with 18 suspended since the Board of Regents issued tough new rules last week.

SHAW

deputies as the verdict was read.

"Do you wish the jury polled?" asked Judge Edward A. Haggerty.

Asst. Dist. Atty. James L. Alcock, who headed Garrison's team of prosecutors, slumped low in his chair. He shook his head wearily, side to side.

Powe, a juror who grew a goatee while sequestered during the 34-day trial, said the verdict was unanimous and was reached on the first ballot taken in the bleak little room behind the courtroom.

Deliberation took about 50 minutes. Shaw was cleared two years to the day from the date he was arrested—March 1, 1967.

The state charged Shaw with conspiring with Lee Harvey Oswald and others to murder Kennedy, who was slain in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963. The Warren Commission named Oswald as the assassin.

Much of the prosecution case concentrated on attacking the commission's conclusion that Oswald, a former New Orleans resident, was alone and unaided in the assassination.

"We were trying Shaw, not the Warren Commission," said Powe. "But I felt two or three times that I didn't know who we were trying—the FBI, the federal government, the Secret Service . . ."

Garrison, up for re-election in six months, was not in the courtroom when the verdict was read. He appeared rarely during the trial, leaving the case to four assistants.

Suspected Drug User Arrested

A 19-year-old Marin County man was arrested by San Rafael police early today on suspicion of being under the influence of drugs.

Police said they arrested Robert William Scofield, who gave them addresses of 1607 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, and on Strawberry Circle Drive, Mill Valley, at 2:40 a.m. at Third and Grand streets after he was observed acting suspiciously.

Arresting officers said he had several fresh puncture wounds on his arms and also possessed a mixture of methamphetamine.

Nominations For Agencies Asked

Suggestions for candidates for the Marin County Redevelopment Agency and the Human Rights Commission may be submitted through Thursday to the Marin City Community Services District in the Manzanita Center, secretary Margaret Beauchamp said yesterday.

The district board will recommend candidates to the board of supervisors for two vacant seats on the redevelopment agency and one on the rights commission.

Mrs. Beauchamp said the board wants suggestions from the community for the posts.

Boy, 16, Held After Burying Suspect Case

A 16-year-old Terra Linda boy was arrested by San Rafael police yesterday and cited to Juvenile Hall on suspicion of illegal possession of drugs.

Police said the youth was carrying a quantity of marijuana and hashish when he was arrested in the Northgate Shopping Center. He also fit the description of a man observed burying a suitcase containing a kilo of "vegetable type matter" in a wooded area behind an apartment complex on Professional Center Parkway where he lived, according to authorities.

Police dug up the suitcase after a resident of the apartments watched a young man bury it. Police said the witness saw the youth acting suspiciously upon leaving the apartments and heading through a steady rain for the wooded area behind them. The witness took moving pictures of the action from his apartment window but the pictures are yet to be developed, police said.

The Terra Linda youth was picked up a short time later by a policeman who questioned him, then released him. As the boy was walking away from the patrol car, however, the officer found a "crutch" — a rolled-up matchbook used as a holder for marijuana cigarettes — on the seat and called the youth back to arrest him.

Another Oil Slick Loose

SANTA BARBARA (UPI) — A new oil slick, bubbling from a leaking offshore oil well in the Santa Barbara channel today imperiled miles of beaches just recovering from an onslaught of slime.

The slick seeped from the same Union Oil Co. platform from which another well dumped 21,000 gallons a day into the Pacific before it was plugged Feb. 7.

Union officials would not give a gallon estimate of the latest leak but admitted it could equal the earlier flow. They said it was at least 2,000 to 4,000 gallons a day.

An aerial survey yesterday of the slick, about 1,000 feet wide and three miles long, showed a barrier of storm flotsam about three miles out was preventing the muck from floating closer to shore. But onshore winds edged the oil and debris nearer beaches.

The barrier was composed of millions of lemons, grapefruit, avacados, kelp and driftwood. The fruit was apparently washed into the sea from southern California's rich groves during the recent rainstorm.

In Washington D.C., Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel promised tougher regulations of offshore drilling in federal waters. Hickel, appearing before a U.S. Senate subcommittee, did not spell them out in detail.

Road Bids Opened By Corte Madera

Bresnan-Dalecio Co. of San Rafael was low bidder of 10 companies who seek the job of paving San Clemente Drive in Corte Madera, Arthur N. Morrison, director of public works, said today.

Low bid was $76,740. High bid was made by W. K. McLelland and Co., San Rafael at $95,895. Morrison's estimate for the work was $95,506.

The bids will be considered by the town council at its 7:30 p.m. meeting Monday.

Death Car Driver Moved To Hospital

Reginald B. Johnson, 20, of Novato, injured Tuesday in a car crash, has been transferred from Marin General Hospital to the Fort Miley Veteran's Hospital in San Francisco, his mother reported. His condition is critical, she said.

Johnson, of 1541 Hill Road, suffered severe head injuries and facial cuts when the car he was driving hit a fence in Bel Marin Keys. A passenger, Candace L. Wright, 16, of Novato, was killed in the crash.

studied by Victor Jones, political science professor at the University of California, and that his analysis would be referred to the executive committee.

The executive committee, after drawing up a stand for ABAG to take on the Knox bill, will report to a special general assembly sometime in late April, Maltester said.

"Somebody is going to have a helluva fight if they try to impose a metropolitan government on the Bay Area," he declared.

However, Carpenter said the bill "clearly leaves local affairs to cities and counties," and is not a metropolitan government to replace local government, but rather an attempt to tackle regional problems that overlap local government boundaries.

Carpenter also cautioned the ABAG delegates to expect "a considerable amount of support from the leadership in the Bay Area," particularly from the powerful business community.

"The trend always has been to centralization," Carpenter said.

By incorporating the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission in the proposed regional government, he noted, the Knox bill "is riding that (BCDC) coattail for all the other elements of a regional government."

Another panelist, William R. MacDougall, manager and general counsel of the County Supervisors Association of California, made it clear he saw nothing good in the Knox bill.

"Don't put your figurative tail between your legs and run for the hills," he told the ABAG delegates in a pep talk urging them to fight the bill. Terming ABAG a "potent force," he insisted that it was competent to meet regional problems without "an additional new level of government."

The delegates also heard a discussion of the proposed state budget by a deputy director of the Finance Department, James S. Dwight Jr. He filled in for state Finance Director Caspar W. Weinberger, who was to have spoken but was unable to attend.

Petaluma Crash Injures Three

Three persons were injured in a two-car accident at 8:55 p.m. yesterday on Petaluma Boulevard South, Petaluma, police said.

Edward R. Grossi, 17, of 4025 Novato Boulevard, Novato, was southbound on Petaluma Boulevard 300 feet south of I Street when he made a left hand turn and collided headon with a car driven by Douglas Tierney, 26, of 355 Canal Street, San Rafael, according to police.

Grossi received cuts on the head and right leg; Tierney cuts on the head, and a passenger in the Tierney car, Lorraine K. Collins, 18, of 25 Halsey Street, Petaluma, received head and left knee cuts. All were treated at Hillcrest Hospital.

Grossi was cited for failure to yield the right of way, police said.

Cabinet Trouble Hinted In Peru

LIMA, Peru (AP) — A split in Peru's five-month-old revolutionary government appeared today to augur a further deterioration in the nation's already-strained relations with the United States.

Finance Minister Angel Valdivia resigned yesterday from the cabinet of generals. Reports circulated in the capital that Development Minister Alberto Maldonado and perhaps the directors of the state oil agency also were on their way out.

A U. S. Embassy official expressed dismay at the resignation of Valdivia, generally regarded as the most moderate and pro-American member of the military regime.

OBITUARIES

Leland S. Lathrop Jr. Succumbs

Leland S. Lathrop Jr. of 331 Golden Gate Avenue, Belvedere, died yesterday in a San Francisco convalescent hospital after a long illness.

Lathrop was the son of one of Belvedere's first residents, Leland S. Lathrop, who served as mayor of the city for many years.

Lathrop had been with Bank of America but retired many years ago. He had lived in Belvedere most of his life.

He is survived by his wife, Mary Davis Lathrop.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. Monday at N. Gray and Co., San Francisco. Memorial contributions may be made to the Society of Helpers, San Francisco or to the donor's favorite charity.

JAMES BALDWIN

Funeral for James M. Baldwin, a retired San Francisco auto repair businessman who lived in San Rafael, will be at 1:30 p.m. Monday at Russell & Gooch Funeral Chapel, 270 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley. Burial will be private.

Baldwin, 68, died at a Mill Valley convalescent home Thursday after a long illness.

A native of Dayton, Wash., he had lived in San Francisco 42 years before moving to San Rafael three years ago. He and his wife, Mildred, lived at 2130 Redwood Highway. Baldwin retired from his auto repair business eight years ago after suffering a stroke.

Besides his wife, he is survived by a son, Jack, of Hitchcock, Tex.; three sisters, Mrs. Frankie Puckett of Spokane and Mrs. Velma Boyd and Mrs. Hazel Motley, both of Pullman, Wash., and a brother, Bryan, of Lewiston, Idaho.

The family prefers contributions to the Muscular Dystrophy Association of San Rafael.

JOSEPH W. FOX

Joseph W. Fox of Minneapolis, Minn., brother of Mrs. Lucille Dare of Novato, died Monday of an apparent heart attack in Las Vegas while en route to visit Mrs. Dare.

About 59 years of age, Fox is survived by his wife, Lucille, five children, of Minneapolis; four sisters, Mrs. Dare; Mrs. Ellen Parker, Santa Rosa; Mrs. Ruth McFarland, Hemet, Riverside County, and Mrs. Marie Klingman, Las Vegas, Nev.

Funeral and burial will be in Minneapolis.

LOLA G. PRICE

Mrs. Lola G. Price, 89, of Novato died today at a local hospital following a short illness.

Mrs. Price, a native of Iowa, had lived most of her life in Gooding, Idaho. She came to Marin three years ago to make her home with a granddaughter, Mrs. Vivian Malmstrom of 96 Clemente Court, Novato.

Mrs. Price was the widow of George Price, a Nevada pioneer.

She has no immediate relatives.

Funeral will be Tuesday at the Thompson Chapel, Gooding, Idaho, with burial in Elmwood Cemtery there.

HAROLD WHITEHEAD

Harold A. Whitehead of 496 Oak Manor Drive, Fairfax, a steamship officer, died yesterday in a local hospital after a long illness.

A native of Wallasey, England, he had worked for the Pacific Steam Navigation Co. for 45 years. Whitehead had lived in Marin county for four years.

He is survived by his wife, Kathryn I. Whitehead of the home; and a sister, Mrs. Margaret W. Butterworth of Wallasey, England.

Memorial services will be at 2:30 p.m. Monday at the Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo.

Memorial gifts to the American Cancer Society would be preferred by the family.

People Stare At Date Because He Licks His Fingers At Dinner

DEAR HELEN:

I am dating a wonderful fellow. He is kind and generous, an immaculate dresser with very nice manners. But there's one exception: When we dine either in public or at home, he very methodically lays his napkin across his right knee and then after he handles food, he proceeds to lick each of his ten fingers with great gusto.

People turn around and stare.

At our house there used to be a sign on the dining table. It said, "Only Goops Lick Their Fingers. Don't be a Goop."

Should I tell him tactfully? This is almost ruining our relationship.—GOOP HATER

DEAR GOOP HATER:

When a habit threatens a relationship, it better be discussed. Tell your fellow about the sign on your dining table, and how much it impressed you. I think he'll get the message. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

One of my brothers worked for various service stations and said each was the same.

He says the women's restrooms have peep holes in the walls, where men can watch from a small room on the opposite side. My brother warned me, "Sis, don't ever change clothes in a public rest room, and use them only when absolutely necessary." He said every time the fellows see a gal headed for the little room, they head for the room behind it.

I'm seriously considering taking a sheet with me when I travel, so I can make myself a tent in service station restrooms.

Isn't this absolutely disgusting? — CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED:

Isn't this a little far-fetched? Service station managers don't hire peeping Toms. I think your brother is trying to shock his gullible little sister. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I would like to express my sincere appreciation to you and your wonderful readers who have helped make Vietnam Mail Call a successful program. Our 1968 Christmas card project was the most successful of the four years the program has been conducted.

Letters have poured in from Vietnam, ships at sea, Thailand, telling us how much those cards and letters meant to Servicemen. The feeling was, they said, that this proved they had suport from people at home.

Again, thanks to the thousands upon thousands who have helped make life a little easier for our gallant fighting men. — E. PAUL STEWART, Project Coordinator, Vietnam Mail Call, Box 3104-A, Columbus, Georgia.

DEAR READERS:

Keep those letters to Servicemen coming! Send them to Vietnam Mail Call, address above, and enclose five cents to help with overseas postage. Be sure to put your own name and address on the letter as well as on your envelope. Write chatty, interesting, upbeat notes, and tell something about yourselves. You may not always receive a reply — the men are mighty busy over there — but at least you'll know you cheered someone who needs all the encouragement he can get.—H.

Antique Marble Is Useful Finish

There is an unusual marble-type finish you can do with antiquing kits, according to the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association. The secret is in the way you handle the surface after you have applied the toner. First, apply a relatively heavy coat of toner and lay a large piece of wrinkled clear plastic lightly on the top of the area. Pat the plastic lightly with a cloth to make sure that wrinkles and air bubbles appear. Pick up the plastic quickly and carefully — don't drag it.

You can achieve this same effect by using a sponge, burlap, a feather or any combination of these. Just be imaginative.

'Terry Cloth Is Marvelous'

By EUNICE FARMER

A MARIN WOMAN, Mrs. Walter DeLong of Larkspur, is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner. Her suggestion was born "of desperation" and has proven practical for the De Long household. Her winning suggestion "seems timely since floor cushions are so great for teen-agers' rooms, or dens, or whatever.

"There are several kinds," she writes. "Terry bath mats make marvelous ones. Simply sew two together and stuff with shredded foam rubber. They're so durable, completely machine washable, and tumble dry to look new each time. Heavy bath towels in the new dark colors with marvelous medallions in the center are also attractive.

"While making these cushions, I've come up with an upholstery trick I haven't seen anywhere before. Most pillows tend to turn up in "ears" at the corners instead of looking nice and square. Measure a point three inches out in each direction from every corner. Trim ½ inch off the corner tapering to nothing at the three inch mark on each side of every corner. I've tried this with plaids and stripes and they aren't distorted by this stitching. You will have beautiful square looking corners on your pillows each and every time."

(P.S. I've tried it, and it does work like magic!)

DEAR EUNICE:

I made a pair of slacks for myself and instead of putting the waistband and zipper in as the pattern instructed, I tried the elastic band at the waist. Now I can't get the slacks to fit up over my hips. Is there a special pattern for this or do I have to use stretch material?

MRS. D. M.

DEAR MRS. D. M.:

This kind of waistband was originally used for knits and still doesn't work too successfully for other fabrics. If you gather any other fabrics enough to avoid the conventional opening of a zipper, it would be too bulky around the waistline. I have noticed some of the new slacks have used the zipper closing and then made a casing at the top edge of the slacks and run a twisted cotton cording through this casing. It is pulled up to fit the waistline and tied like pajama ties.

DEAR EUNICE:

I am a teen-ager who sews. I just love to make things from corduroy but my problem is how to wash and dry these materials so that they keep their soft, velvety finish? I am having trouble with this and don't know what to do!

BETTY S.

DEAR BETTY:

I will have to call upon our readers to answer this question. Since cotton corduroy is a year round fabric, women from coast to coast would probably like to know just how corduroy should be treated to retain the lovely look it had when first completed. Please write to me and let me know just what you have done.

DEAR EUNICE:

Thought I'd try my hand at making a pants suit (with an extra skirt in case the pants aren't successful). I have shortened the pants at the cuffs as the pattern suggested since they were about five inches too long. Now it seems that they just simply don't look right on me. Was this the proper place to shorten a pants pattern?

MRS. B. H.

DEAR MRS. B. H.:

The best suggestion would be to purchase a pants pattern that isn't part of the original pantsuit pattern and get a proportioned pattern. There are three lengths for each size so that you can use the pattern for your height.

This could get more involved however, since the height of a woman doesn't take into consideration the measurement from the waist to the knees and the knees to the ankle; each woman varies in these measurements. If you are long from the waist to the knees, perhaps you wouldn't need to shorten your pattern above the knees. Instead, you might have to shorten the pattern between the knee and the ankle.

Try to imagine measuring yourself from the shoulder to the waistline. You must alter a pattern according to your own figure; the same must be done with pants. If you haven't worked with pants before, it's best to make a pair out of an inexpensive cotton before tackling your good fabric.

ON THE AGENDA

Suburbia's Relation To City To Be Discussed By Panel

Our Lady of Loretto's Parent-Teacher's Group will hold a panel discussion on "Suburbia and the Inner-City" on Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the parish hall. The P-TG will host Our Lady of Loretto Guild (the confraternity of Christian doctrine organization) at the public meeting.

Featured on the panel will be Steve Phelps, James Bennet and Mrs. Ashton Hutchins Jr.

Steve Phelps is an elementary teacher and youth coordinator from Sacred Heart Grammar School in the San Francisco Fillmore District. He is also a coach and will explain the program he organized last summer which was aimed at providing athletic activities for the neighborhood children during summer vacation.

Bennett, a junior at San Marin High School, will speak of his experiences as a volunteer in Phelps' program. He will also explain current means of teen involvement in the inner-city.

The third member, Mrs. Hutchins, was a volunteer teacher in last summer's Archdiocesan inter city program, and she will speak about the various activities of volunteers from Novato.

Mrs. Calvin Ronshausen, vice president of the P-TG will be moderator.

MARIN HIGH school junior and senior girls and their mothers and interested junior college transfers are invited to attend the annual sorority day at the University of California in Berkeley Saturday.

Marin Panhellenic will provide a bus to the campus, which will leave the Bon Air Shopping Center in Greenbrae at 9 a.m., announced Mrs. Raymond Zanzot of Greenbrae, Panhellenic vice president.

The program will begin at 10 a.m. with registration in Pauley Hall of the student union. The program will include greetings from Dean of Students Arleigh Williams, a talk about sorority life by Linda Rader, college Panhellenic president, and Barbara Robbins, Oski Dolls president. A campus tour will precede lunch at various sorority houses. Mothers of the girls will be joined by faculty wives and Panhellenic Alumnae at a luncheon. A fashion show and music by the Straw Hat Band at the student union will end the day's activities.

Girls from the Marin public high schools, Katharine Branson, San Domenico and Marin Catholic High School are planning to attend.

"A CAVALCADE of Comedy and Romance" will be presented by Jack Aranson and Mary Rose McMaster at the Tuesday meeting of the San Rafael Improvement Club beginning at 1:30 p.m. Business will precede the program and guests are welcome.

GUIDANCE FOR PARENTS who are trying to cope with long hair, raucous music and strange clothing styles — parents who are scared that these things signal drug use — is offered in a film called "Beyond LSD." It will be shown at a Parent-Teacher Association-sponsored meeting Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Redwood Little Theater.

Commenting on the film and discussing the very real problem of drugs as they are used by Redwood students will be a panel of five: Dr. Reed Brockbank, a psychiatrist who practices in San Francisco; two Redwood faculty members, John Lighty and Tino Lavezzo, both of whom have attended a course on dangerous drugs at the U. C. Medical Center; and two students as yet unnamed.

This meeting is part of the P-TA's continuing program of education about drug use at Redwood and is the third in a four-part series on "Parents and Students Under Pressure."

THE WOMEN of Faith Lutheran Church will sponsor a program, "Color Blindness in Our Community," to be held at the church in Terra Linda Tuesday at 8 p.m.

The public is invited to hear Sue Kramer and Bette Lefkin, English teachers at Vallecito Junior High School, and eight of their eighth grade pupils discuss their classes on Black History through Literature.

THE REV. JOHN THORNTON of St. Stephen's Episcopal Parish in Belvedere will be guest speaker at the Episcopal Churchwomen of St. Francis of Assisi meeting in Novato on Wednesday.

His topic will be "The Liturgical Change of Today" and he will speak after the 10 a.m. service.

A salad luncheon will be served at noon.

THE EDUCATION for Childbirth program for expectant parents will begin two series of classes to be conducted on Tuesday evenings and Thursday afternoons beginning next week.

Registered physical therapists, Mrs. Margaret B. Farley and Mrs. Sharon Melquist, will instruct the course at Mrs. Gunhild H. Brown's office at 1300 South Eliseo Drive in Greenbrae.

The expectanct mother must have written permission from her physician to enroll.

Doris Lilly Chats About Celebrities

By JOAN LISETOR

Doris Lilly says she's not a name dropper.

"It's just easier when your telling a story to mention Sophia Loren. Nobody knows who Joanne Schwartz is," she told the audience yesterday in her talk for the A.M. program at the Tamalpais Theater.

THE FAMILY Service League of Marin, sponsors of the A.M. series of lectures, announced Miss Lilly's talk would be "Thirteen Ways To Lose Your Husband — And I'll Be Waiting For Him." Instead she chit-chatted about the people she has met in her world travels and the celebrities she parties with for fun and as part of her job as society editor of the New York Post.

"I've got a big mouth, and I like to gossip," she said glibly. And she chatted on about the weather and Cary Grant, which she likes, and Mayor Lindsay and Italy, which she doesn't like.

Truman Capote, whom she really doesn't like, claims she was his inspiration for the character Holly Golightly, and it is easy to believe Miss Lilly has eaten breakfast at Tiffany's.

On the subject of keeping a husband Miss Lilly said, "In the immortal words of Zsa Zsa Gabor, 'If you want to keep your husband at home, shoot him in the leg.' "

She believes hairdressers and women's fashion designers don't like women.

"TO THEM women are the enemy competing for men, and they want to keep them unattractive. The best designer is Chanel because she's a woman and wants to see other women look attractive," she said.

She believes most men in the fashion world are homosexuals, and since Truman Capote is the only homosexual who has really been accepted into society, they are "out."

"Truman's all right," she muttered. "If you like ungrateful friends."

She discussed a few of the things she feels men don't like: extreme vanity, such as when a wife needs reassurance that her husband still loves her; sloppiness, wearing curlers and being fat; drinking, especially hard liquor, which is very out in New York (wine is in); bad voices, like a woman whose voice got caught in a bucket; and whining and complaining, about money in particular, which is sexually retarding to a man.

The men in her life, or those she mentions most, are Cary Grant — he got a raw deal in his divorce and loves his daughter very much; Frank Sinatra — "he offered me his home in Palm Springs when he was away, not when he was there;" Darrin McGavin — he has the show "The Outsider" and he's very short; and Alex Cord, who she's been out with a few times.

Speaking on her reaction to Jackie Kennedy's marriage to Aristotle Onassis she said, "It was a poor choice for her. She was an idol, and she married him for his money.

The one woman in the world Miss Lilly says she truly admires is Ethel Kennedy. "She has charm, character and dignity and is a most fabulous woman," she said.

"Why aren't you married?" a woman in the audience asked.

"I don't want to get married, and don't think I haven't been asked," she replied. "I like being free, and no one could change me. If I feel like traveling I go, and if I feel like taking a bath at 5 in the morning I do it. Don't worry about me."

STAGE REVIEW

Best Effort For Troupe In Novato

By THERON A. NEWELL

Novato Community Player's presentation of "Under the Yum Yum Tree" is one of the most polished and accomplished productions ever offered by the club.

The perfect timing in all scenes and naturalness of the dialogue showed many hours of practice on the part of the cast. There were no awkward pauses and the punch lines were delivered so naturally that the audience never once felt that it was the work of amateurs.

Each of the four major players carried his role so successfully that the comic situations, and character clashes, came through without a mar.

The facial expressions of James Vanderbeets as Dave Manning and Donald Leaf as Hogan carried many of the scenes. Equally as good were Anna Page as the talkative, naive and over-educated Robin Austin, and Shirley Nilsen as her aunt, Irene Wilson.

Much of the success of the play must go to director Shari Leaf, who was assisted by Ralph White.

The set designed by Joseph Jacob was excellent. The lighting, handled by Eric Kollgaard, and the sound under Glen Barton were better than usual for the Novato Community House, where acoustics are not good.

The audience's reaction to the entire production showed that it appreciated the many hours of work which had gone into the rehearsals.

Final performance of the Lawrence Roman play will be at 8:30 p.m. today at the Novato Community House.

Span Board Looks At Funds, Buses

Reserve funds in the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District would total $20.6 million by 1974 with today's toll rates, $25.2 million if commute books are raised to $10, and $31.5 million if commute books are eliminated for a flat 50-cent one-way toll, according to figures prepared by the district. (Another bridge board story, page 1.)

Current reserves are $11.6 million, auditor G. E. Dahlgren reported.

The district has a "shopping list" of $15.5 million worth of construction and maintenance work, District Mgr. Dale W. Luehring told the district board yesterday, including $6 million for new San Francisco approaches and $4 million for toll plaza improvements and a new road west of the administration building.

The improvements would come from the projected reserves.

In the same financial projections, Luehring estimated the commute bus system proposed in the Jenkins report would run at an annual defict of $1.4 million if fares are cut 25 per cent from Greyhound's and trips stepped up 25 per cent. Without the fare cut, the deficit would be $900,000, he reported.

The Jenkins reports proposes the district operate commute buses, replacing Greyhound's operation between Marin and San Francisco. Capital outlay for a 150-bus system would be $8.5 million, Luehring estimated.

Pleasure Faire Granted Approval For September

The third annual Elizabethan Country Faire, to be held in September, will have more and better parking facilities, the sponsors announced today at a hearing before county Zoning Administrator Thomas E. Cordill.

Ronald and Phyllis Patterson, originators of the fair, said they will have Dan Coleman and Associates lay out a parking area to eliminate the shuttle bus service that took patrons from the Civic Center to the fair site last October.

The dates of the fair this year will be the four weekends in September. Patterson explained that the date was advanced from October to September to reduce the possibility of stormy weather and to avoid a conflict with the Oct. 4 grape festival.

The site of the fair is a 300-acre wooded valley at 1000 North San Pedro Road between China Camp and Santa Venetia. Patterson said he is negotiating for a three-to-five-year lease of the property from the owner, Ny-Cal Industrial Corp. of San Francisco.

Zoning Administrator Cordill approved a use permit for the fair, renewable each year. He said the new plans for a parking area must get design review approval from the current planning section of the county Planning Department.

Near-Accident Results In Marijuana Arrests

A 16-year-old San Rafael motorist and his 18-year-old companion were arrested today on suspicion of drug and marijuana offenses after their car narrowly missed two California Highway Patrol offices directing traffic around a slide at Puerto Suello hill, the officers said.

Officers Joel W. Boughton and Palmer W. Cunningham said they found three handmade cigarettes, one of them partially smoked, and some unidentified red capsules in the car driven by Richard I. May of 26 Terra Linda Drive.

May and his passenger, Michael Sullivan of San Mateo, were held on suspicion of possession of dangerous drugs and possession of marijuana. May also was suspected of being under the influence of dangerous drugs and had no driver's license in his possession, the highway patrol said.

May was taken to Juvenile Hall, while Sullivan was booked at Marin County Jail on $315 bail to appear Tuesday.

San Domenico Singers Slate Two Concerts

The fourth annual preview concert of the San Domenico Singers will be held Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. in the San Domenico School's new Alumnae Hall on the Sleepy Hollow campus.

The concert will be repeated Thursday at 6 p.m. in the De Young Museum in San Francisco. For the first time both concerts are open to the public. The performances are sponsored by the Dominican Sisters and San Domenico Alumnae Council with Mrs. Robert B. Lashly of Greenbrae and Mrs. H. B. Grandin of Ross serving as co-chairmen.

The chorus of 23 girls is directed by James Tippey, formerly with the Robert Shaw Chorale and Roger Wagner Chorale. Recently he was heard as baritone soloist with the San Francisco Civic Chorale at the War Memorial Opera House.

Included in the program will be works by Brahms, Copeland, Vaughan Williams, a chorus from the Stabat Mater by Pergolesi and "Ave Maria" by Da Vittoria.

Instrumental solos will be performed by students Jan Gauder, cellist, and Joanne Gaizutis, pianist. The group will be accompanied by Faith France, pianist and director of music at San Domenico, and by Beverly Bellows, harpist of the Oakland Symphony.

The concert will be tape recorded by radio station KKHI and will be heard on its Saturday morning youth concert series.

Art On Display

A collection of paintings, drawings and etchings by San Rafael artist Orene Goldberg will be on exhibit at Sam's Anchor Cafe, Main Street, Tiburon, starting Tuesday through March 31.

HUMAN VALUES — Dr. Maxwell H. Goldberg, Humanities director for the Center for Continuing Liberal Education at Pennsylvania State University, will talk on "Technological Change, Human Values and Personal Dignity" at 8:15 p.m., March 7, in College of Marin's Fine Arts building.

Corte Madera AWOL Suspect Flees Presidio

A 19-year-old Corte Madera youth, accused of breaking a police officer's hip on Feb. 10 in Corte Madera, has escaped from the Presidio of San Francisco, where he was being detained for being AWOL, a deputy district attorney said yesterday.

Carl Vestal Hayes of 2 Harbor Drive, was turned over to military authorities Wednesday, Gary W. Thomas told Judge Hadden W. Roth of Marin Municipal Court yesterday.

Alth9ugh Hayes' attorney argued that Hayes is not due in court again until March 21 when a preliminary hearing on the felony battery charge is scheduled, Judge Roth increased Hayes' bail from $1,200 to $5,000 and issued a warrant for his arrest.

Hayes was out on bail while awaiting trial for assault on Corte Madera Officer George Koehler.

DRAMA REVIEW

ACT's Soviet Play Is Universal Tale

BY KARL BARRON

SAN FRANCISCO — A play which ran more than 2,000 performances in the Soviet Union is the latest addition to the repertory of the American Conservatory Theater at the Marines Memorial. Since we are led to believe that all Soviet drama is propaganda, one might wonder why ACT is doing Aleksei Arbusov's three-character play.

However, one leaves the theater with the realization that this is universal drama, taking place during and after anyone's war, in anyone's shoddy apartment, and between any two men and a woman. It is also difficult to understand the differences between Russian and American cultures which make "The Promise" seem to verge on soap operas at times, although this apparently was acceptable in the USSR.

It is directed by Edward Hastings and acted by Dana Larson, David Dukes and Mark Bramhall with total commitment and, after certain unevennesses are smoothed out, should develop into one of ACT's most exciting productions.

AGELESS STORY

Its story is ageless. Lika (Miss Larson), Marat (Dukes) and Leonidik (Bramhall) are thrown together during the 1942 siege of Leningrad. Arbusov wastes little time on chronicling that tale of massive heroism, but goes quickly into the budding love for Lika in both men.

Leonidik is a mama's boy, and eventually is the one Lika chooses to marry at war's end, despite her obvious adoration for Marat, a merry stretcher of truths who conceals his love under a facade of toughness. The outcome I will not reveal, but it is somewhat sudsy.

What rescues "The Promise" from outright daytime soap fare are Arbusov's continual flashes of revelation of the human condition and a feeling for quick imagery. Protesting the loss of Lika, Marat says, "I left my childhood in this room!"

In an obvious stab at regimentation, Marat says, "A man's life is ended when he finds it has now been decided for him." And Lika echoes womankind around the world when Marat leaves for the front and to the ever-present background of gunfire, she cries, "Every single shot will be aimed at him now — only at him."

These three young ACT members bring many memorable moments to "The Promise." Dukes, whose career began at College of Marin and Marin Shakespeare Festival, continues to grow in acting stature. His Marat is a well thought-out character, appealing, yet understandable in his braggadocio He draws, perhaps too suavely, every bit of humor from the role. And one is aware of that indefinable electricity that separates the men from the moppets onstage.

Miss Larsen, too, has grown, and here is given a chance to show her ability. She charms as a girl, but avoids coyness, and matures into a woman of poise. I felt that her final scenes were played under a strain that was not part of Lika's character, but this may disappear with performance.

ROLE IN DEPTH

Bramhall, prophetically stating his love for Lika, "You are my sister and my mother — my whole wide world," delineates the weaker of the men with excellent depth.

Things that stick: Lika and Marat's sheer joy while wolfing canned hash; the violent tension built by Dukes and Bramhall during a discussion of poetry; the smooth translation by Hastings and Dwight Stevens; Patrizia von Brandenstein's costumes.

"The Promise" is well worth seeing.

New Art Gallery Opens In Larkspur

The newly opened Oracle Gallery, 460 Magnolia Avenue, Larkspur, will specialize in shows of contemporary art in all media.

Dumke Sued For Banning Art Exhibit

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The American Civil Liberties Union yesterday filed a suit on behalf of two professors and two students at California State College at Long Beach to force the school to show an art exhibit that has been -called pornographic.

The action was filed against state college chancellor Glenn S. Dumke over a series of sculptures created by William Spater, who said he was prohibited from showing the works although they had been approved by both his advisor and the graduate committee for exhibition.

The sculptures were a graduate project required by the art department.

The suit, which seeks a court order requiring Dumke to set aside his prohibition of Spater's exhibit, was brought on behalf of Spater, Stephen Werlick, an art professor; Kenneth Applegate, chairman of the history department, and another student Paul Versailles.

Versailles and Applegate joined the suit as a class action for all faculty members and students who desired to see the exhibit.

Jewish Center Sets Programs For Spring

The Marin Jewish Community Center has announced its spring programs for adults and juniors. The adult program begins next Wednesday and the junior program will begin March 12.

Adults will be offered classes at the center, 200 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael, in oil painting, yoga, folk guitar, fine dining and creative writing. The center will also sponsor groups on contemporary Jewish problems and the writings of contemporary black writers and a chess club.

The youth program will offer classes in judo, art, creative and modern dance, creative writing, puppetry, guitar and cooking. In addition, "friendship extension" programs will be established in Sausalito, Mill Valley, Corte Madera, San Rafael and Terra Linda.

Registration information may be obtained from the center.

Mill Valley's Links Profit

The City of Mill Valley — which entered the golfing game 35 years ago for an outlay of 25,000 depression-year dollars — has a nine-hole municipal course that has been fully self-supporting ever since. (See stories on other cities' golf hopes, page 8.)

Operated by the city parks and recreation department and managed by golf professional Malcolm Brown, it will receive this year from greens fees of $52,690 an allotment of $7,000 for upkeep and improvements.

With total expenditures this fiscal year estiated at $58,461, there is in addition to the anticipated greens fees a carryover of $6,921 from the previous year.

Expenditures include the salaries of the golf pro, groundskeeper and groundsman, plus a quarter of the salary of Don Dimitratos, parks and recreation director, and half the park superintendent's and senior groundsman's salaries.

Golf pro Brown also operates the pro shop at the course and keeps the profits.

The course was a private club until bought by the city in 1934 for $25,000.

Eastern Orthodoxy: 'Preserver Of Early Faith'

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

A great many people, including journalists and public officials, labor under the delusion that America has three major religious faiths — Protestant, Roman Catholic, and Jewish.

This popular misapprehension is a source of considerable irritation to Americans who are members of the Eastern Orthodox Church. Eastern Orthodoxy is a major faith by any criterion, with a world-wide following of more than 150 million persons, including some six million in the United States.

Any attempt to lump Orthodox Christians with Protestants or Catholics is an egregious affront to the Orthodox.

They not only regard their church as an entirely separate branch of Christianity; they also insist that it is the one, true, original Christian church, "the depository and true preserver of early Christian faith."

They cite impressive historical evidence in support of this claim. The Christian church was born at the eastern end of the Mediterranean, and until it obtained a toehold in the imperial capital of Rome, most of its apostolic activity was concentrated in that area.

Jerusalem, Antioch, Corinth, and Alexandria were great centers of Christian worship long before the Roman Christians emerged from the catacombs. The Roman church grew rapidly in size and importance after it won imperial favor in the fourth century.

Meanwhile, the Eastern churches increasingly looked for leadership to Constantinople, the transplanted capital of the Roman Empire. By 500 A.D. Rome had become the center of Christianity in the West, with Constantinople its center in the East.

The two branches of Christendom maintained the same creeds and sacraments, and their bishops came together occasionally for ecumenical councils, at which they sought (and usually achieved) agreement on doctrines affecting the whole Church.

But over the centuries, they drifted progressively farther apart. The Western churches used Latin in their liturgy, the Eastern churches used Greek. There were differences in ritual, with the Eastern churches preferring longer, more elaborate ceremonies than Western taste found congenial. But the really serious cause of friction was the growing persistence with which the Bishop of Rome claimed supreme authority over the universal Church.

This claim was hotly disputed, not only by the Patriarch of Constantinople, but by most of the other bishops of the Eastern churches. By the time the last Ecumenical Council of the undivided Church was held, in 787 A.D. the issue was clearly drawn.

The church of Rome asserted that Christ had entrusted the rule of the Church of St. Peter, and that Peter's authority descended by divine right to each man who succeeded him in the office of Bishop of Rome.

The Eastern churches contended that Christ had never intended the church to be under a centralized, monarchical government. On the contrary, they said, the early Christian churches founded in the apostolic era all enjoyed a high degree of local autonomy. The Eastern churches were willing to extend a voluntary "primacy in honor" to the bishops of great metropolitan centers like Rome and Constantinople, but they declared that every bishop was equal in authority to every other bishop, and that only a synod, or council of all bishops, could presume to legislate for the entire Church.

In 1054 A.D. the estrangement was formalized by what historians have called "The Great Schism." The Roman Pope excommunicated the Patriarch of Constantinople, and the Patriarch excommunicated the Pope.

In recent years, mighty efforts have been made by the late Pope John XXIII and Pope Paul VI, to pave the way for reunion of the Roman Catholic and Eastern Orthodox Churches. Pope John offered the Orthodox bishops seats of honor at the Second Vatican Council, and Pope Paul exchanged the "kiss of peace" with the Patriarch of Constantinople in a dramatic personal meeting at Jerusalem. The mutual excommunications of 1054 A.D. were rescinded.

But even the most ecumenical-minded Orthodox say that reunion is out of the question until the Pope is prepared to accept the status of "first among equals." And there is no prospect of the Pope's accepting that status any time soon.

Although poles apart on papal authority, the Eastern Orthodox Church and the Roman Catholic Church are very close together on other doctrinal matters. The Orthodox Eucharist, known as the Divine Liturgy, is fundamentally similar to the Catholic Mass. The most conspicuous difference is that the Byzantine rites are much longer (sometimes running to three hours).

Orthodox worship has a strong mystical bent. One of its distinctive aspects is the widespread use in churches and homes of sacred images of Christ and the saints. These images—they may be paintings or mosaics—are called icons Their purpose is to emphasize the living reality of the persons they depict.

Praying before an icon, an Orthodox Christian is reminded that Jesus is not an empty name, nor an abstract concept, but one who was embodies in human flesh and blood and who still lives and reigns as Lord among his people.

Orthodox Christians have no central organizational structure. Although the Patriarch of Constantinople enjoys a "primacy of honor," he has no real authority outside his own severely shrunken patriarchate in the city that is now known as Istanbul.

The Orthodox Communion is composed of a dozen self-governing national churches. The largest is found in Russia, where Orthodoxy still claims some 50 million adherents after two generations of persecution by the Communists.

The first Orthodox Church on what is now American soil was built by Russian monks at Kodiak, Alaska, in 1792.

Since immigrants brought with them their national expression of Orthodoxy, America by the start of the twentieth century had a bewildering variety of Orthodox churches—Russian, Greek, Serbian, Syrian, Polish, Romanian, and so on.

At first they had relatively little to do with one another. In recent years, however, they have begun to draw together, and some leaders believe that the time is approaching when they will merge into a single American Orthodox Church.

HAMILTON SCOTT
Guest speaker

Speaker Will Discuss Christian Center Idea

Hamilton Scott, founder of the Hunter's Point Christian Center in San Francisco, will be guest speaker at the 9:30 a.m. services tomorrow of the Marin Covenant Church.

Scott, a bus driver for the San Francisco Municipal Bus Line, will discuss his involvement in trying to solve some of the inner-city problems.

Following the morning service he will answer questions at a meeting of the adult class.

Through his ministry Scott is attempting to mobilize concerned adults to provide Hunter's Point youth with recreational activities in addition to Christian teaching.

The Covenant Church is meeting temporarily in the Marinwood Community Center, Lucas Valley and Miller Creek roads.

Concepts Of Teilhard To Be Explored

Unity-in-Marin will sponsor a one-day lecture-seminar next Saturday on Teilhard de Chardin's "The Phenomenon of Man."

The session will be held at Olney Hall of the College of Marin campus, beginning at 9:30 a.m. and continuing to 5 p.m.

The program will be presented by the Phenomenon of Man Project, a non-profit group from San Fernando Valley which was formed in 1962 to increase interest in Teilhard's concepts.

Teilhard, a French Jesuit priest and a paleontologist, reconciled in his works and in his writings the validity of scientific method and findings with the validity of a religious faith.

The project team consists of five laymen, four Protestants and a Catholic, according to Candida Wright, Unity-in-Marin minister.

"The lecture-seminar is a straight-forward expostion of Teilhard's text without any attempt to relate it to any school of scientific, political or religious opinion," she said.

God's Existence Is Pinpointed In Book

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Dr. Elton Trueblood, the esteemed Quaker philosopher, says a man has only to look at himself to find a powerful argument for the existence of God.

This argument is developed in his new book, "A Place to Stand," published last week by Harper and Row.

"There are many good reasons for knowing that God really exists," says Dr. Trueblood. "But no reason is more compelling than that which is involved in understanding what it is to be a person."

If modern men and women wish to follow a genuinely scientific method in formulating their ideas about God, they will begin not with abstract speculations but with the "experienced fact" of their own existence as persons.

"We may never be able to know whether there are thinking, self-conscious and partly self-directing beings anywhere else in the universe. But we know that such beings exist in this century on one of the smaller planets, in orbit around one particular sun.

"This may seem too obvious to mention, because it is common knowledge. But it is certainly not too obvious to examine. It is, indeed, one of the most important of all known facts."

From the viewpoint of formulating a philosophy about the origin and nature of the universe, Dr. Trueblood says, the great significance of persons is that they clearly belong to another order of reality."

Because there are persons, "we know that in addition to bodies, such as the forms of rocks, which do not feel, and in addition to animals, which do not make moral distinctions, there are beings who are able to entertain conscious purposes and to care."

Anyone who mediates on the "amazing fact" that such beings have emerged in an apparently unfeeling material universe is bound to find himself asking, sooner or later, "What kind of world it must take to produce such an emergence."

Obviously, it is a world in which there are physical, mental and spiritual levels of existence. And the undeniable reality of the latter two levels points toward a personal God as creator.

"Here is the most difficult problem to be faced by the person who seeks to deny that God really is," says Dr. Trueblood. "He is forced to adopt the credulity of one who believes that caring can emerge from a fundamentally uncaring world.

"While the Christian is faced by the perplexing problem of evil, the unbeliever is faced by the vastly more difficult and more baffling problem of personality, in what he believes to be an utterly impersonal world. A believer believes in God partly because he is unable to make a leap of faith as great as the atheist is forced to make."

THE LENTEN STORY

Carving Bible Stories Is Way Of Life For A Town

By WOODI ISHMAEL
AP Newsfeatures
(Second of a seven-part series)

The Republic of the Philippines likes to be known as "Asia's only Christian nation," since 85 per cent of the Filipino people are registered as Christian, compared to the other countries of Asia with less than 10 per cent Christian.

The Christian art of the Philippines is made up of many cultures, both oriental and western, showing the influence of the many peoples who have come there.

But it is in wood-carving that the Filipinos are most at home. The islands are rich in woods sutiable for carving and it is in this medium the life of Jesus is often protrayed.

In the Province of Laguna there is a whole town devoted to carving. Its name is Paete, which means "The Chisel." There are over a hundred shops and factories turning out carvings like the one above, the Last Supper.

The inspiration for this carving was undoubtedly from St. Mark, 14:17, 18. "And in the evening he cometh with the 12. And as he sat and did eat, Jesus said, Verily I say unto you, One of you which eateth with me shall betray me."

For the people of Paete, carving the Bible stories is not only a livelihood, it is a way of life. And like Jesus, a carpenter, they also work with wood.

Special Folk Mass To Be Sung At Rites

"The Winds of God," a folk mass, will be presented as the Holy Communion service at the 10 a.m. service tomorrow at St. Luke Presbyterian Church, San Pedro Road and Bayview Drive in San Rafael.

Participating under direction of James H. Groves, will be the Chapel choir, Jubal Bell Ringers, Crusader rhythm ensemble, guitar and drums.

The congregation will have a chance to participate in such songs as "Blowin' in the Wind," Michael Row Your Boat," "Kumba yah," and "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands."

In discussing the service, Rev. Henry Kent, pastor, said, "Modern folk music is not so much an innovation, as a return to the ancient joyful expression of faith by the people."

TO BECOME A PRIEST

Life Will Begin At 67

ORCHARD LAKE, Mich. (AP) — Many priests retire at age 65, but Francis Waligora hopes to get started in the priesthood after he turns 67.

The 61-year-old Waligora, a Polish native, achieved a lifetime goal when he enrolled at Orchard Lake's Sts. Cyril and Methodius Seminary last fall.

"Always, from high school, it was my desire to become a priest," the short, balding seminarian says.

It will take him six more years to be ordained, adding to the years spent at the St. Philip Neri pre-seminary school in Boston.

Waligora actually was admitted to the seminary through the intercession of New Orleans Archbishop Philip M. Hannan, who met the aging student in Boston and promised him a job in his archdiocese when he is ordained.

Waligora, who spent most of his life in Poland, Italy and Czechoslovakia, was brought to Chatham, Ont., by a war relief fund and finished high school there while working nights as a church janitor.

Wherever he went, though, he read theology in his spare time.

How does he like studying with men about 40 years his junior? "Oh, I like it. I feel young now," he says. "There is much memorizing and it's harder than I thought when I was young. I study theology . . . that's the main subject for priests. . . .

"So by a long way I come on the way to the priesthood. But providence is good to me. I'm here now."

Tiburon Peninsula Youths Involved In Church Study

An ecumenical program designed to appeal to Tiburon Peninsula junior high school students has been established by the Westminster Presbyterian Church of Tiburon and the Community Congregational Church of Belvedere-Tiburon.

The 40 teen-agers active in the yough meet from 6 to 7:30 p.m. every other Thursday for dinner and small group discussions.

The meetings alternate between the two churches with two meetings at the Congregational chruch for every one at the Presbyterian church.

Rev. Franklin Evans of the Congregational church is the group's adviser. He is assisted by Marilyn Olson of Westminster church, Richard and Linda Johnson from the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, and Jean Drake of the Congregational church.

The current study program is focused on the "Light on Life" series written by Rev. Cyr Miller, a secular priest with Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church in Mill Valley.

In addition, extra-curricular activities such as ski trips, bicycle trips and dances are held on the weekends.

Closer Work Is Urged By Leaders Of Baptist Group

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The North American Baptist Fellowship has urged nine Baptist groups on the continent, with a combined membership of more than 15 million persons, to cooperate more closely in the fields of education and publication.

The fellowship's general committee said the publishing agencies of the nine groups should explore the possibility of sharing material and manuscripts as well as joint publication.

The nine groups also were asked to "seek cooperative efforts in establishing and supporting religious student work on campuses where such work does not now exist."

Church To Discuss School Formation

Board members of Valley Baptist Church will hold a public meeting at 7:30 p.m. next Friday at the church on the possibility of starting a Christian elementary school in North Marin.

James Bramblett, principal of the Walnut Creek Christian Academy, will speak on the "Value of a Christian Education." The church is located at 3 North San Pedro Road.

ROHNERT PARK VENTURE — Golf carts at the clubhouse await the stream of players that Rohnert Park city fathers expect will turn the new municipal golf course into a gold mine for the city. Beyond the building lies the level nine-hole course, soon to grow to 18 holes. (Photo by Harold Bard)

Rohnert Park Taking Golf Course Plunge

By BONNIE BARD

While the cities of San Rafael and Santa Rosa tiptoe cautiously toward development of municipal golf courses, Rohnert Park — hoping it has a Midas touch — has plunged boldly into such a venture.

The community of 5,500 persons will soon have an 18-hole course in operation, and City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan is optimistic that Rohnert Park will convert what began as a private financial disaster into a public gold mine.

He called the project a real bargain at $700,000 on the basis of land values and said, "Someday, it will mean a lot to Rohnert Park as a recreational investment and in attracting business, industry and residents."

Santa Rosa is studying the possibility of a city golf course and has estimated costs at $1.25 million.

Voters in San Rafael may get a chance this year to pass judgment on a proposed municipal course on the Smith Brothers property, north of the Civic Center.

On Feb. 3 the San Rafael City Council voted 3-2 in favor of placing the golf course issue before the voters, at some unspecified future date, rather than making a decision themselves.

The move dissappointed San Rafael businessmen Irving Chapman, Donald Collins and Milton Schwartz who have formed a nonprofit corporation and want to get the 18-hole project off the ground as soon as possible. They estimated the project costs at $1.5 million and claimed the course would be self-sustaining with no cost to the public.

Callinan feels Rohnert Park — unlike San Rafael, which must start from scratch — was fortunate to gain access to the course "through the back door." Originally the course was developed by a syndicate that went broke before the course was in full operation. Nearly $250,000 in the hole, the project went into bankruptcy court.

"This is when the residents became interested in saving the course," Callinan reports. Resolutions from the chamber of commerce, homeowners group and nearly all service organizations urged the council to consider taking over the course.

"We didn't want a housing project on the northern edge of the city," he said. "It's a perfect spot and by that time it was already part of the city master plan."

The city manager said he doubts that a referendum would have been passed despite the organized support. "That's simply because the nongolfers outnumber the golfers," he said. A nonprofit organization was formed to make the purchase.

Agreeing upon a purchase price of $825,000, less the cost of needed improvements, the city closed the deal on April 12, 1968 and took on the 143 acres. Soon the process of making improvements began, including regrading the land, solving irrigation problems, constructing a maintenance building and remodeling the clubhouse. The city also improved Golf Course Road that leads from Highway 101 to the course.

Callinan said the improvements were made at no cost to the taxpayers since the sellers returned $125,000 of the purchase price to pay for them, leaving the net outlay of $700,000.

Bonds totaling $700,000 were purchased by a private party in Southern California, according to Callinan, with payments deferred until Jan. 1, 1970.

"We felt the deferment would give us time to bring the course up to par, so to speak, and attract enough business to help us break even," he said.

The front nine holes opened last August and the back nine are scheduled to open in March.

Estimating the operating costs at $4,000 per month, Callinan said it must bring a minimum income of $120,000 per year for the city to break even when the bonds come due.

The San Rafael proposal, Councilman Fred E. Jensen told fellow councilmen in successfully urging the vote for a referendum, would obligate the city for $96,000 to $100,000 a year, and if revenues failed to raise that amount, taxpayers would have to make up the difference.

The Rohnert Park City Council last month increased most greens fees by 50 cents. Weekend play for nine holes is $3 and for 18 holes, $4. Special rates are available for weekday play, families and on a yearly basis.

"If the course doesn't break even and it begins costing the city a lot of money, we can always sell it to a private firm as a possible subdivision," Callinan said. He expressed optimism that it would not fail.

With such a small city population, course professional Robert M. Porter is hoping to draw players from other parts of Sonoma County and from Marin.

The course is extremely flat, but is bordered by the foothills of the Sonoma mountains. "It's really a very good course because it's enough challenge to enjoy the game, but not too rough to exhaust the player," Porter said. The 6,435-yard course is a par 71 with a rating of 69.

There are four lakes and shallow sandtraps of glistening white Monterey sand. The course also includes a driving range, complete pro shop and a coffee shop that serves breakfast. The concessions are leased from the city by Porter.

In addition to providing recreation for area residents, the course is used by students at Rancho Cotate High School and Sonoma State College, Porter is working with Recreation Director Thomas West to set up classes as part of the city recreation program.

Up to 40 per cent of the pheasant hens nesting in an alfalfa field may be killed during the first cutting.

● 3 and 4-Bedroom Medallion Homes
California ranch, Provincial, Oriental, contemporary designs; 2 baths, w/w carpeting, drapes, complete electric kitchens, expensive wallpapers, Roman baths, easy-care landscaping, fencing.

● Private Boat Docks
Capable of handling a 40-ft. boat. Deep water channels. Channels 600' to 3,500' wide for easy maneuvering. Exceptionally wide waterways mean added safety for water skiing, sailing, swimming and fishing.

● HOUSE PLANS . . .
Eight different floor plans are available, including both three and four-bedroom styles; 2-story and single level . . . each custom designed.

● COMPLETE PACKAGE . . .
With a single down payment, you get a complete home including all the "expensive" extras: Drapes and carpeting; landscaping and fencing; even a 32' boat dock. The items are all included in the quoted price.

● FINANCING . . .
With only 5% down, we offer a 95% first loan bearing interest at 6.9% per annum. With 10% down, interest is 6.85%; with 20% down, interest is 6.75%. These rates are approximately 1% below the prime rate currently being quoted for home loans.

● CLOSING COSTS . . .
There is no loan fee. The seller pays for your Title Insurance policy. You, the buyer, will pay approximately $100 in incidental closing costs, plus your first year's fire insurance policy and such tax impounds as the lender may require. On an average priced home, we estimate your total cash outlay (including a 5% down payment) to be approximately $2,800.

● OCCUPANCY . . .
We can arrange for you to move into your new home immediately upon approval of credit.

● PRICES begin at

Hallinan's Contempt Term Stayed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Veteran attorney Vincent Hallinan's five-day contempt of court sentence has been stayed by the State Court of Appeal pending its consideration of his challenge against the penalty.

Superior Court Judge Carl H. Allen imposed sentence Jan. 2 for statements Hallinan made while he was defending his attorney son, Terence, in a criminal court case.

Terence's two-week trial ended with a hung jury which could not decide whether he assaulted a police officer during a demonstration at San Francisco last May.

Judge Allen stayed the contempt sentence until Feb. 28 when the elder Hallinan, of Belvedere, filed notice of appeal. The attorney asked the higher court for a writ of review and annulment of the contempt order.

Judge Allen said that in arguing for a mistrial motion, the 72-year-old Hallinan was "disorderly, contemptuous and insolent" in accusing Asst. Dist. Atty. Pierre F. V. Merle of falsifying evidence.

Novato Delays Apartment Plan Review Session

Review of plans for a proposed 19-unit apartment building in Novato was continued yesterday at a meeting of the city's plan review committee until March 14 at 8:30 a.m. at city hall.

The 19 units are part of a 49-unit total planned for the east side of Railroad Avenue south of Orange Avenue.

Review of plans for construction of a Church of Christ on the south side of Novato Boulevard, west of McClay Road, also was continued.

Walter Kieckheter was granted permission to erect a "Pacheco Plaza" sign 20 feet high and containing a reader board of plaza business at the shopping center.

The committee approved a 16-square-foot sign to advertise the William Ruhnke Co. organ and piano sales business at 4 Front Street.

Drinking Water Boiling Need Ends

Residents of Paradise Ranch Estates near Inverness no longer have to boil their drinking water.

The boil-water edict was lifted yesterday afternoon by William L. Desmond, director of environmental health for Marin. Residents had been boiling their water since Feb. 3, when heavy rains brought polluting debris into springs which supply water.

Water lines were flushed, storage tanks drained and cleaned and new chlorinators added to the system, Desmond said. Water is supplied by a company owned by the developer of Paradise Ranch Estates, David S. Adams, San Anselmo real estate agent.

STARS ABOVE

Venus Most Brilliant Planet During March

By SHERMAN WALKER

The planet Venus has been shining like a giant spotlight in the western sky for several months. Now, on March 3, it reaches its brightest phase, shining at a brilliant magnitude of minus 4.3.

Venus will again reach greatest brilliancy on May 14 but will then be west of the sun and can only be seen in the eastern sky before sunrise.

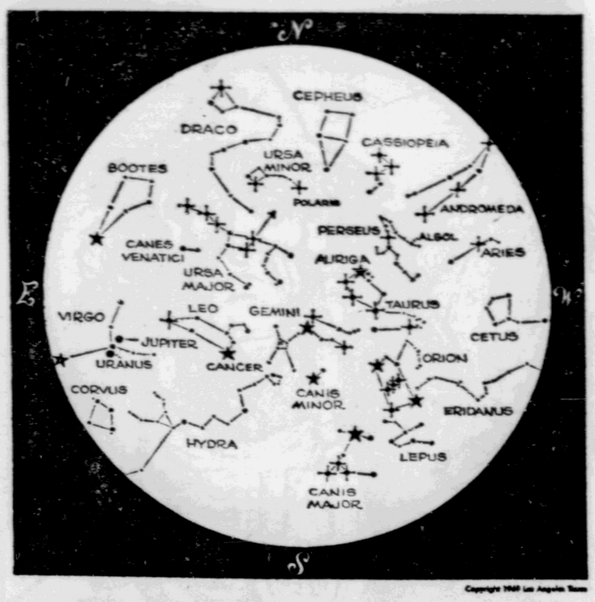

Also, on March 3, the moon is full. Uranus, a planet unknown to the ancients because it can't be seen without a small telescope or good binoculars, is 1 degree north of the moon on March 5. About two hours later, the moon will pass 2 degrees south of Jupiter.

On March 6 there will be an occultation of the first-magnitude star, Spica, visible from North America. This means that the moon will pass between earth and the star, and we won't be able to see the star for a time. The occultation will occur about an hour before midnight, Pacific Standard Time.

On March 9 the moon will pass 6 degrees south of Neptune, a telescopic planet. On March 10 the moon passes 6 degrees south of Mars and two days later the moon is at perigee, the closest part of its orbit to the earth.

Jupiter and Uranus will be very close together on March 15, less than a degree apart. On March 17 the moon will be new and there will be an annular eclipse of the sun but it won't be visible from the United States.

March 19 the moon will pass 6 degrees south of Venus and on the 20th the moon passes 5 degrees north of Saturn.

Panel On Arts, Drugs Converted To Chaos

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A panel discussion on drugs and the arts became an exercise in chaos as poet Allen Ginsberg and other guests were forced to do their thing in competition with a vocal Yippie contingent.

The discussion, what there was of it, was part of a three-day symposium at the State University at Buffalo on the scientific, legal and social uses of drugs.

Ginsberg, known as the bard of the beat generation, and the other panelists tried to explain and perform literature written under the influence of drugs.

The bushy-bearded poet had barely swung into his program of "hare krishna," Hindu chants and free-verse poetry, when the tiny Yippie faction in the mostly student audience of 2,500 answered back with Indian war cries.

During the session, three children, none older than two years, toddled back and forth across the stage. They seemed fascinated by the goings-on.

'MALCOLM IS DEAD'

The second speaker, Archie Hepp, a Negro jazz musician, began a wailing, scream-punctuated poem called "Malcolm is Dead."

He fared no better with the dissenters, however, and after a few minutes put on his coat and left the stage in Clark Gymnasium.

At that point, the Yippies took to the stage and gave out with a few more war chants and obscene comments.

The panel's moderator, English Prof. Leslie A. Fiedler, tried to calm the disrupters with the comment, "Let's all make music all the way together," but his efforts were in vain.

Another poet, John Weiners, lashed back at the dissidents as they interrupted his reading of the works of Franz Fanon. When one, a girl, said she was acting up out of boredom, he replied, "well, go get excited somewhere else." He received strong applause.

Next at the microphone was Paul Krassner, edltor of Realist magazine, who said, "Drugs are killing the arts."

DEEP BREATHING

Fiedler than called a halt to the "discussion" by then an hour old, and a young man in a jester's costume took the platform to lead the audience in deep-breathing exercises.

Then, the Morot City 5, a revolutionary rock" band from Detroit, began a concert of earsplitting music that closed out the session.

Marinwood Resident Denies Fraud Charge

Robert Kern Mansur of Marinwood pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of fraud and a preliminary hearing was set for April 3.

Steen Schellenberg of 98 Graceland Drive, San Rafael, told police Mansur sold him a phone lead for his insurance business last April and that Mansur had neither produced the lead nor refunded an $85 deposit.

Tests Show Beards May Harbor Troublesome Load Of Bacteria

VAN DELLEN

Beards are popular but less so than they were at the turn of the century. Little goatees were worn by many physicians. And, scientists like Pasteur and Ehrlich grew a full beard.

But are beards safe for those working in laboratories where lethal microbes are being studied?

A group of Maryland microbiologists decided to find out.

THE TEST SUBJECTS were four volunteer laboratory workers with 73-day-old beards.

Their bushy growth was sprayed with bacteria and samples were removed after 30 minutes and after 6 hours with and without intermediate washing. Washing greatly reduced the number of bacteria but more persisted in the bristly appendage than on the faces of clean-shaven men treated in the same way.

The scientists continued their experiments on a mannequin fitted with a sterilized natural hair beard which was sprayed with Newcastle disease viruses.

These are capable of causing a disorder in chickens resembling fowl plague. Many chicks were allowed to nestle in the beard for 5-minute periods. Few became infected after the beard was washed, but a large majority developed the disease when this was not done.

THE MANNEQUIN'S BEARD was then sprayed with the toxins responsible for botulism (ptomaine posoning). The nose and mouth of 60 guinea-pigs were nestled and stroked across one-third of the beard for 5 minutes. Four of the animals died.

This is not a condemnation of beards, except perhaps, for bacteriolgists working with highly infectious organisms. There is a remote possibility that lethal organisms could be brought home in the beard. Frequent hand washing is an important safeguard, especially among men addicted to stroking their hairy chin.

IT IS ONLY FAIR to say that bacteria can always be found on hairless skin. These critters multiply but the oils in the skin are antibacterial and keep the unwelcome visitors under control.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompaines request to the I-J).

TIGHTLY-CLOSED EYES

W. B. writes: Whenever I squeeze my eyes tightly and then open them suddenly, I see much better temporarily. Why does this happen?

REPLY

When astigmatism is present, closing the lids tightly rounds out the eyeballs and neutralizes the slight changes in configuration that are responsible for this visual disorder. When the eyes are opened, there is better sight momentarily until the eyeball resumes it former shape.

EARLY-ACTING GLANDS

Mrs. T. C. writes: Isn't it unusual for a 7-year-old girl to have underarm odor?

REPLY

Yes. It is a sign of precocious activity of the oil-secreting (apocrine) glands.

Power To The Taxpayers! Upend The Civic Center!

PULL UP A CHAIR and join us pipe dreamers.

The subject is:

The Civic Center and What Can Be Done About it.

We pipe dreamers think it is time to do something.

In this age of confrontation politics, obviously we need to organize for demonstration and involvement.

It is really immaterial whether we organize a series of William D. Muscleman Clubs or whether we join together in one consolidated mass organization called Citizens for a Democratic Society (CDS), Overburdened Taxpayers Liberation Front (OTLF), or Disenfranchised Citizens Union (DSU). Before we are finished, we may find all these groups and others like them appearing on the picket line.

Picket line?

Yes, we are sick and tired of having our relevant and just needs and demands ignored by the Civic Center establishment.

Our rallying cry, "Power to the citizens and taxpayers," will not be silenced until our 22 just demands are met.

THE LIST OF 22 HASN'T been completed in final form yet, but we nevertheless will demand that all 22 of them — just and non-negotiable — be implemented without further delay, because they are just and non-negotiable.

If it is necessary to occupy the supervisors' chambers and the office of Administrator Alan Bruce to dramatize the justice and immediate urgency for implementing our just demands, we will have no alternative but to proceed with the takeover.

If Civic Center pigs try to stop us, who knows? Maybe we will end up having a pig roast over a fire fueled by tax assessment records.

In any event, we have promises from such respected members of the taxpaying community as Assemblyman Bagman and Senator Joke to interpose themselves between the pigs and demonstrating members of the militant Muscleman Clubs to minimize pig violence.

OUR OVERALL PLAN calls for the DSU to be in charge of locating and destroying all tax and assessment records, by which DSU members have been kept in perpetual enslavement by the establishment.

The more moderate OTLF will be responsible for occupying the offices of the tax collector and assessor until certain of the 22 demands are met; namely, those dealing with the handing over of tax assessing and tax collecting powers and authority to a committee of the community's representative taxpayers and property owners.

At the same time, in order to make planning and building inspection functions more relevant to those involved most deeply, the planning and building inspection offices will be occupied by demonstrators until the establishment accedes to the just demands that the county's leading real estate developers place a man of their own choice in each of those key departments.

If the picketing and occupation is not quickly successful, the slogan, "Power to the citizens and taxpayers," will be augmented.

We shall not shout "Shut It Down."

In this confrontation, the by-word will become "Stand It On End."

This, as all OTLF people know, refers to the horrible inefficiency of the elongated Civic Center buildings which in the interest of efficiency should be stood on end so as to convert them to efficient, compact vertical structures, relevant to their function as regards taxpayers.

IN SHORT, THE CIVIC Center establishment must be brought under the control of voting citizens and taxpayers. Taxpayers must be given control of hiring, firing, spending.

"Power to the Taxpayers."

"Musclemen of the World, Unite."

If the rain doesn't let up soon, so we pipe dreamers can get out for exercise and fresh air, there's no telling how our futures will be affected.

"Mammy, Where Did I Come From?"

Wildflower Season

Well before the end of Marin's winter rains is in sight, the spring wildflower season has begun. Marin is blessed with about 1,000 species of wildflowers, of which about 300 are spring-blooming.

The reason for this abundance is that our county has a wide variety of what biologists call "life-zones." A given place in the Nevada desert, for example, would probably have only one life zone, but Marin packs such wide variations of rainfall and sunshine into one small area that it grows the plants of many parts of the world. Add a general mildness of temperature and the result is an abundance of wildflowers.

Another good reason for wanting to live here!

Bouquets And Brickbats

BOUQUET to John B. Clark of Tiburon for offering his city a Victorian city hall, which he would move from Petaluma and locate on his own or city property.

BRICKBATS to vandals who, by destroying and desecrating school buildings, add greatly to the cost of educating children who want to learn and to become something better than those who destroy.

BOUQUET to Assemblyman William T. Bagley for trying again with his "political incest" bill, which easily passed the Legislature last year but was vetoed by the governor.

BRICKBATS to the four members of the Bolinas Harbor District Board who held a "sneak meeting" with a state official without notice to the public or to the fifth member of the board.

BOUQUET to the Petaluma Leghorns, a now-defunct football team which gave the last $3,200 of its treasury to help complete a gymnasium for the Petaluma Boys Club.

Reporter Draws Propagandist Label

Finally I can confront I-J reporter Joanne Grant head-on, thanks to her comments in the Feb. 26 "Reporter's Notebook." Your Fairfax readers can now know who has been feeding them a single line for months. (Miss Grant covered the Congress of Community Progress last December and nearly all of our council meetings since.) I take exception to her statement that "the mayor has steadfastly ignored their (the congress) recommendations."

Much can be gained from a well-run Congress of Community Progress. However, one problem with such a town meeting is in preventing a panel, which makes the recommendations, from being unrepresentative of community opinion. The only panel where I feel there was absolutely no effort to discuss both sides of an issue was the civic affairs panel. If I may be blunt, it was one big snow job. I can find no criticism with the composition of the other five panels at the congress.

Nevertheless, the city council did essentially carry out the civic affairs recommendations — except that it did not hire a full-blown professional city administrator which I presume was inferred but not stated in the recommendations. In line with the congress ideas, we did "reestablish the city administrator position;" we will have "budget preparation," "centralized responsibility" and "assistance in carrying out Council policies;" and we did "investigate the possibilities of combining the administrator position with another position." We combined it with the position of city clerk.

It is interesting that Miss Grant concerns herself with the other "town meeting recommendations." They will be coming up for council discussion in future meetings . . .

Rudeness Better Than Giveaway

You and Supervisor Bud Baar seem determined to let the land developers and real estate interests have their way in Marin. Bud Baar is already, as supervisor, using his "lambast 'em" technique against the planning director, and you're giving him full support. Why did the 1968 grand jury concern itself with the hurt feelings of land developers — or was your story about their criticism of the planning director distorted? I could put up with a lot of rudeness from the planning director, or from any county officer, if he isn't willing to hand the county over to land developers, builders and speculators.

Suggested Meaning Of Peace Symbol

Reflecting on the peace symbol worn by the hippys and some members of the clergy, I can see only one meaning. Our world, a few years hence, broken into four political parts. The two large upper sections represent Russia and China dominating almost all of us. The two smaller sections representing Albania and Yugoslavia, left to show the Socialist respect for independence. Peace? Yes, of course, with USSR and China so busy suppressing the rest of the world, why bother each others sphere of influence. Is this what the clergy, hippys and Congressional doves have in mind, or have they thought this far ahead?

LINES ON LIVING

Tests Of Our Faith Come In Little Things

By Rabbi HAIM KEMELMAN

Religious faith is not only a feeling of emotion, but also the act of grace in motion, in deed as well as in thought. Religious faith entails a devotion of life, a commitment. And devotion is a derivative from the Latin word, to vow, implying a dynamism of a moving and rousing faith.

The ancient Hebrews, immediately upon their unfettering of the shackles of slavery, were instructed in the disciplines of sacrifice. Their newlywon freedom and redemption imposed upon them a corresponding sense of individual responsibilities and duties. Freedom demands its price, faith its exercises.

"ONWARD in faith!" . . . "Move forward!" is the Divine's redeeming voice thundering at every crossroad of the arid desert, at every parting of the raging sea, at every exodus of man, at every crossing into the promised land of individual redemption. And children of the human race, since time immemorial, have moved onward and forward in response to that eternal voice, pioneering new frontiers and new orbits, conquering oceans of water and of space, mastering worlds within themselves — worlds of ignorance, and of superstition and of human wilderness.

That voice is heard time and again and is echoed in the heart of every man. It asks not for blood, for burnt-offerings, for ablutions. It asks only for those self-redeeming powers which will make of that two-legged creature a real man, so much man as to be capable not only of the animal instinct of self-preservation but also of the God impulse of self-sacrifice, in obedience to an ideal, a cause, a principle of life.

But faith, to most of us, doesn't even require self-sacrifice. It unequivocally rejects it in everyday life as primitive paganism, yet, too many people today are guilty of self-mutilation in one way or another, in body or in soul. They commit the sin of self-immolation by working themselves to death, by driving themselves to death, by burning out before their time in presenting themselves as burnt offerings upon some dubious altar of pleasure, plan, or ambition.

"EVERYWHERE you turn," writes Alexander Eliot, "you see people who are self-sacrifices. They are, in the main, self-sacrifices to their own insurance policies, or to their own programs; they are caught in the closets of their own perceptions."

For most average people the test of faith is not in the self-offering of dramatic and heroic achievements. For, as someone wisely put it, we are not required to do great and extraordinary things; it is sufficient if we do small things extraordinarily well: if we heed the prophetic admonition and do whatever we do with heart and soul, with justice and with mercy and with humility before our God.

The simple requirements of faith are sublime, but not easy to practice. In time of crisis and danger, we usually rise to our destiny and display the best in man, yet, in ordinary daily circumstances, too often we are apt to show the beast in man: faltering indifference, selfishness and greed. As in the words of Goethe: "To make large sacrifices in big things is easy, but to make sacrifices in little things is what we are seldom capable of."

Missiles Amid The Tourists Stir Up Trouble In Paradise

HONOLULU — Trouble in paradise — that is the theme of the scenario developing in these beautiful islands that are the curious blend of highly advertised resort and one of America's most-powerful military installations.

The trouble is over the ballistic missile site in the vicinity of Honolulu. While no location has been definitely decided on, Rep. Patsy Takemoto Mink has a letter from the Department of the Army suggesting four possible sites, one of which would be selected next month. They are all close to present military installations or to the international airport.

INSTALLING an ABM is not merely a matter of propping up a missile. It is an elaborate installation requiring a minimum of 250 acres. On this island, as more and more resort hotels go up and the three military services expand their operations, land is at a premium. No matter which of the four sites is chosen (or one of several additional proposals the army is submitting) the opposition will be fierce, as it is already in a half-dozen mainland cities where ABMs are to be installed.

The three Democratic members of Hawaii's congressional delegation — Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, Rep. Spark M. Matsunaga and Mrs. Mink — are all opposed to the anti-ballistic missile system. Sen. Hiram Fong, Republican, is for it. The Democrats charge Fong with proposing to keep the ABM site out of crowded Oahu and put it on one of the seven other islands. Fong denies this.

EXPERIENCE on the mainland has shown that the battle lines are really drawn when a site is picked. Rep. Sidney Yates, D-Ill., has rushed into the fray to keep an ABM out of Libertyville, a suburb of Chicago.

In Detroit, Boston and every city where the army proposes to put a Sentinel missile indignant citizens have sent a barrage of protesting letters and telegrams to Congress. The outraged citizenry feel that far from being a protection, the Sentinel is an invitation to nuclear retaliation. The Pentagon claim that the ABM might reduce casualties in a nuclear exchange from a possible 100 million to 30 or 40 million is entirely unconvincing.

IT IS HERE in this newest state, 2,400 miles out in the Pacific with its ancient ties to Polynesia, that the incongruity of a protective missile system is most obvious. The eight islands scattered over a vast area are dependent on transport and communication links that would be shattered at the start of a nuclear strike. Life on the more remote and less populated islands might survive for a time until the fallout got in its lethal work.

The jet age has made Hawaii such a magnet for tourists that tourism is a rival to military-government spending in the economy of the islands. The building boom is phenomenal, with new resorts springing up like the luxuriant tropical vegetation.

On Hawaii, largest of the islands, Laurance Rockefeller is investing $25 million in a subdivision for the affluent. The big hotel chains are putting up new resorts not only in Hawaii but on Maui and Kauai. It is a boom such as the islands have never known before and optimists believe this is only the beginning, with the real gold rush in the near future when the big jets come in. Capable of carrying up to 350 passengers, they will bring a new tourist flood from the mainland.

The concern here is to live up to those lush travel posters showing a lovely Hawaiian girl flirting with a waterfall in an idyllic setting far from the stresses and strains of modern life. Bristling missiles do not fit into this picture.

Columnist's Inspiring Trip: Visit To Beautiful Tax Shelter

WASHINGTON — You hear so much about tax shelters these days, that I thought it was about time I went out and looked one over. I heard there was a beautiful one a few miles outside of Houston, Tex., so, on a recent trip, I decided to make a detour and visit it.

It was on the property of a man named Ralston Loophole. When I arrived at his ranch, I was surprised to find nothing but a rickety old farmhouse. I rang the bell and a grizzled old cowhand answered the door.

"I'M LOOKING for Mr. Ralston Loophole," I said.

"He's out back yonder in his tax shelter," the cowhand said. "But you better be careful — he's got the place mined."

"Could you call him on the phone and tell him I'd like to see him? Say I'm doing a piece on the most beautiful tax shelters in America for Better Homes and Gardens."

The cowhand came back in a few minutes. "OK, he'll see you, Mr. Loophole has to be careful. There's a lot of tax reform nuts hanging around lately."

HE LED ME to the tax shelter, which was hidden amongst shrubbery, with only the door above ground. The door was unlocked and I climbed down. It was the most fantastic room I had even been in. There were solid gold tables, crystal chandeliers, Gobelin tapestries on the wall, and a marble floor with a design in the center of a large loophole, which I assume was the family crest.

Mr. Loophole put out his hand. "Glad to meet ya," he said. "There's been a lot of criticism of tax shelters lately and if I can do anything to change it, I'll be mighty happy to."

"Thank you, sir. This is a beautiful tax shelter," I said, as he handed me a glass of champagne.

"It's right pretty, but it's just one of many I got."

YOU MEAN you have more than one tax shelter?"

"Of course, boy. This is my oil-depletion tax shelter. I keep all my money here that I make from oil. The government can never find this place. Say, you aren't from the feds, are you?"

"No, sir," I said. "Someday I hope to have a tax shelter of my own."

"Good for you, son. You've spoken like a true American. You know, there's lots of people in this country that are trying to do away with these oil-depletion tax shelters. They say we're not paying our full share of taxes. Well, let me tell you this. When we take oil out of the ground, there's no way of replacing it. That oil's gone forever. And if we have to pay full taxes, they'd be hurting the oil — not us.

"They want to take our oil shelters away from us but, son, we aren't going to let them do it. Our sweat and our blood went into building these shelters."

"I'LL BE PRAYING it never happens," I said, as I put some caviar on toast. "What other tax shelters do you have?"

"I have one for cattle over in Oklahoma. Cattle depreciate — don't let anyone tell you otherwise. They get old and they get tired, and if we had to pay taxes on them, those cattle would be miserable."

"No one should have to pay taxes on cattle," I said, helping myself to foie gras.

"Up in Chicago I have my real-estate tax shelter. A man has to get a return on real estate and that's what I keep the shelter there for. I also buy freight cars and airplanes and I lease them back to the people I bought them from. That helps pay for the upkeep of the Chicago shelter. I forgot to mention my foundation in California. That's a beautiful shelter."

"HOW MUCH money did you make last year with all these things?"

"Somewhere in the neighborhood of $100 million."

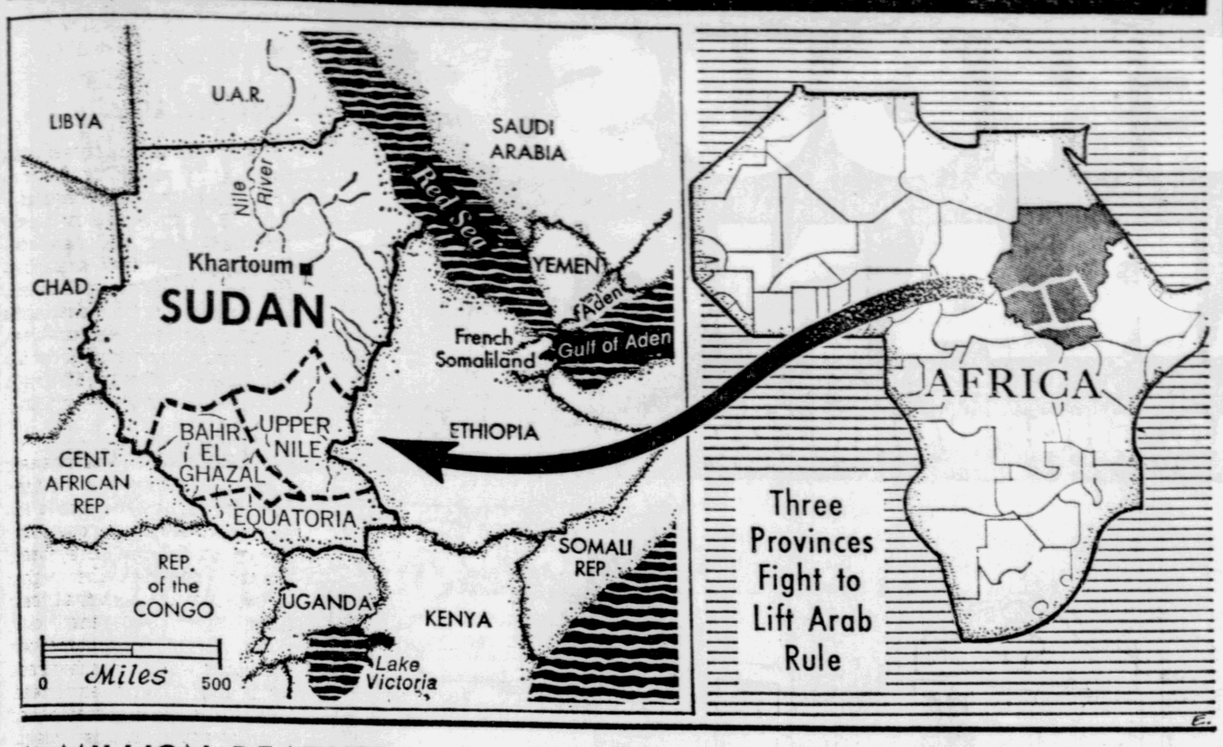

"How much federal tax did you pay?"

Eight hundred dollars. But I can't figure how it happened. I thought I had all the loopholes covered."

Civil War Engulfs Southern Sudan

A MILLION DEATHS?

Sudan Struggle: One Of Bloodiest

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Little is heard or even known about one of the bloodiest struggles in the world today. It has been going on for years in the Sudan, the largest country in Africa.

Since the Sudan became independent of a British-Egyptian government in 1956, black tribesmen, mostly pagans, some Christians, have been trying to free the three southernmost provinces from the heavy-handed rule of the Arabic-speaking Moslem majority in the north. The 300,000-square miles of rebel territory in the south contain some three million to four million persons. The Arabs in the north number nearly 10 million.

The savage civil war that broke out in full force in 1963 has left tens and perhaps hundreds of thousands of dead. There is a divergence of views on the number of victims, with figures ranging from 500,000 to a million. Tens of thousands of others have fled to neighboring countries, Ethiopia, Kenya, Uganda, the former Belgian Congo and the Central African Republic.

The civil war — as in Nigeria — splits the Sudan along racial-tribal-religious lines. The Moslem Arabs want their country to become an Islamic state, with all power concentrated in Khartoum. The Negro minority wants a nonsectarian state with some autonomy for the south. Efforts at reconciliation have failed and if no solution is found, the situation may end with the secession of the three southern provinces — Equatoria, Upper Nile and Bahr el Ghazal.

The rebellion is led by the Anyanya, which means a special poison derived from the head of the cobra.

Although there are indications of late that the rebel drive is lagging in the battle against the more powerful northern army, little news comes out of the struggle.

The government of Premier Mohammed Ahmed Mahjoub broke diplomatic relations with the United States in June 1967, when the Egyptians spread the rumor that America helped Israel militarily in the six-day war.

But even before 1967, when the United States had a full-fledged embassy in Khartoum, there were only scant reports on the civil war in the south. The Moslem government did its best to discourage and even to prevent excursions to the areas of Negro population by foreigners, even diplomats and newsman.

What reports U. S. officials did get indicated the rebels were no match in open warfare for the regular army from the north which, according to some reports, conducted an all-out war of annihilation.

Sudan is a country of almost a million square miles, larger than the United States east of the Mississippi. In the South and southwest are vast areas of untapped resources and its largely vacant west is considered ideal for cattle grazing.

In the lush swamplands of Equatoria, the possibilities hardly have been surveyed, although it would seem fitted for cultivation of tropical and citrus fruits.

If properly developed, Sudan could become the meat, bread and fruit larder for this region of perennial hunger and an outlet for the surplus populatons of Egypt and other Arab states.

THIS WEEK In The World

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Vietnamese Communists confronted the United States on the battlefield and at the conference table during the week in an upsurge of hostility apparently intended to test the firmness of the Nixon administration.

In Vietnam, the Reds shelled some 250 cities, towns and military installations in one of the heaviest attacks of the war. The administration warned in effect that the bombing of North Vietnam might be resumed if the Communist attacks on populated areas continue.

In Paris, Communist delegates to the Vietnam peace talks denied that their forces are attacking civilian targets. North Vietnamese delegate Xuan Thuy charged that "the present administration is more stubborn and perfidious than the previous one in intensifying the war."

In the streets of Rome, thousands of screaming students marshaled by the Italian Communist party battled police in attempts to march on the U. S. Embassy and the Quirinale Palace, where President Nixon was talking with President Giuseppe Saragat.

In Paris, police had wounded one youth and arrested three others when they tried to run their car over a gendarme who caught them pasting up anti-Nixon posters.

In West Berlin, ultra-leftists threw stones, eggs and bags filled with red paint at the Nixon motorcade. No cars were hit.

The U. S. warning about possible renewed bombing of North Vietnam recalled the Johnson administration statement that a bombing halt "could not be maintained...if there were abuses of the Demilitarized Zone or Vietcong or North Vietnamese attacks on the cities or other populated areas in South Vietnam."

Washington sources said the administration does not consider the violations of this understanding which have occurred so far serious enough to warrant resumption of air attack on the North.

PLUSH U.C. LAYOUT

The Stage Is The Thing

By TERRY RYAN

BERKELEY (AP) — The play's the thing, according to Hamlet, but it sometimes takes second place to the stage in productions at the new theater laboratory of the University of California at Berkeley.

There was a ripple of polite applause at the end of the first act of Eugene O'Neill's "Mourning Becomes Electra," the dedication piece at the theater

But then banks of seats suddenly rolled to the side. Part of the orchestra pit rose to become an extension of the stage. The proscenium arch glided into the wings. Curtains were drawn, revealing additional acting space on the sides of the theater.

It was all accomplished in a soft blue light with only a whisper of mechanical sound.

The display of automated stagemanship drew sustained applause from the audience.

The theater, officially Zellerbach Playhouse, is part of Zellerbach Hall. The other major component of the hall is a 2,100-seat auditorium that can comfortably house anything from grand opera to a string quartet. The whole thing was 10 years in the planning and cost about $7.1-million, none of it tax money.

The theater seats 500 persons, but that is almost incidental. It is clearly a place created for actors to practice their craft. It conveys the sense of a working space, a stage for imaginative experimentation.

The multiform theater was designed as a laboratory for the department of dramatic arts.

"There is really nothing quite like it in the country," says Henry May, chairman of the department.

"What is really unique is the variety of staging positions. The only thing that comes close to matching it is the theater at Loeb Drama Center at Harvard."

The program of the department of dramatic arts requires that the theater be capable of handling plays from all periods and countries from ancient Greece to the theater of the absurd.

The stage has to be suitable for Kabuki and Shakespearean drama, for theater-in-the-round, and yet capable of reverting to a neutral open space for staging nontraditional theater happenings.

"The most important thing," according to May, "was to make the students work with every form of the theater they will hit on the outside."

The interior of the playhouse is dominated by a massive rectangular stage separated from a bank of 300 permanent seats by a wide strip of no man's land that can be stage or seating and converts from one to the other at the push of a button.

The stage, topped by a 60-foot fly gallery, can be opened to its entire 80-foot width, creating a single large room, or trimmed-in by sliding panels to a conventional proscenium stage.

A fore-stage elevator can be lowered to create an orchestra pit for musicals or raised to create the thrust stage of the Elizabethan theater.

The pit area is an essential element in the multiform function of the theater. It is filled with ramped seats when the theater is arranged in conventional form.

The seats, however, are on movable platforms that can be turned in any direction or moved by means of an elevator onto the stage itself.

Putting the pit seats on the stage transforms the pit into the stage of a theater-in-the-round.

The pit is flanked by two shallow balconies that join the stage and can be used as an L-shaped projection to carry the action of the stage into what is usually the domain of the audience.

There is not a professional company in the country working in a theater with this degree of flexibility, but this does not seem to disturb May.

"We are training our people with the hope that professional theaters will be like this someday," May said.

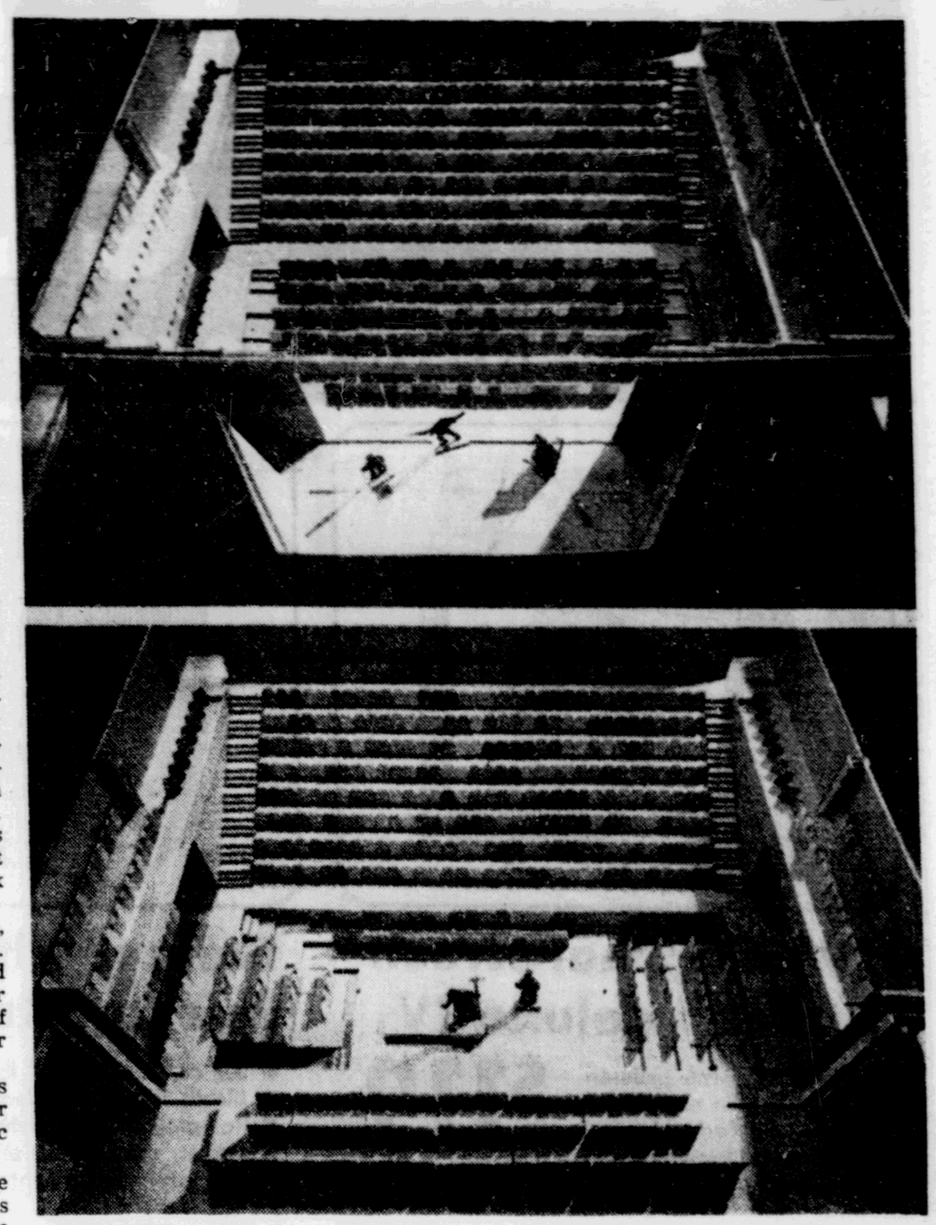

Zellerbach Hall is named for the late Isadore Zellerbach, founder of the paper empire. The Zellerbach Family Fund contributed about $1 million to build it, the rest coming from student fees and the university endowment.

The theater opened Jan. 23, just 24 hours after a $500,000 fire destroyed the Little Theater in Wheeler Hall that had been home for the department of dramatic arts for many years.

The auditorium, which opened a year ago, is equipped for all major forms of theatrical production. The orchestra pit can hold the largest symphony and the stage is of sufficient width and depth for major ballet productions.

The lower level of Zellerbach Hall contains the support facilities essential to any theatrical operation — rehearsal, reception and dressing rooms, workshops and storage space.

The building will also house radio and television studios, when funds are available to install them.

THE BENEFITS OF OFFICE

Johnson Assured A Life Of Comfort

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — A broad range of government benefits including $47,000 in pensions, vast office space, unlimited use of military aircraft and at least a squad of secret servicemen are making life comfortable—and safe—for former President Johnson.

In fact, the transition to private life is so well cushioned that Johnson isn't making use of all the benefits available.

He has abruptly closed the "transition office" in Washington authorized by Congress and is spending the $375,000 provided him under the Transition Act of 1968 at only about one-third the rate needed to use it up before the mid-1969 deadline.

The benefits and perquisites provided by the government seem to assure that the former president need not dip deeply into his private fortune to maintain his planned retirement role as author, college lecturer and overseer-organizer of the Lyndon B. Johnson Library.

Until the eight-story museum-library is completed in the summer or fall of 1970 with a top-floor office for his use, Johnson is occupying free office space on the top floor of the new Federal Office building in Austin, Texas.

About 20 rooms are provided there for staff members, clerical workers and storage. The General Services Administration, housekeeping agency of the government, says the cost is absorbed in the public buildings budget.

The suite occupied by Johnson and several staff members is paneled in teak and carpeted in yellow. It has a handsome fireplace; its windows look out on the University of Texas, where the steel skeleton of the Johnson Library and the connected, three-story structure of the Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs stands.

The library will have a rooftop landing pad, so that a military helicopter can fly Johnson directly from the family ranch some 60 miles away.

The museum-library-school is being built by the university at an estimated cost of $11.8 million. It will be leased to the GSA and maintained at government expense.

The transition office in Washington consisted of two large conference-type rooms in a new government building, manned by a few staff people and four or five typists. It had been expected to operate, mostly as a mail handling and answering center, until the expiration of the transition funds on June 30. Another $375,000 was provided to President Nixon. Nixon's portion reportedly is virtually exhausted, much of it having been used up in preinauguration costs of staff and advisory task forces.

But the Johnson office was closed by Johnson's orders on Feb. 1, after functioning about two weeks. A former official who belatedly disclosed the shutdown said Johnson acted in irritation over newspaper stories about his perquisites as a former president. Another source said the real reason was economy. A third said the Washington office became superfluous when the post-inauguration rush of mail subsided.

For some days after the changeover, mail addressed to him cascaded in at the rate of about 1,400 letters a day. Much of it came addressed to the White House.

The flow has now diminished to fewer than 1,000 letters daily, and mail for Johnson arriving in Washington is being redirected to Austin for reading and reply.

The other offices and benefits are authorized by a series of laws and administrative orders over the years which have enlarged progressively the benefits accruing to former presidents.

While he was president, Johnson arranged that storage space be provided in Austin's new Federal Office building for the tons of papers, documents, films and objects which eventually would go into the Johnson library.

Johnson estimates there are 22 million pages of documents left from the White House—including such data as transcripts of the socalled "Tuesday luncheons" with cabinet members and meetings of the National Security Council—and enough additional material from his days in Congress to bring the total to 31 million pages.

Most of the papers are stored in rows of filing cabinets on the first floor of the downtown building; more records and museum materials are stored in the basement.

Benefits of a former president begin with a $25,000 a year pension which is supplemented, in Johnson's case, by a $22,000 Congressional pension.

Former Presidents Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower also receive the $25,000; Gen. Eisenhower was obliged, however, to choose between the presidential pension and the pension of a General of the Army. He waived the military pension.

Each former president also gets up to $80,000 a year for staff and office help. This was increased from $65,000 by the 1967 federal pay increase law.

Another $200,000, or about $67,000 each, is provided in the new federal budget to be apportioned among the three ex-presidents for the cost trave, transportation, and benefits of employes and former employes.

The employees who are not being paid from the $375,000 Transition Act funds can be transferred, when that runs out, to the regular staff allowance if Johnson wishes.

The transition appropriations was a new device to smooth the transfer of power by meeting the extraordinary costs incurred by both the incoming and outgoing chief executives. It covers office help and equipment, duplicating costs and telegraphic outlays. Aides who reported that Johnson is being conservative in dipping into his share added that he is perfectly free to increase the rate of outlays later on.

Budget Bureau aides said the bureau does not monitor the use of the transition money, as long as outlays do not exceed the congressionally imposed limit.

There are some nongovernmental benefits as well. At least a dozen major newspapers and magazines are delivered to Johnson in Austin, gratis.

A military helicopter will be available at the nearest Air Force base to carry Johnson from the ranch to the library's landing pad. The helicopter could be used now, but so far Johnson has preferred to motor to the office building.

The helicopter and other military planes are available at any time for Johnson's use, upon Secret Service request, to insure the safety of the former presidnnt while traveling. Johnson also may use private planes loaned by friends in industry, as he did occasionally while president.

He is unlikely ever to use commercial airliners. One of the concerns of the Secret Service—and of the Nixon administration—is that a former president might be on a plane hijacked to Cuba. The use of commercial flights also would expose him to greater danger of assassination attempts.

Johnson has invoked a provision of an interagency agreement signed on July 15, 1968. It establishes rules under which Secret Service protection is to be given candidates for the presidency; one section also provides that the armed forces make available any needed transportation, communication, medical and other services upon Secret Service request, for the protection of any person guarded by the service.

President Nixon is expected to be generous about the use of military equipment. Between the time of his election and inauguration, Johnson relinquished to Nixon the use of the specially fitted and equipped jet liner, Air Force One. Johnson used a standby plane, older but similarly equipped.

At least a dozen Secret Service agents are assigned to guard the former president and Mrs. Johnson, but the number will vary with Johnson's movements. Rep. Tom Steed, D-Okla., said it seems reasonable that as many as 26 men may be available for this detail.

The actual number at any time is withheld for security reasons, but Steed, chairman of a House Appropriations subcommittee responsible for examining the Secret Service budget, said that two dozen or more agents would be "par for the course." Three shifts are necessary, and the active Johnson likely to be exposed to more risk than the other two former presidents. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, ailing in Walter Reed Army hospital, Washington, requires little protection. Truman dislikes the Secret Service escort, Steed said, and he "chases them away."

For Johnson's continued protection, a good portion of the special installations at his ranch are being left in place, including a 6,300-foot asphalt runway, a converted hangar, some small buildings and trailers. Most of the costly communications equipment is gone, but enough remains to assure that President Nixon can consult quickly and privately with his predecessor if he wishes.

Of the score of rooms assigned to Johnson in the Federal Office Building, seven or eight are set up as offices for Johnson and his staff. The others are used for clerical and storage purposes.

Some contain sensitive papers accumulated by Johnson during his presidency. They must be examined for declassification before they can be used for research and writing.

Redwood Rallies To Sink Novato

ij Sports

THIRD SECTION Saturday, March 1, 1969 23

By GARY TISCHLER

At long last, it's over.

The Marin County Athletic League's longest basketball race ended with perhaps its longest night in an over-flowing Novato High School gymnasium last night, where Redwood High School captured its third league title and a trip to the Tournament of Champions by holding off determined but outgunned Novato for a dramatic 73-70 victory.

That win, earned twice over on a hostile court, over a cagy Novato battle plan and despite deep foul trouble, gave the Giants a 13-1 won-lost league record, their 13th straight victory, 23rd of the season against 4 losses and the league title, clean and outright.

It left in its wake a heartbroken Novato team that came so close to pulling off a stunning upset and had amassed a sparkling 22-7 season record.

As if the championship spellbinder wasn't enough, upstart San Marin of Novato, the league's infant team, took its second victory of the season, nipping Tamalpais in Mill Valley on Gary Howard's field goal with seven seconds left.

In other games, San Rafael and Terra Linda wound up in a tie for third place, San Rafael whipping Marin Catholic, 72-57, in Kentfield, and Terra Linda dumping Drake in Terra Linda, 76-66.

Novato came with plenty of gut and a plan to win. The Hornets simply drove the Giants silly, driving, wheeling and rolling for close-in buckets off a calculated pattern. The Giants never did stop that set action for the whole game.

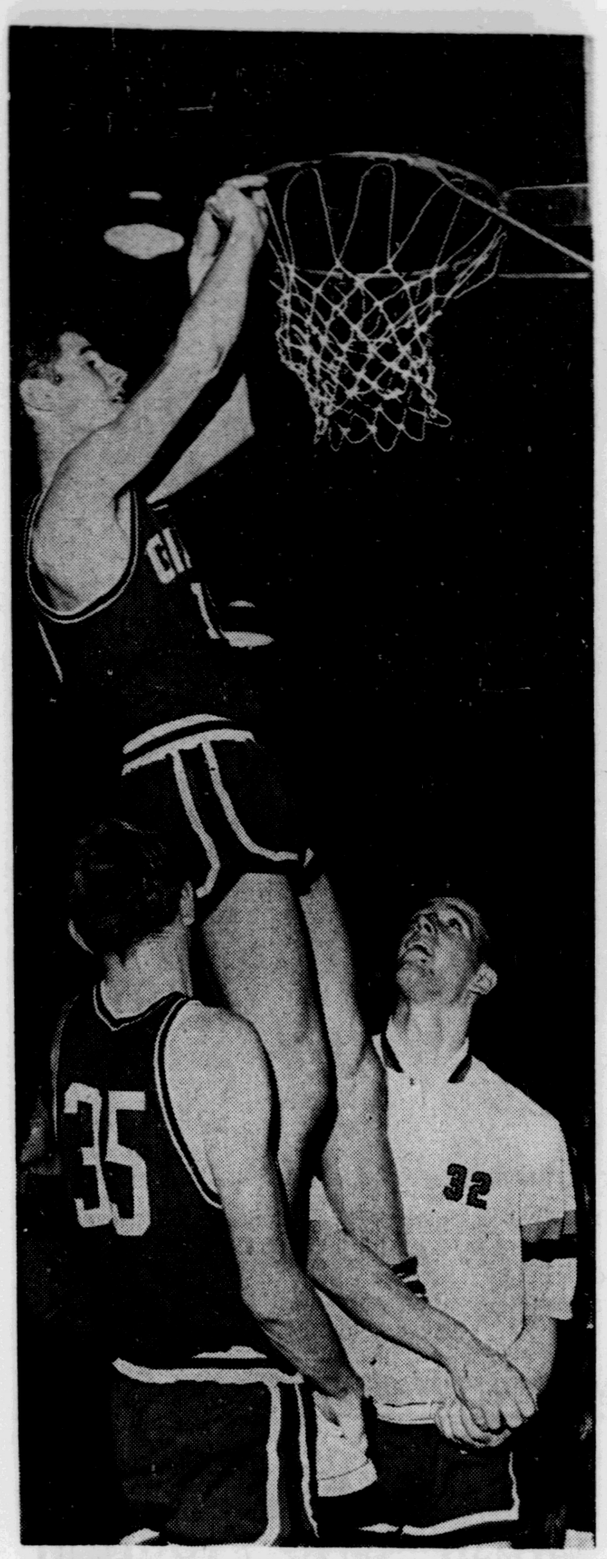

But it was Redwood that got off to the good start on hot first-half shooting of 50 per cent that produced a lead that went to 33-22 in the second quarter. That was the largest lead by either team and it was the last time Redwood had it so good, or so easy.

The Novato game plan paid off by the time the fourth quarter rolled around.

By that time, Skip Corsini, Jim Peters, Roger Smith and Jerry Piro, all important regulars, each had four fouls and Novato had caught up and gone ahead.

Midway through the fourth quarter, with Corsini already out on fouls and the Giants playing defense gingerly, Novato pulled to a 60-55 lead on consecutive buckets by the golden twosome

DORAL OPEN

Can 'Bridesmaid' Aaron Snap Jinx?

MIAMI (UPI) — Hard-luck Tommy Aaron, right back where he was two years ago, hopes this is the time he'll finally break his long-standing jinx.

The 32-year-old Aaron has acquired the dubious title of "bridesmaid of the PGA" because he has often finished high but never won on the pro golf tour.

Hard-luck Tommy goes into third round of this year's Doral Open today tied for the lead with bubbling young Tommy Shaw, the man from Golf, Ill., and veteran Dan Sikes, an attorney and fried chicken entrepreneur, after shooting in the 60s for the fourth day in a row.

TOM SHAW
Shares the lead

FOUR 60s

Aaron shot a 68 in a practice round Tuesday, a 67 to win the Doral Pro-Am Wednesday, a 67 in the opening round Thursday and a 68 yesterday that tied him with Shaw and Sikes at 9-under-par 135 for a one-stroke lead over veteran Bill Collins whose 67, the day's best, gave him a 136 at the halfway mark of this $150,000 tournament—first of five stops on the rich Florida circuit.

One more stroke back is the best-known golfer of them all—Arnold Palmer. Palmer, only man to earn more than $1 million with his clubs, shot a 69-137 yesterday to add weight to his contention that losing 12 pounds has again made him a tournament threat.

The 135s posted by Aaron, Shaw and Sikes tied the 36-hole Doral record set by Australian Bruce Devlin en route to a second place finish in 1965.

Devlin, incidentally, soared to a 75-141 yesterday after having shot a 66 Thursday. That tied him, among others, with defending champion Gardner Dickinson who had a 71.

The original field of 147, including two amateurs, was trimmed to 76 pros yesterday when everybody who failed to shoot a 2-over-par 146 or better was cut.

Most notable among those who failed to stick around for the final two rounds was two-time Doral champion Doug Sanders who had a 77-151.

N.Y. Firm Purchases The Seals

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Oakland Seals of the National Hockey League will announce today that a group headed by two Buffalo, N.Y., brothers and Trans-National Communications of New York will be the club's new owners, it was learned yesterday.

Tim Ryan, director of public relations of the financially troubled Seals, said "an ownership change will be announced" at a news conference in Oakland today. Ryan, however, refused to comment on the premature announcement in Buffalo.

Barry Van Gerbig and associates purchased the hockey club and have operated it since its inception in 1966 when the NHL expanded.

LEADING FIGURE

The Buffalo Courier-Express said Seymour H. Knox III and his brother, Northrup, together with Bill Creasy, a former Columbia Broadcasting System producer, would be part of the new ownership. Creasy is said to be among the leading figures in the New York broadcasting firm.

The Knox brothers had asked the NHL Board of Governors earlier this month to authorize the transfer of the Seals to Buffalo, but their bid was turned down. The NHL said it wanted to keep a club in the Oakland area.

The newspaper said Northrup Knox was expected in Oakland Monday to complete final details of the takeover.

Operating capital for the Seals has been supplied for the last three months by the Knox group, the newspaper said. It added that some of the present Oakland investors would remain in the new ownership.

San Diego Cancels Series In Mexico

YUMA, Ariz. (AP)—The San Diego Padres will stay in the United States this weekend because of visa problems that forced cancellation of exhibition baseball games with two Mexico City teams.

The Padres, new expansion team in the National League, were to play three games in the Mexican capital starting Sunday but authorities couldn't arrange visas soon enough.

MARIN ANGLER WINS STATE, NAT'L. HONORS

Robert Campagna Jr. of 26 Juanita Street, Mill Valley has won state and national honors in two national outdoors magazines for a 16-pound, 8¾-ounce steelhead trout he caught last year, it was announced today.

Sports Afield magazine said Campagna's steelhead was the largest taken in California during 1968 while Field and Stream magazine listed it as the best in the nation for that species caught on a four-pound test line during 1968.

Campagna, a 22-year-old machinist who has been fishing ". . . all my life," said he caught the prize winner in the riffles leading into White House Pool at Pt. Reyes Station on Jan. 22, 1968. His equipment included a Fenwick spinning rod and Garcia-Mitchell reel, using roe for bait.

Campagna said he will receive a sterling silver insignia and certificate from each magazine commemorating the achievement.

UCLA, Santa Clara Gun For Clinchers Tonight

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

UCLA and Santa Clara could make it official tonight what everybody has known unofficially all season.

The two great Coast basketball teams could mathematically clinch their conference titles and two berths in the NCAA Far Western regionals.

The Bruins made it 86 wins out of their last 87 games with an 81-60 waltz at Stanford last night.

Curtis Rowe, a fabulous soph overshadowed literally and figuratively by the great Lew Alcindor in the pivot, had 25 points. Alcindor settled for 19, hitting 9 of 11 shots.

UCLA is thus 11-0 going into tonight's battle at Cal while gutty Washington State is 16-8 and 9-3 and has a lock on second after squeaking by Oregon State 62-60.

CAL LOSES

Oregon nipped Washington 79-75 with Billy Gaskins scoring 24 for the Ducks while USC moved into third at 6-5 with a 76-67 win at Cal. USC hit 28 of 33 free throws, including a Harmon Gym record of 13 straight by Don Crenshaw, who wound up with 19 points.

Santa Clara is 10-1 in the WCAC and 23-1 for the season after a 62-52 win at tough Pepperdine. Dennis Awtrey led the Broncs with 18. UOP helped the Broncs along by taking San Jose State 80-73 thanks to a 21-point burst by Bill Stricker. The Tigers are unbeaten this season at home and say they are ready to take Santa Clara there next weekend in a game that won't mean much to the standings, but should be a wild one.

Santa Barbara took St. Mary's 86-75 while Loyola fell to USF 74-69 as WCAC scoring king Pete Cross had 29 and 16 rebounds while Loyola pivot man Jim Haderlein scored 29 and grabbed 11 rebounds. Santa Clara battles Loyola this afternoon.

Juan Hasn't Reported Yet

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (UPI)—Owner Horace Stoneham of the San Francisco Giants is expected to peel off another $100,000 contract shortly for the services of pitcher Juan Marichal.

Marichal, a 26-game winner last season, was one of five players who remained unsigned yesterday. Vice President Chub Feeney said he had not heard from the Dominican Republic hurler but expected to contact him in a few days and receive a request for a raise over the $100,000 he got in 1968.

Willie Mays inked his fourth straight $125,000 pact Thursday.

Other unsigned Giants include Ray Sadecki, Jack Hiatt, Dick Dietz, Bob Barton and Cesar Gutierrez.

Warriors Detain The Big O

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco Warriors didn't want the dubious distinction of yielding Oscar Robertson's 20,000th National Basketball Association point so they did something about it.

And it paid off as the Warriors romped to a 131-115 victory over the fading Royals last night before 4,144 fans at the Cow Palace.

Robertson, who needed 35 points to become only the fourth player in NBA history to reach the milestone, was effectively covered by Al Attles and Bobby Lewis and managed to tally 18 markers, with six of those coming on three field goals in the second half.

LA RUSSO HIGH

Meanwhile, Rudy LaRusso, Jeff Mullins and Nate Thurmond combined for 77 points to pace San Francisco's attack. LaRusso pumped in 28 points, one more than Mullins, and Thurmond added 22.

The Warriors were blistering from the floor, hitting 55 field goals as opposed to Cincinnati's 40. From the foul line, however, the Royals were 35 of 44 compared to San Francisco's 21 of 27.

The Warriors host Phoenix tonight, 8 o'clock at the Cow Palace, and fly to Los Angeles tomorrow.

Kidd Spectacular In Squaw Triumph

SQUAW VALLEY (AP) — Men's and women's giant slaloms, final events of the Squaw Valley World Cup races, take place today after a spectacular showing by Billy Kidd of Stowe, Vt., in winning the men's slalom.

Kidd, pestered by ankle and leg injuries for years, pulled out his stunning comeback victory yesterday in a battle against a raging blizzard.

He had just about been counted out as a top contender. The 25-year-old Olympic silver medalist of 1964 turned the tables on the world's best skiers.

It was his first race in three weeks and his first victory since he took the Roach Cup slalom last year.

Kidd and 130 other racers were all but blinded by snow blown horizontally by winds gusting up to 50 miles an hour at the starting gate. Visibility was often cut to a few yards. Kidd's combined time for two runs was 96.55 seconds.

BILLY MOBBED

With a small but dedicated crowd ecstatic over the American win in the face of Europe's finest skiers, Kidd was mobbed by well-wishers at the finish line.

Kidd joined pretty Austrian Berni Rauter, 19, whose 89.16 combined time won her—like Kidd—25 big World Cup points as winner of the women's slalom.

The men's course was 1,835 feet long with a vertical drop of 683 feet through 66 gates. The women's course was 1,785 feet long with a 658 foot drop and 58 gates.

Lester Wins By A Kayo In San Jose

SAN JOSE (AP) — Relentless Jimmy Lester of San Francisco won his 35th professional ring victory last night when he knocked out Johnny Wise of San Diego in the sixth round of a scheduled 10-rounder.

Lester weighed 162 against 163½ for Wise.

The San Francisco middleweight used a body attack to wear down his opponent. The sole knockdown came in the sixth round when Wise appeared to collapse from exhaustion.

Lester, far ahead on points, unleashed a barrage of rights and lefts, and Wise crumpled to the canvas.

26TH KAYO

Referee Jack Downey stopped the fight. The time was 2:20 in the round. It was Lester's 26th kayo in 44 pro fights.

Roberto Amaya of Buenos Aires, 148, scored his 18th knockout in 20 fights when he stopped Charlie Jefferson of Houston, Tex., at 2:50 in the second round of a companion 10-rounder.

Amaya sent his opponent spinning to the deck with a left hook and right cross. Jefferson went down but managed to get up at the count of 8. However referee Elmer Costa stopped it when Jefferson appeared out on his feet and unable to defend himself.

POST-GAME COMMENTS

Novato Lost It At Foul Line

"That was a great game."

And that was something both winners and losers, the happy and dejected, could agree on after last night's heated, hectic and harrowing Marin County Athletic League basketball fray between Redwood and Novato, at Novato High School, where some 1,500 nail-chewing fans watched Redwood win the game, 73-70, the league title and a trip on the Tournament of Champions next week.

Novato coach Bill Aires, obviously disappointed, nevertheless pinpointed the route of the game sharply.

"We did what we wanted to do," he said. "Our kids did a great job. But Redwood is just a great team. We missed all those one-and-one free throws in the first half, that's where we lost."

In fact, the Hornets had things the way they wanted them, with the exception of the final results. They drove down the middle all night for close shots off a set pattern, a gambit the Giants never did stop, resulting in heavy fouling by Redwood.

"I was disappointed that we couldn't stop that," Redwood coach Dick Hart said. "We'd seen them do that before, but we just couldn't stop it. But I'll tell you something, those kids never for a moment thought they would lose. They don't know how to spell the word quit."

The Giants had an opportunity to roll over and pine away, trailing by five points with less than five minutes to play. But they didn't.

"I was a little worried then," Jerry Piro of Redwood said after the game. "They (Novato) were really up for this one. I don't know, after you've been winning, it gets harder to get really up. But we came through when we needed to."

Both coaches agreed that it was two quick, unhesitating buckets by veteran Jim Peters that turned the tide late in the game.

"Those two buckets killed us," Aires said.

"Peters turned the tide," Hart said.

Pete Webb, the transfer 6-foot 6-inch center who alternated with 6-6 sophomore Bill Challender for Redwood, was a little winded after the game.

"It was tough breaking in after not playing the first half," he said. "I had a little trouble getting into shape. I had a bet that I'd hold Herrnberger (Ed) to 10 points. I guess I lost."

Herrnberger, the 6-3 Novato senior, played the entire game, poured in 20 points and did a fantastic job under the boards.

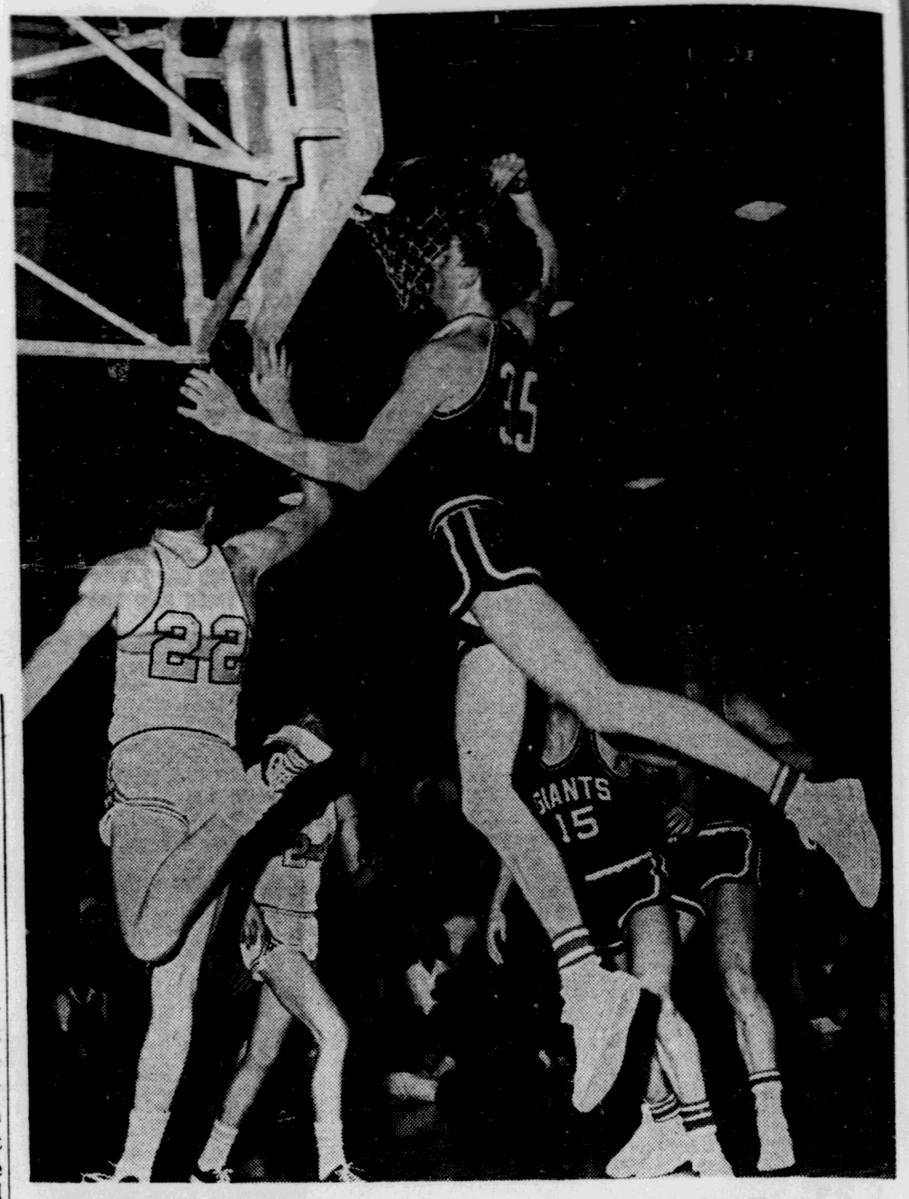

Free-throw shooting, or the lack of it, may have lost the game for Novato, but so did some pressure shooting by the Giants, who shot a hot 47 per cent from the floor, to the Hornets' 40 per cent.

"Our shooting certainly helped beat them," Hart said. "That, and our bench."

Hart and his Giants learned that they had drawn Castlemont of the powerful Oakland Athletic League in first round play of the TOC next Thursday, 6 p.m., at Oakland Coliseum Arena.

"It's a good draw," Hart said. "This is the best team I've ever had at Redwood."

The Giants will be making their third trip to the Tournament of Champions. They bowed out in two games on both other occasions.

Clendenon's Retirement May Nullify Trade

COMBINED AP & UPI

ATLANTA — Donn Clendenon, a 32-year-old baseball player seeking "more security," said he was retiring yesterday to become a business executive.

Clendenon, an outfielder and first baseman, had been traded in the off-season to Houston, along with Jesus Alou, by the Montreal Expos for power hitter Rusty Staub. His retirement left that trade in doubt.

Clendenon said that he will become vice president in charge of public relations for a pen firm, Scripto, Inc.

He was aquired from the Pirates by Montreal in last October's expansion draft, then traded to Houston. Officials of the Astros have been conferring with the Expos in an apparent attempt to keep the deal from falling through. National League President Warren Giles may be called in to unsnarl the problem.

SPORTS SHORTS

BASKETBALL

NEW YORK — Lew Alcindor of UCLA and Jim McMillian of Columbia were named today as the repeat winners of the leading collegiate player awards by the Metropolitan Basketball Writers Association.

Alcindor, a three-time All-American, was voted the Lester Scott Memorial Award as the No. 1 visiting college player of the season. McMillian was selected for the Frank Haggerty Memorial Award as the outstanding player in the metropolitan area.

BASEBALL

MANCHESTER, N.H. — Jerry Walker, a former major league pitcher in the American League, was named manager of the Manchester Yankees of the Class AA Eastern Baseball League.

FOOTBALL

DETROIT — The Detroit Lions of the National Football League announced the signings of offensive tackle Jimmy Carr of Jackson State and defensive end Bob Bergum of Wisconsin State.

NEW YORK — Fred Dryer of San Diego State, the No. 1 draft choice of the New York Giants, and the team's three other top selections yesterday visited with members of staff and management.

Dryer, a defensive end, was joined by defensive end Vernon Vanoy of Kansas, flanker Richard Houston of East Texas State and defensive back Al Brenner of Michigan State.

BOSTON — Jim Nance, fullback for the Boston Patriots of the American Football League, underwent surgery for torn ligaments and calcium fragments in his left ankle.

BOWLING

MADISON, Wis. — Frank Rick and Denny Wiley of Kalamazoo, Mich., fired a 1,307 for a 59-pin lead in regular doubles in the 66th annual American Bowling Congress tournament.

BOXING

NEW YOR K— Jerry Quarry, who will meet Buster Mathis in a 12-round heavyweight elimination bout March 24, is scheduled to arrive in New York this weekend to complete his training.

HORSE RACING

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va. — Barbara Jo Rubin, the first girl jockey to win a flat track race in U.S. competition, rode Relay Beeg to a third-place finish in yesterday's ninth race at Charles Town Race Course. She finished behind DR. E. L. and Orsinette's Idol in the 6½ furlong race, timed in 1:21 1/5.

Assuming stewards find nothing to criticize about the way in which the 19-year-old brunette handled her mount, she will receive an apprentice license.

OFFICIAL RESULTS

Pat Hudnell Wins Women's Keg Title

Pat Hudnell, 149 average roller, won both scratch and handicap all-event honors at the Marin County Woman's Bowling Association City Tournament, official results revealed yesterday.

She bowled a total of 1,737 pins in nine games, an average of 193 per game. With handicap, her total pins were 2,043.

The first place finishes were each worth $35, and Pat also won $10 for seventh in singles. The tourney was held the last two weekends at Country Club Bowl, San Rafael.

BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG

Today's illustrated bowler is exhibiting perfect backswing form. She has swung the ball back only far enough so that her arm is approximately horizontal to the floor. Her thumb is down and her fingers are "behind" the ball. She's leaning slightly forward as she prepares to start the downswing. Copying this form would be beneficial to any bowler.

Finley Sets Talks With A's Holdouts

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—Oakland Athletics president-general manager Charles O. Finley probably will be able to talk this weekend with all three players holding out on 1969 contracts.

The reluctant trio is expected to be in the area of the A's spring training camp, which opened officially today.

Holdouts are right fielder Reggie Jackson, center fielder Rick Monday and pitcher Chuck Dobson.

Jackson is at home in nearby Tempe, Ariz.; Dobson has been in the area several days and Monday is expected to arrive here over the weekend.

Finley flew to camp from Chicago on Thursday.

Yesterday two players reported in: Second baseman John Donaldson and veteran outfielder Joe Nossek.

THREE EN ROUTE

Three more were reported enroute: Third baseman Sal Bando, second baseman Dick Green and pitcher Jim "Catfish" Hunter.

Rookie pitcher Don Buschhorn was missing and unaccounted for.

A virus infection kept pitcher Tony Pierce in bed yesterday while utility infielder Ted Kubiak nursed a big left toe, hit by a four tip Thursday.

Last Quarter Spurt Wins It For Giants

of Ed Herrnberger and Steve McNally and sub Dave Perron.

And then, with 4 minutes and 3 seconds left and the Giants on the ropes, the veteran Peters, described by many as a so-so shooter, pushed two net-cracking fielders, John Boro sank two free throws and in 30 seconds the Giants had regained the lead.

Novato spurted again on a drive by Bob Ament and a pair of free throws by Herrnberger, saw Redwood go ahead again on two free throws by Peters and a bucket by 6-foot 6-inch Pete Webb, went ahead again on two more Herrnberger charity tosses and that, suddenly was the end.

Jerry Piro pumped one in and then Boro stole the ball for a fielder for a three-point Redwood edge with 1:41 left, the big break of this tight game.

After Herrnberger cut it to 69 68, Piro sank one free throw, missed another but Smith tipped it back up and it was 72-68 with 15 seconds left — and that was it.

The lead changed hands 13 times and the game was tied four more times in the torrid battle.

Redwood showed beautiful balance and a deep bench with four starters in double figures, led by Piro's 19 points, and followed by Boro with 14, Peters with 13 and Smith with 12 points.

TIRELESS TWOSOME

The tireless McNally and Herrnberger split 40 points between them, again proving the major portion of Novato scoring. Bob Ament had 10 points.

San Marin engineered its upset victory after trailing by nine points going into the final period.

Young super-star Gary Howard pumped in 14 points in the final period to lead a 22-point onslaught and pull out the win with a fielder with seven seconds left.

PLACES THIRD

He finished with 30 points, pulling him into third place in final individual scoring statistics, behind McNally and Herrnberger, and ahead of Piro.

Drake led Terra Linda by two points going into the final period, after trailing by as much as 10 points in the first period but a technical foul and six straight Terra Linda points did the Pirates in.

Drake was led by sophomore Jeff Meeker, who poured in 27 points. Pat Purcell topped the winners with 20 points, followed by Mike Timmel with 15 points.

TAYLOR STARS

San Rafael had starters Bill Sleezer, Roger Thomas and Bruce D'Ambra out with various injuries, but still won going away as Ray Taylor pumped in 26 points.

The Bulldogs broke up a close game with a 21-12 final-period bombardment. They won it at the free-throw line where they made 26 of 45 shots, to Marin Catholic's 11 of 26. Mike Murray topped the Wildcats with 23 points.

ELROY HIRSCH
Leaves Rams

WISCONSIN JOB

Crazy Legs Launches 'Crash' Grid Program

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Elroy "Crazy Legs" Hirsch accepted the job as athletic director at the University of Wisconsin yesterday, then promised a "crash" program" to rebuild the school's sagging football fortunes.

Hirsch, a former football star with Wisconsin and the Los Angeles Rams, said major changes would be made in the athletic department.

"I'm not here to win a popularity contest," he said. "We're going to have the best people at the right spots."

He succeeds the late Ivan B. Williamson and takes over the post today.

Hirsch's contract includes five years as athletic director, plus a subsequent five-year term either as athletic director or in a "mutually accaptable job."

To take the Wisconsin post, Hirsch left what he called a "lifetime job" as assistant to Rams' president Dan Reeves. He said he had "security and a good job, but it was like treading water.

"I love the Rams," Hirsch said. "But I thought that this was an opportunity to do something for myself and the state. I may never have another chance like this in my life."

'My Best' Wins Title For Wood

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — "This was the best performance of my life." It was tall Tim Wood of Detroit speaking in his hour of finest triumph on the ice.

He had just won the men's crown in the World Figure Skating Championships before a shouting crowd in the Broadmoor Arena. The 20-year-old prelaw student from John Carroll University in Cleveland fetched the world title back to this country for the first time since 1959 when David Jenkins completed a string of three straight victories.

Wood's total score for three days of skating was 2,894.5 points to 2,703.3 for 18-year-old Ondrej Nepla, the European champion from Czechoslovakia in second place.

The perpetually smiling Patrick Pera of France gained the third spot with 2,684.6 points.

Behind him came two more Americans. Gary Visconti, former national champion making perhaps his last appearance in world competition, was fourth. He was just a hair ahead of 17-year-old John Misha Petkevich of Great Falls, Mont., one of this country's brightest hopes for the 1972 Winter Olympics.

Marin Concludes Season Tonight

College of Marin's basketball team ends its first season in the Camino Norte Conference tonight by taking on last-place Santa Rosa Junior College in Santa Rosa at 8 o'clock.

The Tars, led by Pat Schafer and Andre Horne, have fourth place secured and have a chance at a piece of third or second place, with their 6-5 won-lost conference mark. They're 10-15 on the season.

Santa Rosa is dead last with no hope of advancing on a 1-9 record.

Sonoma State Ends Cage Season Tonight

Sonoma State College's basketball team ends its season tonight by hosting Sacramento State in a Far West Conference game at Rohnert Park High School, 8 o'clock.

Sonoma State took a 90-71 pasting at the hands of Nevada-Reno last night in Petaluma.

Six Audubon Outings Set For March

A series of outings on land and water will be sponsored by the Marin Audubon Society this month.

On Monday, Elizabeth Terwilliger of Mill Valley will lead a hike up Mount Wittenburg in Point Reyes National Seashore. Meet at 10 a.m. at the headquarters building near Olea.

She will lead a bicycle tour March 10 starting at 10 a.m. from Chileno Valley Road and Western Avenue in West Marin.

A field trip is scheduled March 15 to Nicasio Reservoir, beginning at 9 a.m. at the town square in Nicasio.

A canoe trip up Novato Creek, for swimmers only, led by Mrs. Terwilliger, is set for March 17 beginning at 10 a.m. at the Bel Marin Keys Community Center Reservations necessary.

She will lead an auto tour for nonhikers March 24, beginning at 10 a.m. at the Mill Valley Purity store parking lot.

On March 30 there will be a field trip beginning at 9 a.m. at Audubon Canyon Ranch, to observe waterfowl in the lagoon and tour the ranch.

Hub Firm Low Bidder On Road

W. K. McLellan Co. of San Anselmo was lowest of 14 bidders this week for road paving and parking lot construction at Marin Headlands State Park.

The work will pave the dirt road from Conselman Road to Kirby Cove and will provide a parking lot above the beach. The McLellan firm bid $19,981.10 for the job at the Department of Parks and Recreation district office in Santa Rosa.

Bids will be checked by state officials in Sacramento and a contract is expected to be awarded in about six weeks. Bids ranged up to $33,050.

Fourth Soldier Convicted In Presidio Mutiny Trial

I-J Special Report

FORT IRWIN — Pfc. John D. Colip, 20, of Sacramento, was sentenced to four years at hard labor and a dishonorable discharge yesterday after he was convicted of mutiny for participating in a sitdown strike at the stockade of the Presidio of San Francisco last October.

Colip was the fourth of 27 alleged mutineers to be tried and the first to be tried at Fort Irwin instead of the Presidio. The three other men tried received sentences of 14, 15 and 16 years at hard labor.

Colip could be released with good behavior within 15 months.

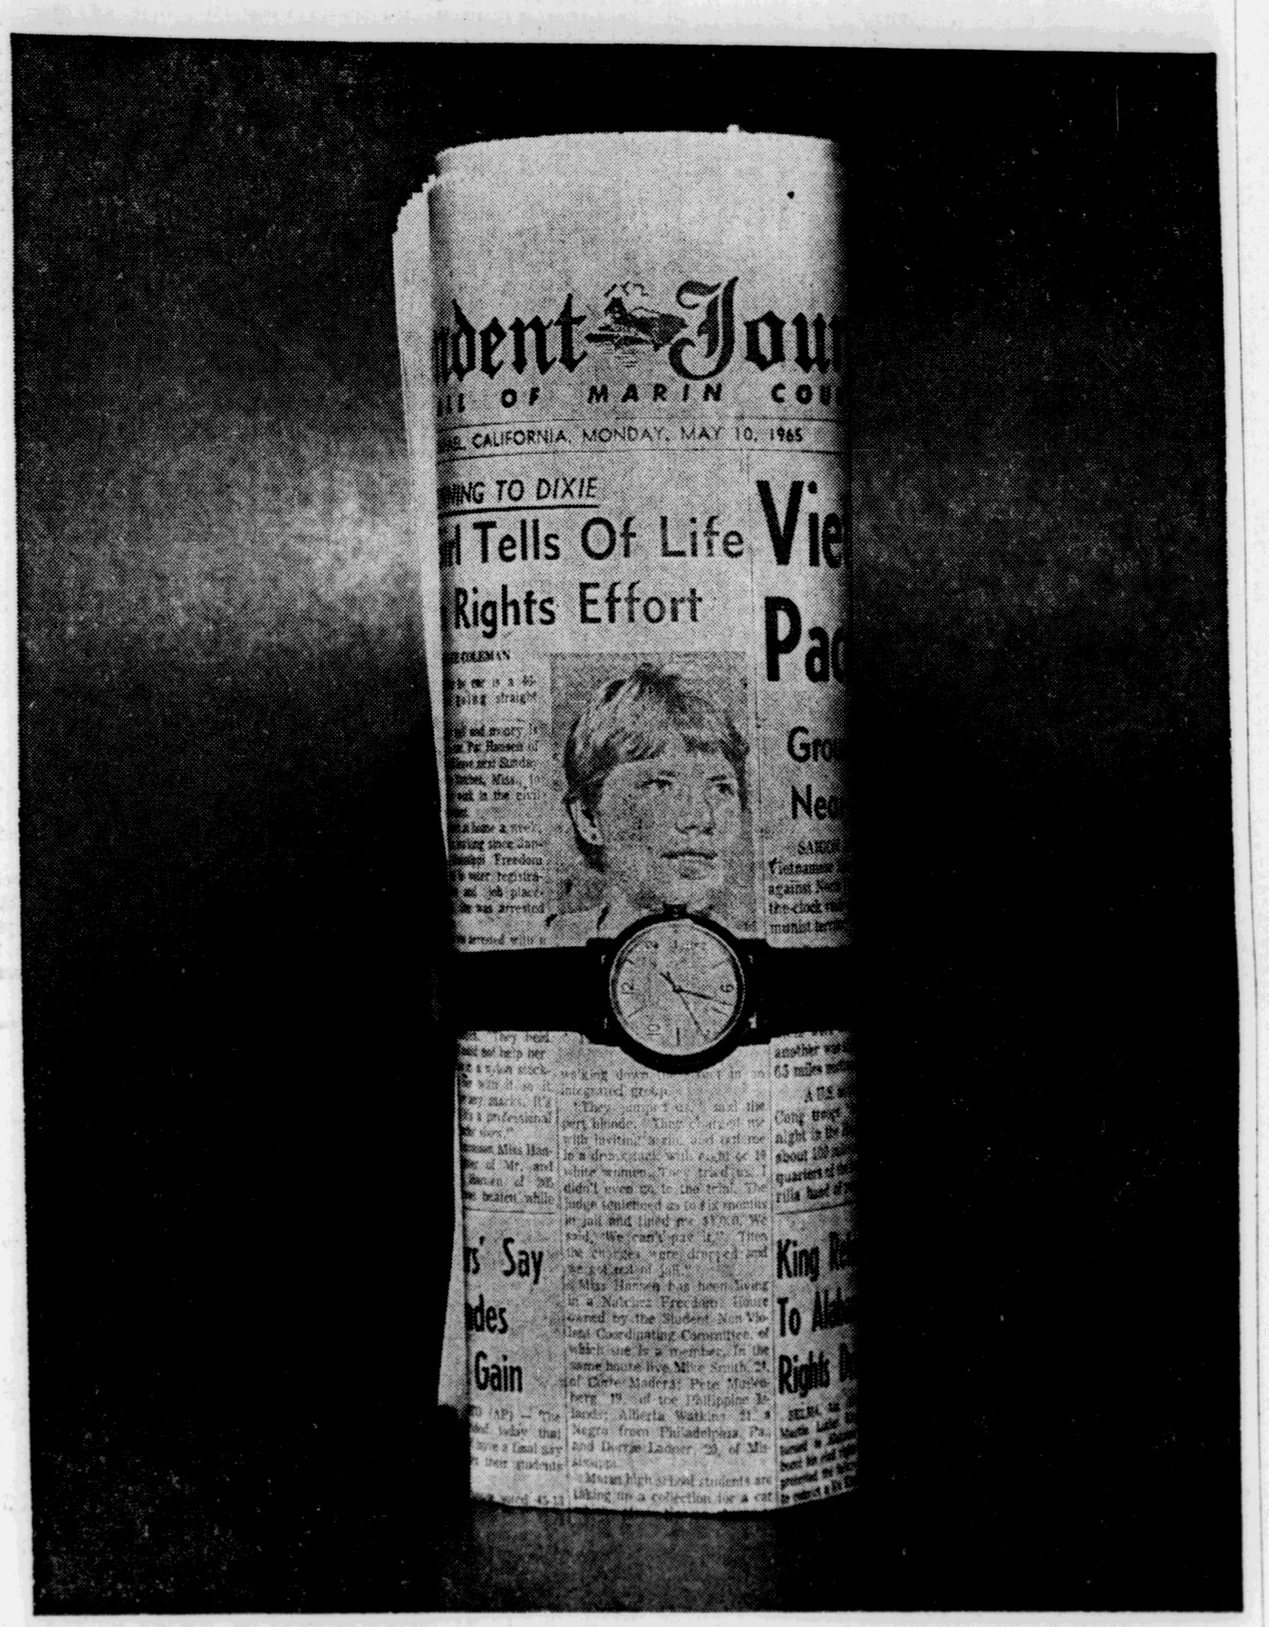

Commenting on Colip's sentencing after five days of testimony, his attorney, Ron Sypnicki of Scaramento, said he believed the court-martial board felt that what Colip had done fulfilled the technical aspects of mutiny, but the sentence they gave was less than the maximum (five years) for willful disobedience.

Twenty-one other men are scheduled to be tried this month. Two others, including Pvt. Keith Mather of San Bruno — a member of a group called the Marin City Nine, which chained itself to clergymen in an antiwar demonstration at St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church last summer — have escaped.

Crisis On College Campuses Due Debate

A team of broadcasters from KGO Radio in San Francisco will debate the causes of the crisis on college campuses at a seminar at 8 p.m. March 12 at Dominican College in San Rafael.

Proceeds from the program will be donated to the Boys Club of Southern Marin. Ticket information may be obtained by writing or calling KGO Radio, 277 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco.

Best-seller time is tonight

For every I-J advertiser, an advantage in selling

When you, as an advertiser, purchase space in the I-J, your message gains a TIME ADVANTAGE worth dollars and cents in the till. For as an EVENING NEWSPAPER, the I-J reaches your customer prospects at the PRIME BUYING TIME . . . in the evening, when people have the MOST TIME to read and consider your merchandise and prices.

This EVENING READING TIME is nothing to pass over lightly. This is when buying decisions are made . . . when people are relaxed, receptive, actively in search of advertised values. Contrast this with radio, with morning newspapers, with circulars. In the I-J, readers search the ads, page by page. They WANT TO READ, have TIME to read . . . have time to "talk it over," compare, decide. Even the kids get into the act! Small wonder the I-J is Marin's first choice for advertising . . . by both readers and advertisers.

MORE FOR YOUR STORE

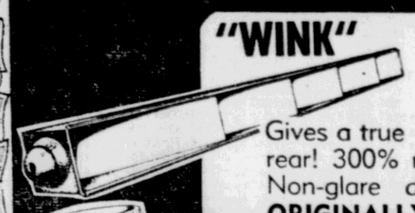

The I-J out-sells all other newspapers in Marin. More daily Marin circulation than the Chronicle and Examiner combined.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, March 1, the 60th day of 1969 with 305 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1781 the American colonies adopted the Articles of Confedeation, paving the way for a Federal Union.

In 1872 a Congressional Civil Rights Act provided for the right of Negroes to serve on juries and guaranteed them equal rights in public places.

In 1932 the 20-month-old son of Charles Lindbergh was kidnaped near Hopewell, N.J. The boy's body was found May 12 and Bruno Hauptmann was electrocuted for the kidnap-murder in 1936.

In 1954 five congressmen were wounded as three Puerto Rican nationalists fired wildly from the gallery of the House of Representatives.

A thought for the day: Henry David Thoreau said, "It is characteristic of wisdom not to do desperate things."

Ferries Still Used In Kentucky

LOISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The first franchise for a ferry in Kentucky was granted to Richard Callaway in October 1779, at Bonnesboro.

Today, are 20 ferries still in existence in the state.

A Double Of No-Trump Directs Lead To First Bid from Dummy

After a week spend on penalty doubles we turn to the kind of double that tells your partner which suit to lead. When your side has not entered the auction, a double of a no-trump contract directs your partner to lead the first suit bid by the dummy. This kind of double is especially important when the contract stands or falls on the opening lead.

SPADE OPENER?

In the absence of any instructions, West would open the jack of spades against three no-trump. South would win and would lead a club to force out the ace. East would return the king of hearts, but South would refuse the first heart trick, after which East's hand is as dead as a doornail.

After winning the second round of hearts, South takes his club tricks and leads diamonds to force out that ace. West cannot lead a heart, and nothing can stop South from getting nine easy tricks: three spades, one heart, two diamonds and three clubs.

LEAD SHEART

West didn't open the jack of spades because his partner's double called for a lead through dummy's hearts. Now East was assured of three heart tricks since he could get in with the ace of clubs even if declarer refused the first heart trick. The defenders got three hearts and their two aces, collecting 200 instead of losing 600 points.

WORD OF CAUTION

A word of caution about doubling three no-trump just because you have fair strength in dummy's first bid suit: don't double when it is possible that one opponent has enough strength for a redouble. For another thing, avoid doubling when you have no side entry for your long suit; let your partner lead his own suit and use his entries to cash his suit instead of wasting time on a suit of yours that won't play a vital role.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next palyer passes.

You hold:
♠ J 10 9 3
♦ A 10 9 8 3
♣ 5 4.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades.

You have only five points in high cards and would pass if partner opened with one heart, but opposite a spade bid you may count 1 point for each of the doubletons. This, together with the fine trump support for spades, gives you enough for a raise.

Fairfax Planners Balk At Building Proposal

The Fairfax Planning Commission, refusing to accept or reject a proposed site for a new public safety building, has ordered its site selection committee to come up with three new site proposals.

The proposal presented to the commission Thursday night by Frank G. Skaggs, chairman of the site selection panel, suggested a new public safety building be built on Park Road between the present firehouse and the park.

Chairman Albert E. Gately moved to reject the proposal, but this was beaten by a 4-3 vote, with Leo T. Cronin and E. Ross Parkerson joining Gately. Commissioner John T. Hourihan, Harold S. Lezzeni, Hugh O. Winn and William D. Chapman voted against rejection.

Then a motion to approve the site also was defeated 4-3, Winn joining Gately, Cronin and Parkerson in the majority.

The seven members then unanimously decided to have Skaggs' committee come up with three alternate proposals for the site.

The site selection committee was established last year after Fairfax voters turned down a bond proposal for a new public safety building.

San Francisco State Fires Black Studies Chairman

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Sociologist Nathan Hare and English teacher George Mason Murray, black militants and key figures in the San Francisco State strikes, have lost their jobs on the school faculty.

Acting President S. I. Hayakawa yesterday informed Hare that he would not be rehired when his one-year appointments ends in June.

Hare, 35, had been acting chairman of the college's proposed black studies department. He was suspended from his post Feb. 17 for disrupting Hayakawa's spring semester welcoming talk to the faculty.

The college also confirmed that Murray, minister of education of the Black Panther Party, has not been rehired for the current semester as a part-time instructor in remedial English for minority students.

There was no immediate reaction on campus, but it seemed likely that dropping the two men from the faculty would increase tension on campus. (See stories of other campuses, page 1.)

Hare said "I don't know what the kids will do. We are not accepting the fact I have been fired, not rehired, or whatever you want to call it," Hare said.

He asserted the school's black students won't accept anyone else at the head of the black studies department. "It'll take a way-out Uncle Tom to come here," he added.

Meanwhile, striking students refused to meet with a six-man committee appointed by Hayakawa to discuss their demands. And striking members of the American Federation of Teachers, which represents about 350 of the college's 1300 faculty members, planned to meet tomorrow night to decide whether to return to class Monday.

The union announced early this week it had agreed to a settlement of its walkout, which began Jan. 6, pending approval by the state college board of trustees. The board approved a key item, a new faculty grievance procedure, but also passed a resolution saying it had not negotiated with the strikers.

The striking professors were warned yesterday that they will lose their jobs permanently if they don't return to work Monday. College administrators told them that they must "return to work immediately and remain at work on a continuing basis."

If they do, said executive vice president Frank Dollars, the college will carry out the terms of a strike settlement previously approved by the union, including the terms on rehiring and reinstating strikers.

If they don't, he continued, "the college will no longer be in a position to hire them or to recommend their reinstatement."

A spokesman for the San Francisco Labor Council meanwhile indicated it might consider lifting its sanction of the teachers' walkout at a meeting on Monday.

Scouts Learn To Fight And To Prevent Fires

BOY SCOUTS OF San Rafael Troop No. 57 "went to school" to learn the fundamentals of fire prevention and fire extinguishing, under the expert tutilege of members of the San Rafael Fire Department's Fire Prevention Bureau. The lecturer here at Station No. 2 is Capt. Kenneth Mazza, the department's fire marshal, who explains some of the various kinds of fire extinguishers. (Independent-Journal photos)

A School That Leads To Badges

"There is nothing magical about preventing a fire, about getting rid of a fire hazard, or about putting out a fire. It is just a matter of using good commonsense. . . ."

Thus begins the Boy Scouts of America handbook on "Firemanship," as authored by a committee from the fire insurance industry headed by Lewis A. Vincent, general manager of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, and reviewed by Hartford, Conn., Fire Chief Henry G. Thomas, as chairman of the publications committee of the International Association of Fire Chiefs, and Donald M. Higgins, director of health and safety service for Boy Scouts of America.

FROM THIS booklet with fire prevention experts as their instructors, Boy Scouts across the country study for and earn merit badges in "firemanship."

In Marin County, however, it is a comparatively new program. The boys of San Rafael Troop No. 57 were breaking new ground this winter when they took part in a course conducted by the San Rafael Fire Department's Fire Prevention Bureau that concluded with a court of honor in which they were presented with their merit badges.

It began when representatives of the troop, headed by Scoutmaster Ross Hall, approached the fire department to see if it was agreeable to the establishing of such a program.

FIRE PREVENTION Bureau Capt. Dennis Jenson was pleased at the opportunity to work with the Scouts in the area of fire safety.

"We have found that youths can be our most effective allies in preventing fires," he explains.

Jenson worked out an outline based on the firemanship handbook. The course consisted of two sessions of three hours each. The meetings were held at Fire Station No. 2, but using equipment from station No. 1 as well.

At the initial session the Scouts received an introduction to their city's fire department — its personnel, its stations, its equipment, its activities and its responsibilities.

A STATISTICAL presentation pointed out the value of and need for fire prevention.

The "anatomy" of a fire was explained. A film on home inspections was shown. The boys were provided with home safety checklists to be filled out before the next session.

There were demonstrations of mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and closed heart massage, of the use of the aerial ladder truck and other equipment. The proper removal of an unconscious person from an upper story was shown and practiced.

As homework, the boys were told to make sketches of their

Tips on Purchase and Home Care of Your Wardrobe

MARIN CLEANERS Phone 454-4792 — Member N.I.D. of San Rafael, Bel Aire & Fairfax

"What Can Be Done About My Limp Dress?"

When you purchased your dress, apparently, it had a generous amount of sizing applied by the manufacturer to give it "body." As often occurs, cleaning removes some of the sizing. This may occur in a single cleaning, but most often after several cleanings. This is no real problem to your cleaner. Tell him you want your dress resized. He can do it though there probably will be an extra charge for this service.

There is one possibility of which to beware. Sometimes a manufacturer will stretch a fabric before sizing it. Then when the sizing has been removed, the fabric returns to its original dimensions and the garment is too small. You may have noticed this and thought your cleaner shrunk your dress.

Your best protection is to be certain that the garment you purchased is from a reliable manufacturer, not one who stretches cloth to gain a few extra yards per bolt.

WITH THE SPECIAL RIG used in fighting grass fires by the San Rafael Fire Department in the foreground, the Boy Scouts of Troop 57 listen attentively as Insepctor Dennis Jenson, left, and Fireman Martin Williams explain the use of breathing apparatus and hand tools. The Scouts were studying for badges in firemanship.

TO DO THE job, you have to have the right extinguisher. Fire Prevention Bureau Inspector Dennis Jenson demonstrates that this two-and-three-quarter-pound dry chemical extinguisher just won't suffice.

DOING A THOROUGH job of extinguishing this wood fire, Scout Larry French has first used the extinguisher, then kicked the smoldering remains apart, and now soaks the embers. Inspector Dennis Jenson watches approvingly.

own houses showing the best fire escape routes from the sleeping quarters.

AT THE SECOND session, there was a display and discussion of the various types of fire extinguishers, accompanied by the showing of a film on that subject.

The Scouts then moved into the drill yard where they demonstrated their ability to build a safe campfire, and to extinguish it thoroughly.

"We were satisfied that the boys were well trained in the extinguishing of such fires by using the natural resources of the woods," says Jenson.

The homework assigned at the previous session was collected and discussed.

THAT MARKED the close of the course.

Throughout, Jenson says, there were interspersed question and answer breaks so that the boys could clarify in their minds any points about which they were still uncertain.

Now that the outline for the course has been drafted and tested, the fire prevention bureau expects to teach it to other Boy Scout patrols of the Miwok District.

The San Rafael firemen hope, too, that the idea will spread to other Marin communities.

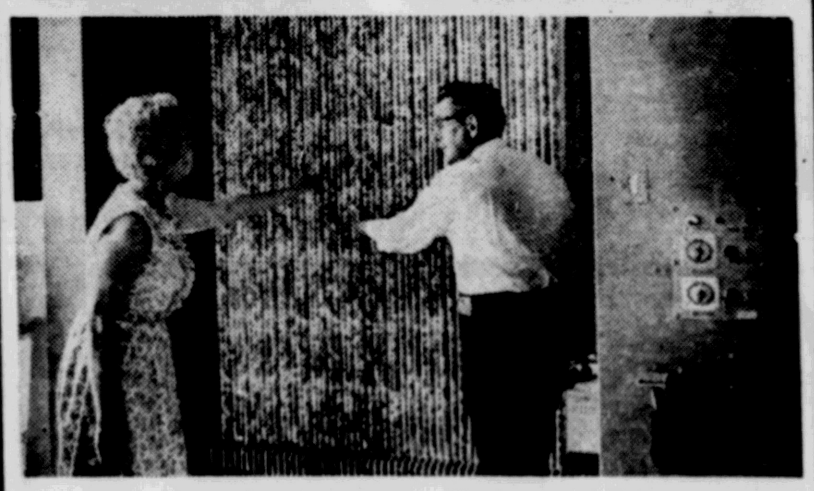

"WE STAND ready to work with any other fire department that would like to give this kind of instruction to the boys of its community," Jenson says.

The San Rafael pilot program has demonstrated emphatically, he adds, the practicality and the value of such training.

As a result, he says, the fire department of San Rafael now has at its disposal 12 young pairs of watchful eyes that will be ever on the alert for fire hazards, and 12 young bodies that will know how to respond immediately when they are confronted by a fire emergency.

Marin Living

Old Trees, New Plants, A Fountain

The San Rafael residence and garden of the Dr. Douglas Ramsey family were built around many magnificent oak and bay trees existing on the site.

Landscape architect Sidney M. Lewin took particular pains to preserve and to protect those trees.

Stone planters were built to enclose the root structures so that grade adjustments could be made around them without damage to the valuable specimens.

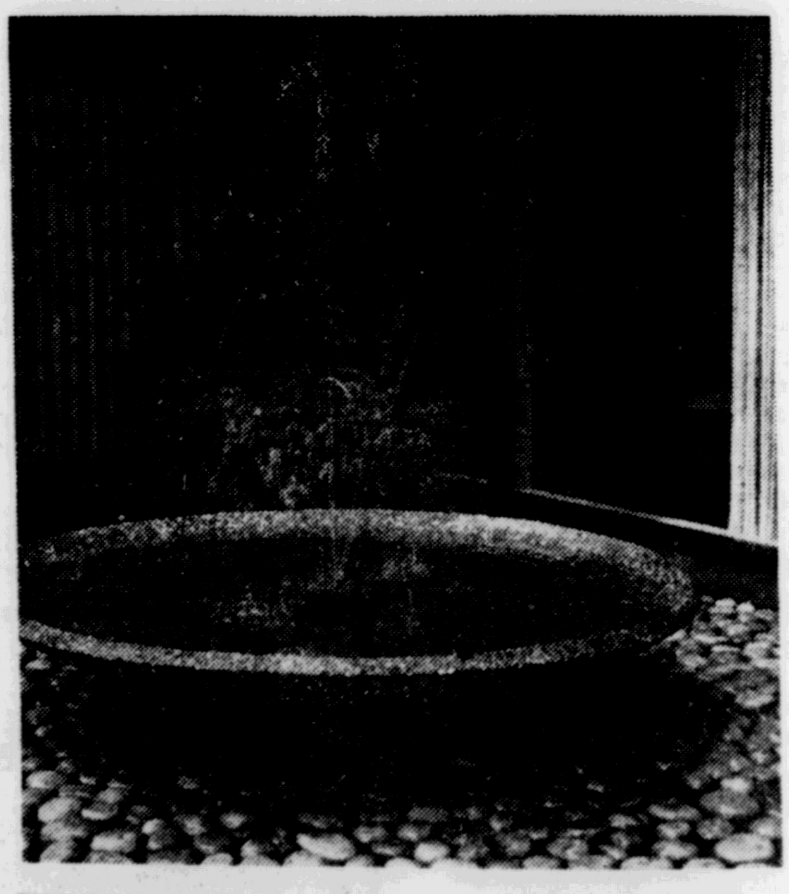

The Ramseys thus got their outdoor living area — including an attractive and useful courtyard, and a huge, seven-foot patio fountain that can be seen from all the rooms of the house — while retaining the beauty and the natural shade of the fine trees.

Lewin created in the garden courtyard an exotic tropical effect, choosing plantings that were especially suited to that atmosphere.

The final result was a pleasing blend of what had long been on the site and the new accents that suit the tastes and needs of the Ramseys.

THE INVITING courtyard of the San Rafael residence of Dr. and Mrs. Douglas Ramsey was designed by landscape architect Sidney M. Lewin of aggregate paving that he softened with planting areas. A redwood bench backed by a stone wall provides a sitting area, and the wall is also part of a planter box that encloses one of the pre-existing trees at a higher grade than the patio. A textured screen is another softening touch. (Photos by G. L. Koch)

THE SEVEN-FOOT patio fountain included by landscape architect Sidney M. Lewin in the Dr. Douglas Ramsey outdoor living area is of exposed aggregate, and is located so that it can be enjoyed from all the rooms within the house.

The Story Of Congregation Kol Shofar

Seven Years Of Worship And Growth

By DON KEOWN

Marin Jews will join with other followers of their faith around the world in observing one of their most joyous occasions, the Purim Festival, on Monday and Tuesday.

The observance celebrates the deliverance of the oft-persecuted Jews from one of their greatest perils — 2,500 years ago.

It took place in ancient Persia, and the story is told in the Bible in the book of Esther.

IT WAS IN the reign of King Ahasuerus, a relatively enlightened monarch but with a vicious anti-Jew, Haman, as his favorite minister and adviser. It was the latter who pushed through a decree for the destruction of all Jews in the 127 provinces ruled by the then mighty Persian state. The exterminations were to take place on the 13th day of the 12th month (Adar), a date that had been selected by ritualistic lot.

But the king had recently taken as his new queen the lovely young Esther, not knowing she was a Jewess who had been reared by her older cousin Mordecai. It was Esther who was to be the heroine of the story.

With Esther's presence in the court, the wise Mordecai began to acquire a growing influence with the king. The jealous Haman decided upon his execution without awaiting for the scheduled pogrom.

ESTHER, HOWEVER, brought about a confrontation of Mordecai and Haman at a banquet before the king and revealed to her husband the wicked minister's plan to do away with his rival. Ahasuerus was infuriated, and it was Haman who died upon the gallows he had ordered built for Mordecai.

Still, the royal order for the extermination of the Jews stood, as the 13th day of Adar approached. It was irrevocable, according to Persian law.

But upon the plea of Esther, ". . . the king granted the Jews which were in every city to gather themselves together and to stand for their life, to destroy, to slay, and to cause to perish, all the power of the people and province that would assault them, both little ones and women, and to take the spoil of them for a prey."

"AND IN EVERY province, and in every city, whichsoever the king's commandments and his decree came, the Jews had joy and gladness, a feast and a good day," the Bible relates. "And many of the people of the land became Jews; for the fear of the Jews fell upon them."

Then armed, by permission of the king, the Jews defeated their enemies on that crucial 13th day of Adar — "Thus the Jews smote all their enemies from the stroke of the sword, and slaughter, and destruction, and did what they would unto those that hated them." On the 14th day of Adar they celebrated their victory.

Mordecai, now a powerful figure in Persia, then wrote the triumphant Jews that henceforth they should mark the 14th and 15th days of Adar annually as the days "wherein the Jews rested from their enemies, and that month which was turned unto them from sorrow to joy, and from mourning unto a good day; that they should make them days of feasting and joy, and of sending portions one to another, and gifts to the poor."

The festival name Purim came from "pur" the word for "lot," the means by which the evil Haman had originally arrived at the date for the massacre of the Jews.

It is this ancient order by Mordecai that Jews still heed.

THUS IN TWO Jewish synagogues in Marin County next week the story of the foiling of the dastardly Haman by Esther and Mordecai, and of the rescue of the Jews from one of the many threats in history of extinction.

That there are two Jewish synagogues in the county will come as a surprise to some Marinites.

Most are well aware of Congregation Rodef Sholom with its own temple at 170 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael. It is a Reform congregation, and the county's largest Jewish congregation.

Less well-known is the second congregation — a Conservative one. Congregation Kol Shofar holds its services in the Jewish Community Center of Marin at 200 North San Pedro Road.

THAT CONGREGATION had its beginnings in early 1962 when a group of four or five "conservative-oriented" Jews met to discuss the possibility of establishing a synagogue. Contacts by mail followed and disclosed sufficient interest to justify a call for a formal meeting on Feb. 28, 1962.

There the decision was to proceed with the formation of a conservative congregation. It was also agreed to approach the Jewish Community Center, then located at San Rafael's Mission and Forbes avenues, concerning the possibility of renting meeting space. Reform Temple Rodef Sholom, which had been housed there, had purchased the land for the construction of its own facilities and was contemplating the abandonment of its rooms in the community center.

It was thus in that community center near the heart of downtown San Rafael that the new congregation Kol Shofar ("the sound of the ram's horn") held its first Sabbath worship in May of 1962 with Cantor Julius Blackman of San Francisco present to provide liturgical guidance. The Jewish Community Center was to remain the congregation's place of worship until its sale in 1966 to the San Rafael Military Academy.

A GROUP INCLUDING Dr. Jacob S. Margoliash, Philip Ruby, Harry Yaffee and Dr. I. D. Rotkin began planning for the new congregation's first High Holy Day service for the late summer of 1962. Irving R. Newman, former director of the Jewish Community Center of Marin, agreed to officiate. And

THE CONSERVATIVE Judaism congregation Kol Shofar converts the social hall of the Jewish Community Center of Marin at Santa Venetia into a synagogue for its weekly worship services. The smallest of two Marin Jewish congregations, Kol Shofar was founded in 1962 and now has about 50 families as its members.

THE ATTENTION of Kol Shofar board members is focused on two renderings by architect Hans Gerson of what the congregation hopes will become its future home. The directors are, clockwise, starting at lower left, Phillip Ruby, Harold Stoll, Mrs. Shirley Fisher, Max Chodes, Merrill Ring (congregation president, at the board), Marvin Pheffer, Dr. Jacob S. more than 100 people were in attendance in the center's auditorium at the solemn services of Rosh Hashanah and the Day of Atonement (Yom Kippur).

The following year, Kol Shofar hired its first rabbi. He was David Coren, who had moved to the West Coast to be near his children. He remained with the congregation for more than a year, giving it the firm foundation that the new organization needed from an experienced professional, before leaving for a post in Fresno to rebuild there an older congregation. Shortly after his departure from Marin, Rabbi Coren died.

Weekly services were being held on Friday evenings, often with guest speakers and after-service discussions.

Traditionally-oriented Jews moving into Marin were joining the congregation.

TWO OF ITS hard-working members, Dr. Margoliash and Sid Koalkin, presented the congregation with two hand-crafted pulpits of walnut with brass trim that remain in use today.

"Mutual understanding made the Kol Shofar group a congenial one," the members from those years recall, and they add that it was that quality that also helped them in attracting the services of an outstanding retired rabbi, Morris Schussheim.

Rabbi Schussheim was installed on Dec. 8, 1963, with seven of his rabbinical colleagues in attendance. He was to minister to Kol Shofar for three years with the help of such men as Selby Morse, a public school teacher who served not only as president of Kol Shofar but also as its part-time cantor, and by his successor as congregation president, Lt. Col. William Chartock.

Colonel Chartock was followed by Walter Hotzner, the ritual chairman since the congregation's founding, and then by Dr. Margoliash and Albert J. Schilling.

WHILE SCHILLING was the president, the congregation was confronted with a housing crisis. The Jewish Community Center of Marin building at Mission and Forbes was sold, leaving Kol Shofar without a home.

In an impressive display of the rising ecumenical spirit, the directors of Aldersgate Methodist Church in Terra Linda invited Kol Shofar to use their facilities. The suggestion was accepted. And the close relationship between the two congregations that developed resulted in the Methodists' Rev. Paul Schurman appearing at times in the Kol Shofar pulpit, and Rabbi Schussheim reciprocating before the Protestant worshipers.

During the autumn of 1966 Rabbi Schussheim was given a farewell testimonial to permit him to take up less taxing work as rabbi pro-tem for one of his colleagues in Oregon who had gone on Sabbatical leave.

Rabbi and Mrs. Schussheim now reside in the East Bay. His three years with Kol Shofar were part of more than 40 years in the rabbinate during which he made hosts of friends across the country.

SINCE THEN, Kol Shofar has undergone still more important changes.

With the completion of the new Marin Jewish Community Center at Santa Venetia in the summer of 1967, Kol Shofar again made arrangements to become its tenants.

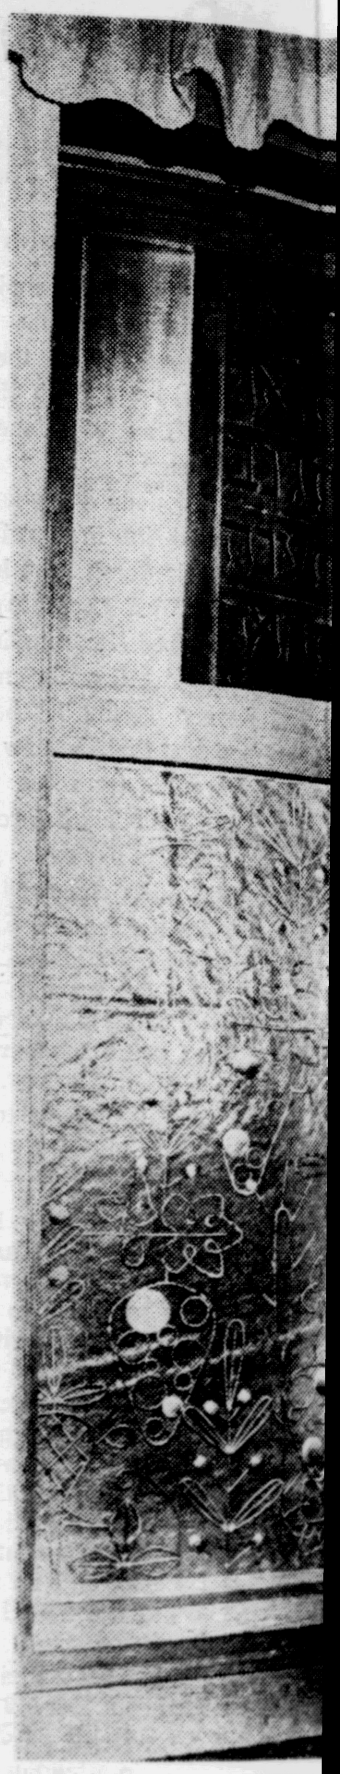

In a building designed for multi-purpose use by a variety of groups, the conservative Jewish congregation found the task of transforming the social hall into a place of worship once a week a challenge — but one it met successfully.

There the congregation also conducts religious school classes that meet twice during the week and on Saturday mornings.

It sponsors a sisterhood, headed now by Mrs. Harold Plotkin, that maintains a gift shop and sponsors such fund-raising activities as theater parties, luncheons and flea market sales.

Kol Shofar takes a special pride in its role in the annual Thanksgiving union service that originated as a joint gathering of the Aldersgate Methodists and the conservative Jewish congregation. Other groups soon joined in, and now 12 churches and two synagogues participate in the ecumenical rites that last Thanksgiving Day drew an attendance of more than 800 people.

UNDER THE presidencies of Dr. Margoliash and Merrill Ring these past two years, Kol Shofar has been looking into the possibility of eventually building a synagogue of its own. A parcel of land was purchased in a quiet Marinwood area in 1967, and the services of architect Hans Gerson employed. Preliminary

Since the departure of Ral Schussheim, the Kol Sho spiritual leader has been Jacob Milgrom.

The congregation shares present rabbi with the Unive ty of California Far East Languages Department wh Dr. Milgrom is a professor Hebrew and the Bible.

His pulpit experience includes 14 years as rabbi of Temple Beth-El in Richmond, Va., with a congregation of more than 800 families. At the same time he was also teaching as a member of the faculty of the graduate school of religion at Virginia Union University.

"In 1961, I had the honor, as an active rabbi, to bring official greetings from that Protestant (Baptist) theological school to the Roman Catholic pope during an audience at the Vatican," he recalls.

Rabbi and teacher, Dr. Milgrom found himself at a crossroads. Both fields were growing so that he no longer had sufficient time to carry on both activities. "I either had to become a full-time rabbi or a full-time scholar," he says. He decided in favor of the latter "because my interest were, more and more, being drawn to original research."

SO IN 1965 HE came West to accept the position with the University of California.

He expects to remain in teaching, but admits: "I can't get the rabbi out of my blood." Thus, he regards his part-time arrangement with Kol Shofar as ideal "because it enables me to fulfill the obligation I feel to use my spare time to assist congregations that are still growing and cannot yet afford a full-time rabbi."

He says that while there was a number of rabbis in his family, his father was not one. "My parents wanted me to become one," he says, "and as a result, I almost didn't. You might say I chose my profession despite, not because of, parental encouragement."

HIS OWN FOUR children, well steeped in Biblical scholarship, will be left to choose their own careers, he says. But one son is currently in Israel studying after winning a nation-wide Bible contest.

The Festival of Purim or Lot, he says, will have special significance for Jews this year as once again the Jewish people find themselves caught in crises.

In the past several years it has served as an opportunity to dramatize the spiritual extinction confronting the Jews in anti-religious Soviet Russia. This year the Mid-East confrontation between Jews and hostile Arab neighbors will be foremost in the minds of the celebrators Recent executions of Jews in Iraq in the very region where 2,500 years ago other Jews faced terrible dangers — and were spared — has underlined the tenseness of the situation.

Rabbi Milgrom follows developments in the Mid-East closely, having visited Israel a number of times, including one trip at the time of the trial of the notorious Adolf Eichmann.

"I WAS PRESENT in court on the one day that he spoke," he reports, and adds there was no indication of any real remorse on Eichmann's part despite his words: "I am sorry. . . . "

There were two very different basic attitudes on the part of the Israelis, he says.

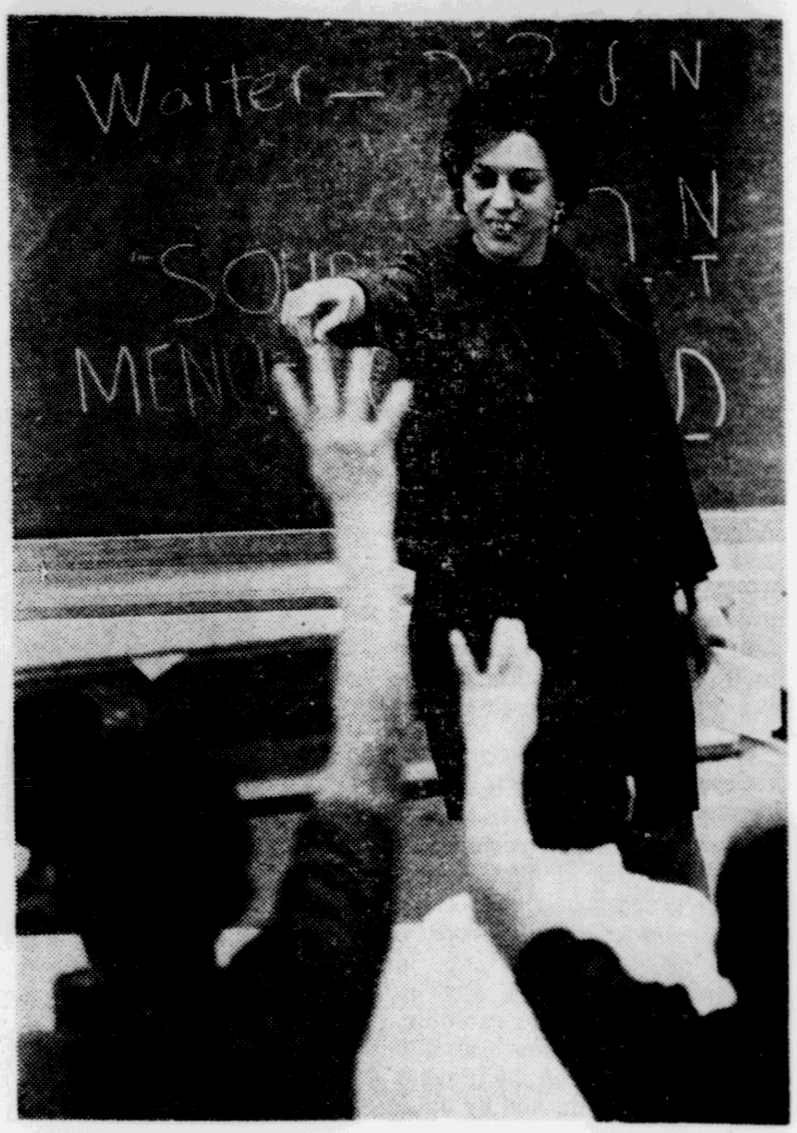

The older generations, because of what they had experienced, still felt a deep hatred for Eichmann and his ilk.

"The younger people had a more rational outlook — one of curiosity," he says. "There I felt the trial had its educational value. It taught not only the Israeli youth, but the youth of the world, what had taken place."

The attitude of the older people of Israeli he describes as one of "refusing to forgive or forget," and that of the younger people as one of "agreeing to forgive, but vowing not to forget."

THE FESTIVAL of Purim thus, too, has its educational value, reminding the Jews, and others, of the persecutions of the past, and of the faith and the spirit that have seen these courageous people time and time again emerge from the shadow of extinction.

Purim falls on March 4 this year. But as with all Jewish holidays and festivals, the observance begins at twilight the previous day. The Megillah (Scroll) Service will begin Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Kol Shofar's temple within the Jewish community center. The Biblical story of Esther will be chanted in its entirety, read, not from a printed book, but from a scroll. And the some 50 families that make up the membership of Marin's conservative Jewish congregation will listen to experience a renewal of faith and a deepening of devotion from a story that took place 2,500 years ago.

WITH THE founding of Israel, Hebrew became a living language again. Mrs. Rivka Amiyad, who taught for a number of years in Israel, heads the Kol Shofar religious school with Rabbi Jacob Milgrom, and here she teaches conversational Hebrew.

JEWISH CONGREGATIONS including Kol Shofar will be observing the Festival of Purim Monday and Tuesday of next week. Children of the congregation are seen in costumes of the main characters of the Purim story — left to right, Elizabeth De Baere as Queen Esther, Jimmy Gottesman as King Ahasuerus, David Pheffer as the villain Haman, and Brent Babow as Mordecai. Spring-Time In The Dolomites

It's Grand Season For That Visit

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO is the capital of the winter sports world, and was the scene of the 1956 Winter Olympics. The massive Dolomite peaks of the Pomogagnon look down upon the town. Now the snows are melting, and the Dolomites will offer the visitor a different kind of spring-time beauty and new activities.

The pale rose-gold mass known as the Dolomites is best known when it is snow covered and frequented by skiers and mountain climbers.

But for less athletically-inclined tourists to Italy, there is no better time to visit it than in the spring or early summer.

Then the grand valleys of Adige, Piave-Cadore, Ampezzo and others are covered with Alpine flowers in extraordinary profusion and variety; the ice-free streams tumble riotously on their way to the Adriatic; the sun is benign, and the air balmy.

SPRING COMES early to the valleys, for all of their Alpine location.

Nowhere, except perhaps in the Himalayas, do the ridges rise so precipitously out of the valleys — a solid wall of rock in some places — serving to shelter the burgeoning season. In the South Tyrol, for example, calycanthus blossoms around New Year, in March the almond trees are in bloom, and by June all the mountain slopes are carpeted with flowers.

In the same areas fir trees mingle with palms, and chestnuts with figs.

THE MOST amazing thing about the Dolomites, however, is the mountains themselves — a fantastically abrupt upthrust of rock like no other mountains in the world, forming spires, often to needle-point, and turrets of startling height and spectacular formation. It is difficult to realize that in some primordial period these peaks were invaded by the sea, but there is clear evidence in the plagian deposits that form the slopes which make Cortina, for example, a mecca for skiers from all over the world.

The mountains are named after the French geologist, Deodat de Dolomieu, who first took note of the unusual limestone formations in the 18th Century. They lie in the northern regions of Veneto, Venezia Giulia and Alto Adige, and include portions of South Tyrol, ceded to Italy at the conclusion of World War I.

Here the villages occupying the valleys — sometimes even the mountain-tops — are Tyrolean in character and are famed for their wood carvings, wines and castles. The people are bilingual, speaking both Italian and German; in some regions, an ancient tongue called Ladino, bequeathed by the early Roman conquerors, is spoken.

THE PRINCIPAL towns are Bolzano, the capital of Alto Adige, and Merano, birthplace of the famed minnesinger, Michael von der Vogelweide, and of the 16th Century artist, Michael Pacher, many of whose works are to be found there.

In the province of Belluno, Veneto, lies the world famous ski resort of Cortina d'Ampezzo, scene of the 1956 Winter Olympics.

Cortina is known as the crossroads of the world of winter sports and attracts huge crowds during the ski season. Should it be crowded, there are numerous other ski resorts in the area, linked by a network of cable cars and ski lifts.

THERE TOO, however, the region is equally worth visiting in the summer since the Ampezzo is one of the most beautiful valleys in the world, abounding in fine trout streams and mountain lakes.

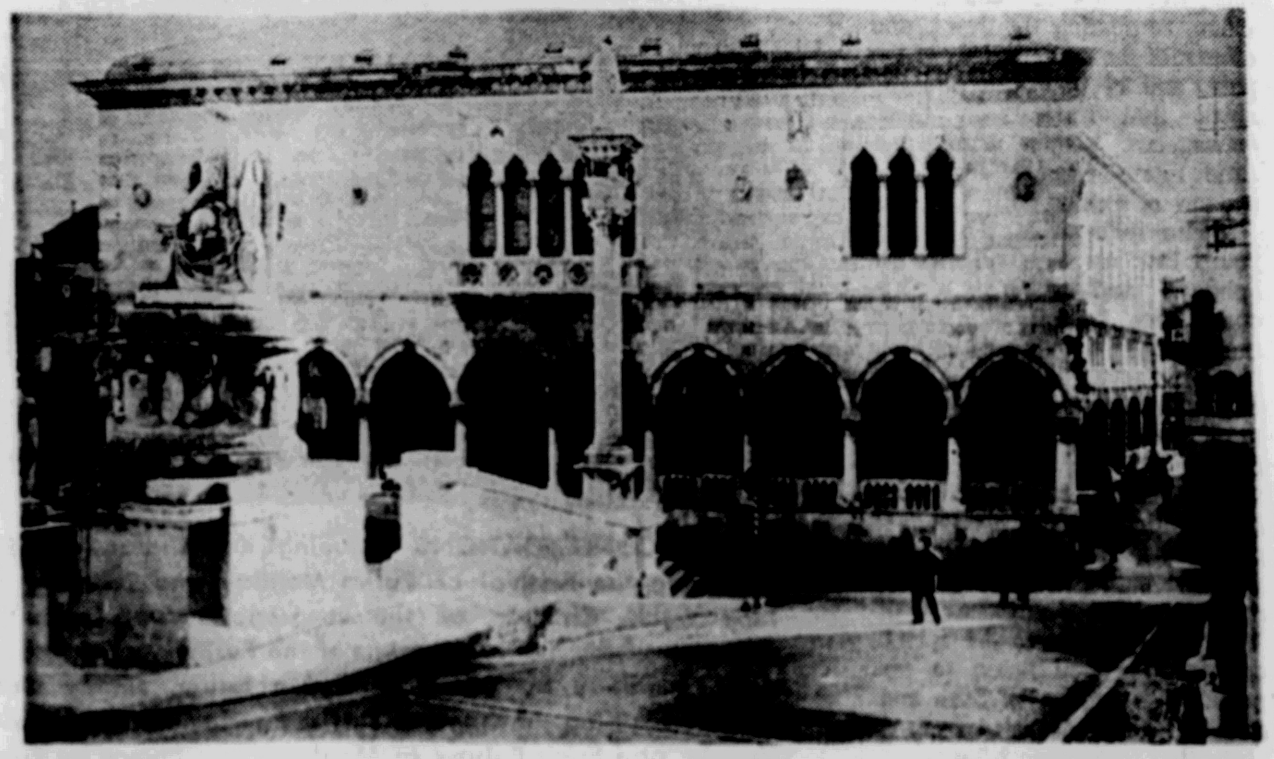

The town of Belluno, located in the enchanting Alpago Valley, is called the "garden of the Dolomites." It is an ancient city, rich in antiquities and fine 14th and 15th Century architecture.

Pieve di Cadore is another old city, pre-dating the Roman era; it was the home of Titian and contains some excellent works of the great renaissance artist, donated to the town by Titian himself.

ONE OF THE great virtues of holidaying in the Dolomites, as in all of Italy for that matter, is the nearness of the mountains to the seashore, or both to the great art centers.

From Cortina it is a simple drop-down, via excellent and scenic mountain roads, to Venice; as it is from Bolzano to Trent, scene of the great church Council of Trent in the 16th Century, and from there to Verona, Mantua and other great art cities.

Perhaps nowhere in the world is there such an intermingling of the world of nature and the world of art, the world of sports and the world of culture.

THE ANCIENT Roman town of Udine, once part of the Venetian Republic, is easily accessible to the visitor enroute to the Dolomites from Trieste.

India Drops Ban On Charter Flights

India has lifted its restrictions on all chartered flights entering the country in an effort to attract greater tourist traffic.

Until this year, only chartered flights from Europe were permitted in an attempt to protect the government-owned internal airline.

P & O offers a 20 per cent reduction in its regular fares to Europe to common interest groups of 15 or more passengers.

Sweden Appoints A Friend For Visitors In Trouble

What do you do when you are in a foreign country where you do not speak the language, and do not know the local laws or regulations — and a problem has arisen?

This is a problem that has confronted many a traveler.

Gothenburg, Sweden's sprawling port city, has done something to rectify this need. It has appointed an ombudsman for tourists.

Called the visitor's ombudsman, he will ensure that all visitors will be afforded the same rights as the Swedish citizens, who have enjoyed the protection of an ombudsman since 1809. It is anticipated that most of his cases will be minor, arising from ignorance of the local laws and customs or from misunderstandings due to language difficulties. Therefore, most of the ombudsman's duties will be to inform, arbitrate and, at times, to soothe ruffled feelings.

His services are free of charge.

It is a pilot project and if proven successful, will probably be repeated in other important tourist centers in Sweden.

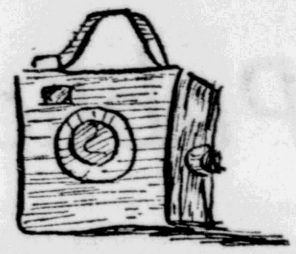

SIGNS THAT SAVE LIVES

There is good reason to give breakaway highway sign supports credit for saving many lives.

Over a 27-month period, reports the National Automobile Club, drivers in Texas had 117 collisions involving signs mounted on breakaway supports.

But only one such collision proved fatal.

In 1965 and 1966, reports the club, 80 fatalities in Texas resulted from vehicles crashing into signs without breakaway supports.

How Public Are Public Schools?

WHO CONTROLS AMERICAN EDUCATION? by James D. Koerner; Beacon Press, 194 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

The public has little to do with the control of public education in the United States — and it is largely the public's fault.

Why is this so, what the current trend is, and what might be done to restore a balance of powers in education are explored by James D. Koerner in this new book.

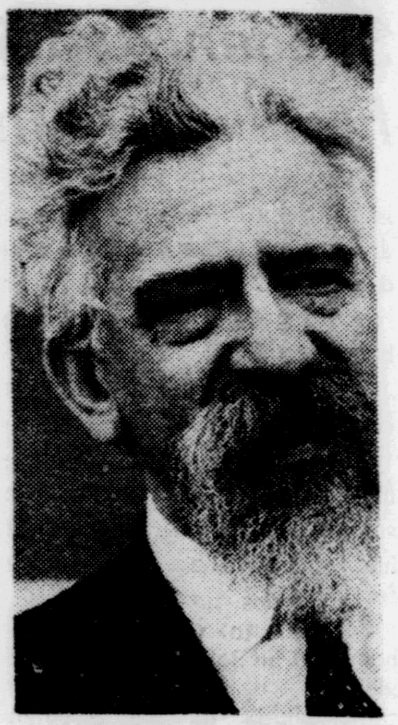

Although the control of the public schools is through an intricate series of interlocking influences, Koerner shows that it lies principally with an entrenched establishment of school administrators, backed solidly by the education departments of colleges and universities and the quasi-official accrediting agencies. The classroom teacher has little more to say about it than does a member of the public — although that is being changed by the new teacher militancy. School boards are reduced to housekeepers.

This comes about largely, writes Koerner, because the public — including school board members — has swallowed the claim of the administrators to some special mystic knowledge that makes them alone capable of deciding anything regarding the schools. Koerner, who examined nearly 3,500 transcripts of credits of teachers and administrators in doing research for his earlier book, "The Miseducation of American Teachers," knows well how groundless this claim is.

"If I could leave the reader with only one impression in this book," he writes, "I would like him to take away the conviction that all of us have badly overestimated the quality and the extent of expert knowledge in education."

That over-estimate, he holds, has permitted the administrator-education faculty-accreditation establishment to freeze the American public education system into a standpat monolith that is unable to met new challenges and is heavily handicapped in making any real improvements. In other words, although school administrators do a lot of writing and talking about "our rapidly changing society," their own society rolls on unchanged.

"Who Controls American Education?" should be "must" reading for every school board member. And it might well be read by everyone else who is really interested in improving the public schools.

ABRAHAM J. HESCHEL
Hope for a solution

An Eloquent Statement Of The Israeli Position In Mid-East

ISRAEL: AN ECHO OF ETERNITY by Abraham Joshua Heschel; Farrar, Straus & Giroux, 232 pages, $5.50. Reviewed by Walter Hotzner.

With the troubled times in the Mid-East, a book such as this one by the eminent professor of ethics and mysticism at the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, Abraham Joshua Heschel, brings an eloquent message to those who fail to comprehend the position of Israel in the tug of war struggle with its Arab neighbors.

Dr. Heschel leans heavily on Old Testament texts that tie to his own thinking. "Israel An Echo of Eternity" deals with the past, present and future of the people who gave the world the Bible. The book is a work of love, and it is dedicated to Dr. Heschel's friend, the poet, scholar and president of the state of Israel, Zalman Shazar.

Divided into six sections, the book opens with Jerusalem — a Charismatic City: "We, a people of orphans, have entered the walls to greet the widow Jerusalem, and the widow is a bride again. She has taken hold of us, and we ourselves again at the feet of the prophets. We are the harp, and David is playing."

Engagement to the Land: "The restoration of Zion began on the day of its destruction. The land was rebuilt in time long before it was restored in space. We have been building it daily for nearly two thousand years. The Promised Land is the leit motif of the Pentateuch."

Between Hope and Distress: "For centuries we would tear our garments whenever we came into sight of your ruins (Jerusalem). In 1945 our souls were ruins, and our garments tatters. There was nothing to tear. In Auschwitz, Dachau, Bergen-Belsen and Treblinka, they prayed on Yom Kippur (the Atonement Day). The next day they were asphyxiated in gas chambers. Perhaps the most characteristic quality of Jewish existence is bittahon (hope) — believing and hoping are one."

Israel and Meaning in History: "Man may forget, history remembers. Genuine history occurs when events of the present disclose the meaning of the past and offer an anticipation of the promise of the future."

Jews, Christians, Arabs: "Arab and Jew are more than neighbors" begins the author's remarks in this section. "They share the fact of kinship." He argues: Israel reborn is bound to be a blessing to the Arab world, to play a major role in their renaissance. The return of the Jewish people to the land of Israel, which was first welcomed by Arabs living in the land, has under the influence of reckless leaders become the bone of bitter contention.

A Rendezvous with History: This last of the six sections of Dr. Heschel's new book explains Israel's feelings following the six-day war during June of 1967: "We mourn the loss of lives, the devastation, the fruits of violence. We mourn for the Jews, Christians and Moslems. Our aim must be to bring about peace and reconciliation with all of the neighbors in that part of the world."

Dr. Heschel concludes with the hope that through full cooperation among the Mid-East nations constructive solutions will be found.

"Israel: An Echo to Eternity" is recommended reading for all Jews and non-Jews who are concerned with the state of Israel and it's place in contemporary history, as well as those who are personally as well as spiritually committed to its existence.

The Greats Of A Growing Game

THE GOLF IMMORTALS by Tom Scott and Geoffrey Cousins; Hart, 272 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by James E. Williams.

Bobby Jones, Ben Hogan, Babe Zaharias, Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus.

These names spell the four-letter word "golf." And thanks to two of Britain's best known golf writers — Tom Scott and Geoffrey Cousins — their stories and of other golfing greats have added to the story of "cow pasture pool."

At one time golf was referred to as the rich man's game. How the picture has changed! The golfing feats of Bobby Jones, the gentleman from Georgia, captured the heart of the sports world and widened the interest range immeasurably.

Today golf is one of the world's most popular sports — from the player to the spectator. Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus are household names.

What is behind it all? As these two distinguished writers report: "Compared with golf, most other sports are stereotyped . . . Golf is played in circumstances which make every round a separate adventure . . ."

BOBBY JONES
Widened the range

Scott and Cousins credit the late Harry Verdon as the original catalyst who changed golf from a purely Scottish game to a pastime of world-wide popularity.

Besides the Joneses, Hogans, Palmers, and the mighty, Babe Zaharias, the book explores the techniques of such other masters as Walter Hagen, Sam Snead, Billy Casper, Byron Nelson, Gene Sarazen, Tommy Armour and Tony Lema, the young popular professional who was killed in a plane wreck several years ago.

In this modern era of golf there may be touring professionals with a more perfect game than that of Palmer, but the Latrobe, Pa., player has a special niche. His aggressiveness is the key.

As Scott and Cousins point out "a host of screaming demonstrative supporters of one player was unheard of in golf until Palmer appeared on the scene." He is a world-wide personality. There is an Arnie's Army group in most every port.

Scott and Cousins have sprinkled the book with excellent photography—to highlight great moments of each player. The pictures alone are nearly worth the price.

While this book will not win any arguments in the statistical department, it offers the reader an insight into the personality of each player and explains what made him an "immortal."

THE OUTSIDERS

British Writer Hits Note Of Reality In His Books

THE LONDON NOVELS OF COLIN MacINNES, Farrar, Straus & Giroux, 626 pages, $7.50. Reviewed by Gary Tischler.

You might call Colin MacInnis an underground writer, in the sense that he is woefully obscure in America. Which is really a shame, because this trio of books about outsiders have probably more to say about youth, blacks and law and order than any number of hip attempts by U.S. authors.

"City of Spades" is about the trials, literal and otherwise, of a group of black immigrants living in London, their white friends and the special air of fascination and the stubborn will to live that surround them.

"Absolute Beginners" concerns the teen scene in London, circa 1960 or so, but it has less to do with time than it does with what youth is just maybe all about.

"Mr. Love and Mr. Justice" concerns a pimp and a cop, and their special relationship.

All three books, published in England between 1957 and 1960, have a common identity — they all concern outsiders, those inside the mainstream of society. The black — the teeners — the pimp and the cop.

MacInnes' has a very real sense of what it's all about, not in terms of slang or language, which he has invented, but in terms of feeling. For the denizens of these subcultures or sub-societies have a sense of place, a feeling of identity. Both the pimp and his justice counterpart recognize this — so does Johnny Fortune, the indominatable hero of "City of Spades" and the harassed but unbeaten teen hero. They know, and are proud, that indeed, they are "not like the mugs." Like Fitzgerald's very rich, they are different from you and me.

The packaged trio, because of its sheer size, is difficult to get into. Some of the isolated situations seem contrived. But the whole picture takes on reality, like a slowly developing print.

The book is worthwhile for any interested reader from high school age up.

The Anatomy Of A President As Dissected By A Scholar

By DON KEOWN

THE TRAGEDY OF LYNDON JOHNSON by Eric Goldman; Knopf, 531 pages, $8.95.

One begins Eric Goldman's "The Tragedy of Lyndon Johnson" with the expectation that the title refers to the Vietnam conflict in which the past President hopelessly enmeshed himself.

It develops, however, that the "tragedy" to which Goldman refers is the Johnson personality or character.

It was, this former aide says, the inner Johnson make-up, combined with background limitations, that made it impossible for him to analyze realistically the situation in Southeast Asia, and allowed him to mire his administration and the nation deeper and deeper into a bloody, unpopular war. And as necessity forced the President to divert more and more of his attention and energies to that unhappy episode, the Great Society domestic programs that had begun with such extraordinary promise faltered and fell apart.

Princeton historian Goldman was, of course, for a time the intellectual on the Johnson staff, a sort of tokenism in snobbery corresponding to the racial practices of so many businesses, agencies and organizations today that go to great pains to maintain in their ranks the one black face that will safeguard them against charges of discrimination.

For Lyndon B. Johnson had little use for or understanding of intellectuals. They reciprocated in kind, and there is evidence in his book that Goldman shared their feelings, although he does chastize his fellow scholars for their oft-demonstrated lack of respect for the high office of President. There are times when Goldman seems sympathetic to Johnson and his tremendous burdens. But, plainly, he found him boorish and arrogant, scheming and power-hungry, a victim of his own insecurities that caused him to over-react, over-reach, over-state and over-do. Because he followed a charismatic President who was his very opposite, LBJ's personality pimples were all the more noticeable and repulsive. He responded by trying even harder to overcome not so much his faults as the people who stood up to them and their consequences.

There has already been some criticism of Goldman, in the first place for the writing of the book and the revealing of so much about personal relationships in the White House. But the presidency is a public, not a private, office, our highest, and Goldman is quite justified in claiming that the American people are entitled to all available information on it from every possible point of view, in the not-too-bright hope that they might learn from past mistakes.

A more effective criticism is that Goldman has written too soon — that a better historical perspective could have been attained by delaying the book for a few years. But there will be others who will write those more objective, more comprehensive studies. And it should not be overlooked that there is also a certain advantage to be acquired from a more immediate assessment from an insider while his passions, impressions and memories remain fresh.

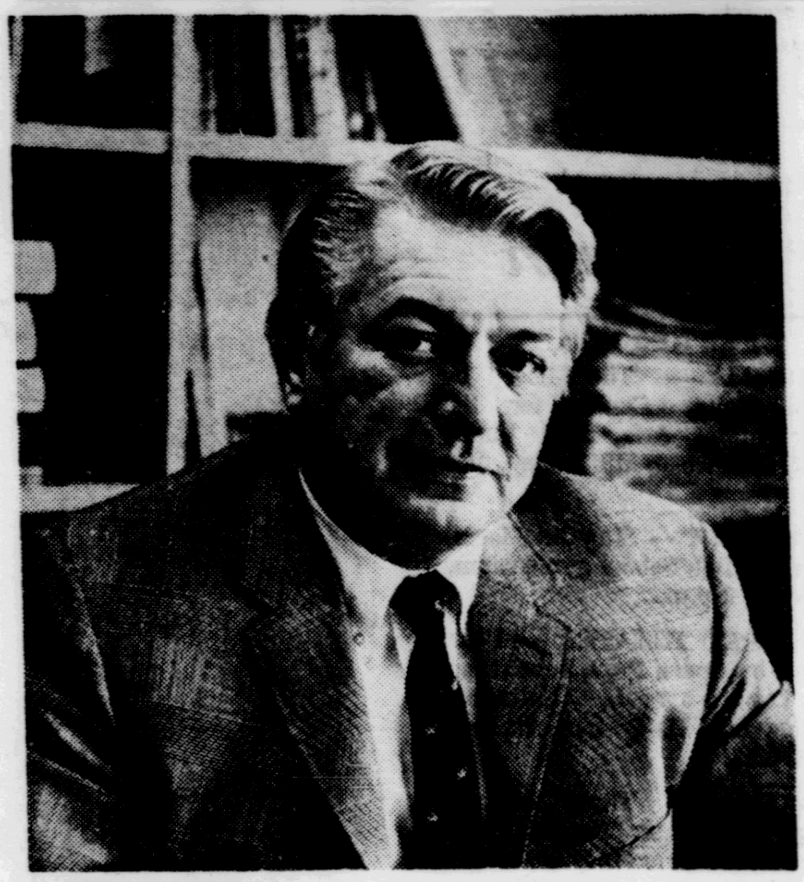

The Goldman book serves mostly to accentuate Johnson flaws that did not go unnoticed during his political career and which contributed directly to the sudden plunge in his popularity that was never very secure. One finishes the book in agreement with Goldman that Johnson, despite vast political experience and a keen mind, and a real if somewhat shallow sense of social justice, simply was not the man for the presidency of the America of the 1960s. He has suggested that Johnson's abilities would have been suited better to the 1930s. One wonders, however, if his proper era might not have been yet another century earlier in the time of Andrew Jackson.

We live in a time, Goldman points out, of growing influence by that segment of society composed of young, affluent, well-educated suburbanites to whom the historian refers as "metroamericans." It was this very group, he continues, that was most repelled and alienated by Johnson's unfortunate personality and parochial background. And this schism, according to the historian, was the meat of Johnson's downfall.

Goldman, himself, does not escape untarnished. The condescension for which he scolds his fellow intellectuals is not completely absent from his own observations. He had his own obsessions, the most unrealistic being the remolding of Lyndon Johnson into something he could never be, a figure appealing to intellectuals. He claims some credit for at least the verbalization of the LBJ consensus formula of leadership, at best a debatable concept. And he oversimplifies.

But there is no argument as to the basic value of the book. It gives us insight, not only into Johnson with all his personal doubts, but into the clique of advisers that surrounded him as well — immensely gifted, extremely competitive, highly jealous and intensely ambitious young men who, like their boss, generally came from restricted backgrounds. It offers us, too, a warmly admiring portrait of Lady Bird Johnson as the first lady and loyal wife. But most of all, it serves as a blunt warning to the American voters to be more discerning — to look beyond appearances and campaign oratory for the qualities most needed at the moment in the men who would lead our nation.

The United States, it is clear, cannot afford too many men like Lyndon Johnson who was "the wrong man from the wrong place at the wrong time under the wrong circumstances."

THE QUESTION—and-answer format is not one we usually find very satisfactory in books of instruction, but we must admit it works very well in "The Beginning Writer's Handbook." For a small book, it is the most helpful thing we have seen yet for the fledgling freelancer.

Editors Kirk Polking and Jean Chimsky, however, had a big advantage in their affiliation with Writer's Digest magazine, the former as editor and the latter as the writer of its question-and-answer column. Thus, with access to the magazine's files, they were able to select the 500 questions most often asked by that publication's readers.

The detailed answers cover a wide range of subjects, from library research to manuscript submission, from cooperating with editors to copyrighting.

The Writers Digest-published book sells for $4.95 and we are convinced it will be worth a lot more than that to any writer or writing aspirant who doesn't himself already know all the answers.

THE YOUNG intellectual and critic Susan Sontag returned from her 1968 trip to Hanoi most impressed with and distressed by the wrongness of her preconceptions of North Vietnam and its people, and suspecting that the same holds true for her fellow Americans not only in regards to the specific small Asian country with which we are warring but to non-western foreigners generally.

"An American has no way of incorporating Vietnam into his consciousness," she says. "It can glow in the remote distance like a navigator's star, it can be the seat of geological tremors that make the political ground shake under our own feet. But the virtues of the Vietnamese are certainly not directly emulatable by Americans; they're even hard to describe plausibly."

The changes that must precede understanding, she suggests, must take place in the westerner, not the Vietnamese. "Just possibly, the process of recasting the particular historical form of our human nature prevalent in Europe and America can be hurried a little, by more people becoming aware of capacities for sentiments and behavior that this culture's values have obscured and slandered."

Miss Sontag's report on her trip and her unusual conclusions have been printed by Noonday Press of New York as a $1.45 paperback under the title "Susan Sontag: Trip to Hanoi."

"SOUNDS OF the Struggle," C. Eric Lincoln's collection of essays on the civil rights confrontation, has been reprinted by Apollo Editions as a $1.95 paperback.

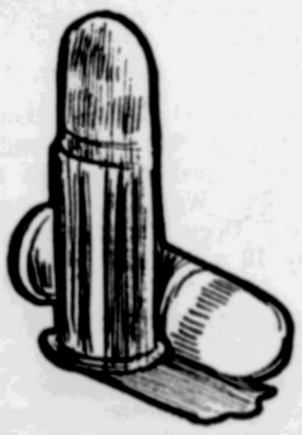

The 18 pieces by the Alabama-born Negro from the faculty of New York City's Union Theological Seminary represents some of the most cogent and most eloquent writing that this nation has produced on the major sociological problems of our times.

"Ours is an era that is characterized by fear and tension, loneliness and anxiety," he begins, and he goes on from there to assess the costs those destructive qualities have inflicted upon blacks and whites alike.

REV. LARRY BEGGS, director of San Francisco's Huckleberry House, says the publisher of his paperback book, "Huckleberry's For Runaways," was in error in stating that Huckleberry House has been closed, and that the home for runaways is still very much in operation, although now in a new out-of-the-Haight-Ashbury location at 1345 Seventh Avenue.

MARIN ARTIST Ted Christensen is the painter of these two landscapes, "Dune Country," below, a California coastal scene, and "The Aspens," a Colorado scape at left. An exhibition of his work will open Monday at the Torrance Gallery in San Anselmo and continue until March 29. Shown will be paintings done by the artist, a Mount Tamalpais resident, during his travels in the western United States and in New England during the past three years. Traveling in what he calls his "studio on wheels," complete with skylight, heating and other necessities, Christensen follows his urge to paint wherever it might carry him—to deserts, snow country, the seashore, forests, the cities, the farmlands. To protect the color of his paintings, Christensen applies a coating of "Dorland's Wax Medium," a material developed by his friend and fellow Marinite, Charles Dorland, over the canvases, thus assuring their permanency. Christensen is the recipient of a continuing residence grant from the Wurlitzer Foundation of New Mexico. He has had some 20 one-man shows in the West, including a number in Marin, but this is his first in his home county in five years. He is represented in art museums throughout the West and in New York, and in a number of important private and public collections. From 1952 to 1960 he taught in the art department of the College of Marin. The Torrance Gallery show will also include some of his line drawings as well as his paintings.

Some new multi-disc packages of high quality:

"THE NONESUCH GUIDE TO ELECTRONIC MUSIC" — Paul Beaver and Bernard Krause — Nonesuch HC-73018:

This unusual two-disc album is a survey of electronic music and its creation.

Already high on the best-selling classical LPs list, the records offer the first chance for the layman to actually hear the various building blocks which go into a work of electronic music: sine waves, square waves, white sound, etc. The various elements are instructively compared with one another and the effects of various filters and other distortions upon the basic sounds are illustrated.

But perhaps of even greater interest than the records is the 16-page booklet in the album, which is a complete introduction to electronic music theory and notation. It also includes a useful glossary of terms. While it sometimes made me feel like a complete idiot about the more involved concepts in this new art form, the notes did give me a much better grasp of the fundamental principles.

There are also several short compositions to illustrate various techniques, and the reproduction — due to direct recording on the tape and the Dolby noise-reduction system — is state-of-the-art level.

"JANACEK CHORAL AND ORCHESTRAL WORKS" — Brno State Philharmonic Orchestra/Waldhans; Czech Philharmonic Chorus and Prague Symphony Orchestra/Pinkas and Veselka — Crossroads 22 26 0016:

One of the best bargains of the past year. These seem to be all first recordings of the music of Janacek, who is rapidly rising in LP popularity along with such other neglected masters as Satie, Neilsen and Scriabin. Very much a 20th Century composer, Janacek wrote with a unique style characterized by rhythmic impulses based on natural sounds such as speech, animal cries, etc. His orchestrations are especially unorthodox.

The first of the two discs is devoted to orchestral works, of which the "Lachian Dances" are the lightest and most tuneful. They are close to the folk-flavored dances of Bartok and Kodaly. Three short tone poems are highlighted by "Jealousy," which is actually an overture to Janacek's important opera "Jenufa." Its main theme is a Czech folk song, also.

The choral works on the second LP are equally interesting and the man was basically a vocal composer.

"The Eternal Gospel" is the longest work on the album, a legend about unearthly idealism, set for soloists, mixed choir and orchestra. The spirit of Russian Orthodoxy permeates "Lord, Have Mercy Upon Us," and "Our Father" — written for soloist, mixed choir, harp and organ — is to me the most beautiful setting in music of the Lord's Prayer that I have ever heard. Stereo sonics in the album are good, albeit a trifle harsh (easily cured with a twist of the treble control).

SIBELIUS: "The Seven Symphonies" — Leonard Bernstein conducting the New York Philharmonic — Columbia M5S 784:

This is the latest development in the plot of the record companies to place in every classical collector's library The Complete Everything by Everybody.

While Vox has done pretty well in the chamber music area, Columbia has concentrated on complete symphonies, with Mahler's being the most recent landmark in the history of the LP. Now here is the second set of all the Sibelius symphonies, on five records, and this time featuring the conductor whose performances of another Scandinavian, Nielsen, have met with glorious praise from every quarter.

While Sibelius was once voted the favorite orchestral composer by a group of representative concert-goers, he is now at the low end of the totem pole — "out," in other words. Both attitudes are wrong; Sibelius is not Bach or Beethoven, but his powerful, serious and craggy symphonies are surely worthy of performances, listening and study.

Bernstein predictably generates a great deal of excitement with these scores and stresses their frequently dramatic aspects. The quality of playing and reproduction is excellent.

The one dud seems to be the Second Symphony, probably the most popular with the average listener. Bernstein's conception appears groping and incomplete, and the rich, full statements of the themes in the strings found in Eugene Ormandy's definitive LP are missing here.

With this one reservation, Columbia has produced a magnificent complete set again.

RANDOM THOUGHTS

Some say our mental processes,
Subjected to analyses,
Reveal an ancestry grammatical,
To wit:
That subject, verb, and objective
Form agent, act, and receptive.

Or again,
Whole books are writ that do proclaim
Us to be pawns of technical media.
But that's a matter of too much tedia
To begin to discuss in poetic treatia.

Couldn't we as simply reckoned
That we are by science beckoned?
That as the ego synthesizes
Each day's myriad surprises
Into one man's history,
We look somewhat like wave pulsating?
Or yet like particle — quantumplating?

Begging pardon for the pun,
I have one other suggestion:

Some persons might respond to shapes —
Say, something like a spiral chute
Through which he slides in some direction
(Depending on chute attitude — and his)
To come to bliss,
Or madness,
Or nowhere,
Or right back where he started:
Some say our mental processes,
Subjected to analyses ———

OLD FRIEND

Upon a ridge so high above,
sat a rider, all alone;
With his thought at close of day.
The sound of wind, and dogs
at bay,
The feel of strength from his steed beneath;
the roaring beauty of the sun — set brief.
A gentle pull upon the reigns,
to guide him back to home again;
Another day so soon to end,
another close, with his old friend.

COSTS

For every family there is one right funeral price – the price that allows wishes to be met without financial strain. At Russell & Gooch Funeral Chapel the family decides exactly what it wants to spend, choosing from three types of funeral service:

- Regular service provides all the facilities of our modern mortuary and attentions of an experienced staff.
- Budget service provides selection of only those facilities and services desired by the family.
- Minimum service is an accommodation for those families holding memberships in various burial associations, as well as for others desiring this type of service.

We encourage price comparison elsewhere. Here at Russell & Gooch, details are fully explained in advance so the family fully understands costs and can select according to circumstances.

- Wood caskets for cremation or burial, from $125

It's A Messy Job, But It Must Be Done

Handyman's Page

There's something very satisfying about transforming an old and perhaps discarded piece of furniture into a smooth-surfaced, sparkling addition to the home.

Taking the first step, however, is another matter. Very few persons like the initial chore of removing the old finish.

Once in a great while it proves to be an almost effortless task, with the finish, usually varnish, yielding quickly to a wipe-on, wipe-off process.

MUCH MORE often, it's an annoying, messy job, necessitating the use of a putty knife or other scraping tool after the varnish remover has been given time to do its work. And when the old finish is made up of many coats, applied on more than one occasion with several intervening years, additional work is required after the scraping has been completed.

The troublemaker sometimes is not the so-called final finish — that is, the varnish, shellac, lacquer or whatever — but the stain, which may have penetrated deeply enough to resist all efforts to remove it. Traces of it remain no matter how many applications of remover are applied.

One trick that occassionally works is to rub steel wool into the stained areas after first soaking the wool in a mixture of detergent and water. This tends to pull some of the coloring up and out of the wood, which is then rubbed again with a new piece of steel wool, which this time is soaked in turpentine.

SHOULD THE wood still have an unsatisfactory appearance, bleaching it with a ready-made commercial bleach may be the only answer.

It is important (1) that the manufacturer's instructions be followed to the letter, since different bleaches call for different methods, and (2) that caution be exercised in the use of the product, since it is a strong chemical. The same thing, of course, is true in handling the varnish remover.

In scraping the softened finish with a putty knife, hold the latter in a nearly horizontal position so as not to gouge the wood. And don't begin the scraping until you are certain that the remover has done its work, which usually is between 15 minutes and half an hour.

Test a portion of the surface. If the finish does not yield easily, it means that the remover has not penetrated deeply enough or that more remover is needed.

WAIT ANOTHER 10 minutes and try again. If the finish continues to resist your efforts, apply another coat of remover right over the first.

In applying both coats, spread evenly and fully, but without going back over areas just covered. Use a clean, full-haired paint brush, applying with a flowing stroke and utilizing more of the flat of the brush than the bristle tips.

A New Idea For A Room Divider—It's Slim And Solid

Pick up any book on interior design and you are likely to find a million ideas for divider walls — none of which quite works for you.

Either they take too much space, they're too intricate to build, or they're the peek-a-boo, dust-collector type.

But now comes a new idea — the solid wall divider. It needs only a six-inch depth, is easily built, and won't need more than an annual dusting.

LIKE ANY other type of divider, this one depends on an airy feeling for its effectiveness. With the solid design, it's a matter of leaving enough open space at the top as well as on either side. Two feet above and three feet at each end are minimums for the best effect.

Actual construction is as easy as building a fence — easier, in fact, since there are no post holes to dig. The framing is a fence-style combination of four-by-four posts and two-by-four stringers, or rails, which are nailed between posts at the top, bottom and center.

The posts can be toe-nailed directly to the floor or to a plate that's attached to the floor, whichever seems more simple. Be sure posts are plumb.

THOUGH THERE'S no structural need to attach them to the ceiling if they're well-anchored at the base, allowing the tops of posts to rise to the ceiling height helps accent the open space above the divider.

For the divider's wall surface, use one-by-four-inch, flush-joint panel boards, choosing a straight-grained wood like western hemlock. Carry the panel boards completely across the face of the posts and around the end of the divider wall, mitering corners.

Last, along the top edge and at the base of the divider, use a piece of square-edge molding, like screen stock, to conceal the ends of the panel boards.

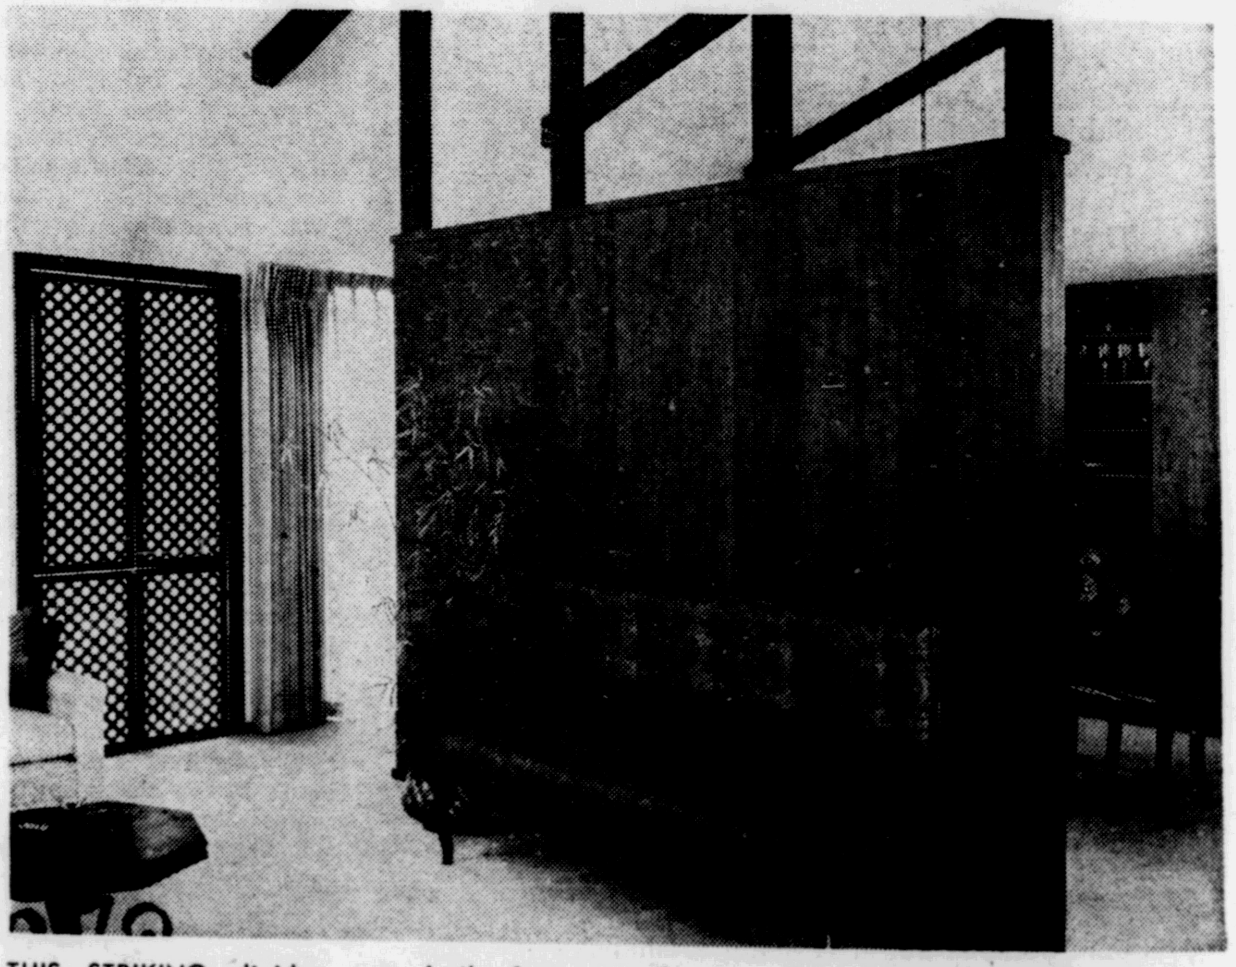

TO FINISH the hemlock, a clear seal coat followed by several coats of clear, satin varnish produces an elegant effect. Hemlock's coloring is delicately golden, about the shade of a glass of champagne.

In its utter simplicity, the solid divider is truly beautiful and needs no further "decorating." It is, however, a perfect backdrop for an interesting piece of furniture — a handsome, low cabinet housing music equipment, or a clean-lined Parsons table.

If additional seating space is needed in the living room, use a long banquette with a separate, tufted backrest that can be hung flush against the divider on recessed mirror straps.

CEILING BEAMS may be false, but they need not look phony. Nail a one-by-four to either side of a two-by-two, then screw the beam into the ceiling joists through the two-by-two. Lumber sizes can be varied. Appearance differs with choice of rough or smooth lumber, and paint or satin finish.

THIS STRIKING divider was built fence-style with tongue-and-groove western hemlock boards nailed to stringers set between floor-to-ceiling posts. The bench completes the living room seating group, and its backrest is mounted flat against the wall on recessed mirror straps.

Don't Be A Square When You Plan The New Patio

Square and flat is dull and drab.

Patios and patio covers don't need to be. They can be, and should be, as inventive, decorative and architecturally pleasing as any other element in the home.

So don't necessarily settle for concrete floors, square posts and corrugated plastic or egg-crate roofs. You can use these basic materials, but as with a lot of other things, some imagination pays extraordinary dividends.

Perhaps most important of all is shape. Try this for contrast:

Shape the patio roof like a broad fan and support it from only three posts. This is perfect for the corner of the back yard or an ell of the house. And the annoying post that would usually be only an impediment is avoided, improving not only the appearance but the usefulness of the patio.

Nor need the patio floor shape be an exact duplicate of the roof. If the floor is larger, both sun and shade will be available as you wish, for longer periods during the day, and then the roof becomes part of a larger and more interesting patio and landscaping scene. The patio and landscaping will be integrated and the patio will not be just a lump stuck out in the yard.

Why Not Plant Flowers And Fragrance?

Garden Page

THE BLOOM of the daphne has been magnified many times in this drawing. But while the flowers, that appear in mid-winter in pink and white clusters, are tiny, their fragrance is anything but infinitesimal. They can fill an entire garden with their pleasing perfume. The daphne is just one of a number of shrubs that should be grown in Marin County for their scent as well as their looks. (Photo courtesy of California Association of Nurserymen)

Why not plant fragrance as well as flowers in your garden?

By choosing certain shrubs, you can give the nose as well as the eyes a sensory treat.

A FAVORITE OF Marinites that accomplishes this is the daphne, a shapely shrub with glossy, evergreen foliage that sports clusters of pink and white flowers in mid-winter. Equally important, the daphne has to rate as one of the most pleasingly fragrant bloomers in the entire botanical world.

Nurserymen generally carry them in a number of varieties suited to our area. They thrive in well drained soil and in filtered sunlight, and make especially handsome foundation plantings.

Another shrub that rates high for fragrance is the osmanthus or sweet olive. It is a tall, upright grower, with fragrant white flowers in the early summer that are hidden beneath a mass of attractive green foliage.

FOR A DIFFERENT growth habit, the delavay osmanthus grows to only about five feet tall and is almost as wide. Beneath a bedroom window or near a porch or patio, its spicy odor is a splendid treat for the nostrils.

Some other candidates to provide Marin gardens with nature's perfume include the viburnums burkwoodii and carlesii, the Mexican orange, the clematis armandi, the meyer lemon and a number of other citrus.

The Perennials That You Forgot To Plant In The Fall

It's Not Too Late To Correct That Unfortunate Oversight

If you failed to plant perennials last fall or this winter, it is not too late to correct that unfortunate oversight.

Marin nurseries have field and container-grown transplants awaiting you. They'll cost you a little more than if you had made your purchases earlier. But you'll be getting mature plants, not seedlings.

Not all perennials are thus available. But the selection is sufficient to fill almost every need.

TOPPING THE LIST is the delphinium. Big clumps of Pacific hybrids will give you two, sometimes even three, periods of bloom this year. The mature plants reward you with a greater profusion of blooms than do the seedlings, which, incidentally, are also still on sale.

The older clumps come in a selection of colors that range from the pale lavenders to the deep purples.

For best results, delphiniums should be set out very soon.

Polyanthus primroses are a wise choice ot brighten a shady border. They, too, are sold as mature, ready-to-bloom plants. From them will come beauty for a number of years.

AN ADDED BONUS: They will be large enough by next fall so that they can be divided, giving you still more plants.

Transvaal daisy is a sun-lover that comes in a wide assortment of colors, all of them vivid. Give these graceful plants a shallow planting and good drainage.

Day lilies are very easily grown and produce color through the summer in distinctive yellow and mahogany tones. The newer varieties are especially suited to our cooler coastal climate.

Shasta daisies and phlox are a couple of other perennials that afford flower-growers an early spring chance to remedy fall and winter's missed opportunities.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

✔ Now is the time to take care of the pruning of your fuchsias.

✔ Plant new roses while they are still available in the bareroot form. Some shade, fruit and nut trees can still be found out of containers as well.

✔ If your peach trees haven't received their second winter spraying for leaf curl, take care of that important chore at once.

✔ Pinch off the first budding blooms on your pansies. Bushier plants and more blooms will result later.

✔ Many shrubs can be seen in bloom at the nurseries now. Included are deciduous magnolias, flowering quinces, camellias and some late-flowering daphnes.

✔ Primrose plants are available in full bloom for planting now.

Houseplants Need Light

Give houseplants all available light in winter.

According to a Pennsylvania State University correspondence course on houseplants, food production goes on only in daylight. Growth depends mostly on food supplies. Food making occurs rapidly in bright sun, slows as light diminishes and ceases when darkness comes.

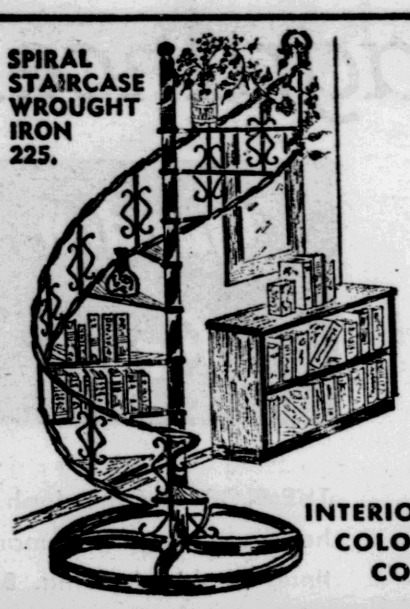

Even well-lighted homes are poorly illuminated in comparison to the out-of-doors.

A Loser Looks Back At That Election

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "I'm glad I didn't defeat Richard Nixon for President," said one of the new President's election opponents, "because the inauguration fell on the same date as my bowling night."

This gracious admission of defeat combined with rationalization came not from Hubert Humphrey or George C. Wallace.

The statement was made by the premier loser of our time, Pat Paulsen, who ran on a gag ticket and says he received some 200,000 write-in votes across the country.

PAT PAULSEN
In campaign form

COMEDIAN PAULSEN winces at the thought that those votes might seriously have affected the election. To him that isn't funny.

Now, after a hard and humiliating defeat at the polls, Pat is picking up the threads of his life. He plans to run for the presidency again in 1972 because he still is stuck with considerable campaign literature and stacks of the book he has written.

But in the interim what will loser Paulsen do?

"People ask me about that," the long-faced campaigner said. "And I didn't have an answer until I stepped out of the bathtub one morning and looked into the mirror. Then the answer was apparent — sports and physical fitness."

PAULSEN SUFFERS delusions about his physical attributes. Don Knotts and Phyllis Diller have better chances to play Tarzan than Pat.

Paulsen is appearing now in regular comedy spots on the new Glen Campbell show for a series of eight weeks.

Thereafter he is free to do as he pleases. Right now he is hoping to establish himself in movies playing the pathetic little man who might jump off Lovers Leap and survive.

Paulsen is convinced there is room for more polished comedy of the Charlie Chaplin variety in movies.

But he's still taking his political defeat hard, inventing every excuse possible: "I'm glad I didn't win. I didn't want the hassle of wrapping all our dishes individually and packing everything in the Volkswagen and driving all the way to Washington.

"In a way President Nixon is lucky. He looked tired at the inauguration. But he's got the next four years to sleep."

Gets to a Major Cause of Hemorrhoids

Now! Most complete 3-way relief!

Important development: unlike every other hemorrhoid product, Counternoid™ works in 3 ways:
1. Lessens pain fast.
2. Coats, soothes and protects injured tissue.
3. Gets to a major cause of hemorrhoids: painful hard constipation.

In hospital X-ray tests, doctors have demonstrated that the exclusive Counternoid formulation with DSS₃₅™ penetrates in minutes to the top of the rectal area to soften the stool and ease the bowel movement, to make natural healing possible.

Remember: Counternoid. For temporary relief of minor hemorrhoid troubles. The most complete 3-way relief you can get without a prescription or without surgery. At all drug counters.
